PRAYING FOR NIXON

The National Prayer and Fast Committee joined one of President Nixon's staunchest supporters, Rabbi Baruch Korff, on the steps of the Capitol to begin a three-day vigil of prayer and fasting in support of President Nixon and "Congressional sensitivity to God's guidance on the crucial decisions facing Congress this month." Here Neil Salonen, president of the committee and his wife begin the vigil.

Greece returning power to civilians

Ex-premier called back from exile to take charge

ATHENS (UPI) — The Greek armed forces announced today it was turning over power to a civilian government.

Exiled ex-Premier Constantin Karamanlis was asked today to form a new Greek government and he is returning to Athens tonight, his spokesman said in Paris.

The announcement came during a recess in an emergency meting of former political leaders with Greek government and military leaders. They had been in session four hours when the announcement came.

The announcement said:

"The Greek armed forces, in view of the situation in which the country finds itself, has decided to entrust a civilian government with the running of the country. For this reason, they called in former political leaders and prime ministers for consultation. The meeting, which recessed at 1745, will resume at 2000. (noon EDT).

Athens had seethed with rumors of a coup or a change in government for two days and the United States asked the Greek government to permit chartered airliners to use Athens airport to evacuate some of the thousands of tourists stranded there since the Cyprus crisis erupted a week ago.

The airport was closed to regularly scheduled flights at a time when there was evidence of intensified military and political activity in the Athens area. U.S. airlines were alerted to rescue the American tourists.

President Gen. Phaedon Gizikis and armed forces chief Gen. Gregorios Bonanos called the meeting of "national urgency" which included opponents of the military regime.

Strongman Brig. Gen. Dimitrios Ioannides who staged the last coup did not attend the meeting. Political observers said this apparently was because he is not one of the leaders of the armed forces and is only a brigadier.

Today's emergency meeting was the first such since the 1967 army coup and it reinfored belief there would be a change of government.

Burglary suspect cons his way out of court

A group of Ontario residents and police chased down a suspected burglar Monday—only to have him talk himself out of jail and finally escape custody with a fake promise to pay a traffic fine.

Ontario police and San Bernardino County authorities are looking for Manuel Albert Medina, 24, of 11186 Tudor St., Ontario. An arrest warrant has been issued charging Medina with burglary.

Officers said he originally was captured in the area of Sunkist and Plum streets. He got away at West Valley Municipal court.

According to police, Medina entered a garage at 308 E. Sunkist St. about 8:30 a.m. Monday. Medina was seen by a resident rolling a lawnmower and edger out of the garage owned by Mrs. Margarita Ortiz at the Sunkist Street address.

The resident called Mrs. Ortiz, who ran out of her house and confronted the suspect. He ran.

Numerous residents in the neighborhood began chasing the suspect down the street just as Ontario Police Officer Myrl Walter pulled up. A short time later Medina was cornered in a wash house behind a residence at 521 E. Park St. Medina cowering behind a wash board and his shirt was arrested by Officer Walter and taken to the Ontario Police Department for questioning.

At the police department, according to Detective Sgt. Don Manning, Medina told officers that he had a "proposition" for them if they didn't put him in jail. Medina, according to Manning, promised he would help officers make several buys of narcotics from suspected drug pushers.

On the basis of Medina's promise, Ontario police called in San Bernardino County Narcotics Task Force officers to set up the buy program with Medina as their go-between.

While enroute to put the buy program into effect, Medina talked the task force officers into letting him go into the West Valley Municipal Court to pay a traffic ticket.

Medina went in the back entrance of the court unescorted, and kept on going out the front door, to escape.

Manning said an arrest warrant for Medina has been issued.

"Sometimes you've just got to take a chance in this business," said Manning.

Group gathers to pray for Nixon at Capitol

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A young, well-scrubbed crowd spread over the East Front steps of the Capitol Tuesday and with hymns and prayers asked America to solve Watergate problems with faith and love.

The youngsters, members or supporters of the Unification Church International founded by Rev. Sun Myung Moon, were midway through their three-day "national prayer and fast for the Watergate crisis."

They contend impeachment of President Nixon is the wrong answer and they want members of Congress to "forgive, love, and unite."

"Impeachment is a very difficult and complex thing," Denise Schneps of the church's Washington staff, said. "We want God's will to govern. We do not support impeachment. We feel that would weaken the presidency —the position of the presidency."

If Nixon has done something wrong, she said, "then let him repent to God."

The crowd seemed to be mostly of college age —young men mostly in suits, young women in dresses or slacks, most of them holding placards.

Capitol police kept the crowd inside yellow ropes and stanchions so that an aisle remained open for tourists to climb the steps into the Capitol entrance.

The prayer vigil began Monday. The demonstrators agreed to go through Wednesday with only water to drink and no solid food. One girl fainted but the group "held up really well, fantastically well," Miss Schneps said.

Many of the crowd held up placards with photographs of members of Congress. "I am praying for ... " the placard would say, and then the picture and identification of a congressman, different for each placard, followed.

"Let God Decide," some signs said. "God Bless President Nixon."

Retail food prices drop during June

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Another dip in farm prices pulled down the retail cost of an average Ameraican family's food market basket by $2 in June, the Agriculture Department reported today. This left the food basket annual rate at $1,731.

The decline would have been four times as large if an $8 drop in the value of raw farm products in the market basket had not been largely wiped out by a $6 increase in charges for processing, handling and retailing of foods, officials indicated.

The market basket, which represents a collection of farm-produced foods to supply a theoretical household of 3.2 persons for a year, cost consumers $214, or 14.1 per cent more, in June than a year earlier. Since January of this year, however, the increase has been only $51, or 3 per cent.

All of the increases in retail food costs over the past year, according to market basket averages, were traceable to rising market spreads which advanced while farm prices were falling in the first half of the year. Officials said June marketing spreads were 28.2 per cent wider than a year earlier while farm prices were 2.2 per cent below a year earlier.

Officials have warned consumers to expect some future increases in retail prices. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz pointed out that farm prices for cattle and hogs rose in late June and July, foreshadowing later hikes at the retail level.

The department also released a booklet which officials billed as containing "the real facts" about what's been happening to food prices.

According to the pamphlet, prices are up because of the following reasons:

—Consumers are earning more money and "bidding" more for food

—Foreign demand for U.S. farm products has increased

—Poor Americans are getting more food aid

—Food production dropped slightly last year

—Costs charged by middlemen and retailers have increased.

Impeachment debate will be televised

NEW YORK (UPI) — The three commercial television works will rotate live coverage of the House Judiciary Committee's debate on the articles of impeachment Wednesday.

Under the rotation ABC will handle the first day's coverage followed by CBS and then NBC.

Thundershowers, hot weather will continue

Hot, humid and smoggy weather and a chance of thundershowers are in store for valley communities through Wednesday.

Thundershowers and sprinkles may result today and Wednesday afternoon from the unsettled weather caused from storm systems off the coast of Mexico.

The weatherman said valley residents can anticipate high temperatures near 91 degrees and a humidity level near 30 per cent through Wednesday but the trend may continue over the next five days.

Forecaster Wilber Shigihara said only a Santa Ana type dry weather condition will dry out the moisture system that has entered the area from the Mexico storms.

Shigihara said both temperatures and humidity levels are above normal. Temperatures should be in thhe mid 80s and humidity readings near 25 per cent.

Some communities in the valley reported thundershowers and sprinkles Monday afternoon and evening but the official weather station at Cal Poly Pomona reported no measuarable rainfall.

The San Bernardino Air Pollution Control District called a first stage alert today that is to remain in effect until 7 p.m. because of smoggy conditions. An alert was called for West End communities Monday afternoon but other valley communities in Los Angeles County had lighter smog conditions.

The weatherman said not all that haze is pollution and much of it is caused by the mucky weather.

Scattered thundershowers were reported throughout Southern California Monday. Thundershowers were expected to continue today in mountain and desert regions but with little temperature change.

It was 105 degrees Monday in Bakersfield and 104 degrees in Palm Springs.

HEARTLINE

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions—fast. It costs you nothing. Call Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. or write Heartline, 8514 North Main St., Dayton, Ohio, 45415. Remember, Heartline pays for all calls on its toll-free number . . . 800-543-2393.

Heartline: In the Medicare Handbook, it says that Medicare helps to pay for oxygen. However, Medicare refused to pay for my oxygen. We received a letter from the Medicare carrier specifying exactly what way Medicare will pay for oxygen. I think the Medicare book is misleading. Would you make it clear to all senior citizens what Medicare will pay on oxygen? I.L.

Answer: The Medicare program has established guidelines governing the coverage of durable medical equipment. These guidelines specifically exclude from coverage first aid or emergency equipment. In order for oxygen equipment to be covered under Medicare, the beneficiary must have a specific severe breathing impairment which necessitates the use of oxygen in a regular therapy program.

Heartline: I heard that if you are over 65 and if you sell your property, you can exclude your entire gain. Is this true? D.D.

Answer: Not in every case. This is a complicated subject and you should call the Internal Revenue Service for the exact details. However, there are a few basics: (1) You must be 65 or older; (2) you must have been a resident of the home that you are selling for 5 out of the last 8 years; (3) the selling price must be $20,000 or less to exclude the entire gain, and (4) if selling price is more than $20,000, then you can exclude part of gain.

Heartline: Is it true that as far as tax purposes are concerned, you are condidered 65 on the day before your actual birthday? Mrs. H.

Answer: Yes, that is true.

Heartline: We file separate returns. What is the amount of income allowed before we have to file? J.N.

Answer: If you are 65 or older, married but filing separate returns, then you must file if income (other than Social Security) is $750 or more.

U.N. troops seize airport

One-day-old cease-fire violated in incidents by Greece, Turkey

By United Press International

United Nations troops seized the Nicosia airport on Cyprus today and were attacked by both Greek and Turkish Cypriot forces in a major violation of the one-day-old cease-fire, the U.N. announced. A government crisis in Greece added to the uncertainty of Cyprus' future.

A Turkish military spokesman said in Adana, Turkey, the Turkish military operation on Cyprus continued and the U.N. report issued in New York said Turkish forces had reached the U.N. headquarters near the airport with a view to attacking it. The headquarters came under a Turkish mortar barrage around noon, it said.

Although the U.N. forces in Cyprus carry only light weapons and have general orders to fire only in self defense, Maj. Gen. U. Prem Chand of India, the force commander, ordered the Canadians to resist armed entry into the U.N. compound.

U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim held emergency meetings with the Turkish and Greek Ambassadors and Glafkos Clerides, the new Cypriot president of the rebel Cyprus government, offered the use of Greek Cypriot National Guardsmen if there was further fighting.

Earlier reports said the cease-fire was holding up and that attention was turning to the negotiating table. But an apparent government crisis in Greece held up the start of talks in Geneva among Britain, Turkey and Greece, the three guarantors of a free Cyprus.

The Cypriot radio announced the resignation of President Nicos Sampson, the man who overthrew President Archbishop Makarios eight days ago, and appointment of Glafkos Clerides, president of the Cypriot House of Representatives, to succeed him. The move apparently was made to make Makarios' return more difficult. Clerides, under the constitution, would be the man to succeed Makarios.

Married pupils can't be expelled

BOSTON (UPI) — Public school students in Massachusetts cannot be suspended or expelled for "marriage, pregnancy" or "parenthood" under a bill passed by the Massachusetts legislature.

The bill specifically prohibits school officials from abridging the rights of students to dress as they wish so long as dress or "appearance" does not "violate reasonable standards of health, safety and cleanliness."

Pot conviction set aside in Superior Court

The marijuana possession conviction of two women was set aside Monday in Pomona Superior Court on the strength of a relatively new judicial procedure.

The women, Gail S. Konkle, 35, and Jean Connolly, 26, pleaded guilty Dec. 3. They originally also were charged with possessing one pound of hashish. The conviction was set aside by Commissioner Gerald K. Malkan.

In January, defense attorney Arthur J. Jaffee moved that the women's case be handled under a so-called diversion procedure. Under that method the matter is continued for a period of time, in this case six months, at the end of which the conviction is set aside if the defendants have remained out of trouble.

The procedure is designed for first-time, minor drug law violators who have had no previous adult arrests and no history of probation failures. The waiting period can be from six months to two years. During that period offenders are under the supervision of the probation department and must attend drug and alcohol training programs.

The women were arrested in March of 1973 immediately following the delivery to their apartment in Pomona of a package of ashtrays from India which authorities said also contained hashish. Prior to delivery, the package had been intercepted by U.S. Custom Service agents who reported locating the contraband in the hollow framework of the box.

Morse a political maverick who even in death stood by principles

UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — He was a Republican, an independent and a Democrat, gifted with sharp logic and a sharper tongue.

Wayne Lyman Morse was a political maverick who even in death stood by his principles, in his last hours refusing the aid of a kidney machine that might have kept him alive.

He died Monday at 73 as he was preparing for a campaign of vindication, the Democratic nominee for the Senate seat he held 24 years until his defeat six years ago by Robert Packwood.

He was a Republican who worked for Franklin D. Roosevelt and bolted the GOP because he couldn't stomach its most popular 20th century president, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

He was a Democrat who mediated labor disputes for President Lyndon Johnson but ended his Senate service bitterly castigating Johnson's Vietnam War.

And, for a time, he was a one-man political party in the Senate, conscientiously reporting weekly to an empty chamber on the activities of the Independent minority.

He was a man of intense passions, once declaring the entire staff of a news agency persona non grata because one reporter had described him as "smoking mad" in a news story. He had notable run-ins on the Senate floor, once describing Sen. Homer Capehart, R-Ind., as "a cup of rancid ignorance."

He was a strong critic of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., and McCarthy's tactics, but he once dug up for use in a campaign not even involving himself an episode involving a fatal automobile accident in the life of Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore.

And, in as angry a public feud as the Congress had seen in years, he disclosed that his own Democratic colleague, Sen. Richard Neuberger, once had been caught cheating in college.

He was a stickler for what he thought was right. He raised the roof when he learned liquor was being served at Senate receptions in the U.S. Capitol, and he forced Washington police to make public the names of all members of Congress and their staffs for whom they had "fixed" traffic tickets.

Once, when he was serving on the War Labor Board, he fired off a letter of several hundred angry words to the supervisor of a drug store chain protesting a clerk's refusal to exchange a bottle of horse liniment.

He had a voice best likened to a file being drawn across sheet metal, but he could speak at length. For a time he held the Senate nonstop speaking championship —22 hours and 26 minutes.

But he could drop into the background when it suited his ends. He passed up chairmanship of a House-Senate conference committee on the pioneer school aid bill so that the leadership could go to another spectacular political lone wolf, Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y.

He often was alone, but frequently saw his viewpoint adopted by others. He and Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, who also died recently, were the only senators to vote against the Gulf of Tonkin resolution that authorized the Indochina escalation.

But Morse lived to see the triumph by the doves, and the hawks who scorned him silenced.

His biographer called him "The Tiger of the Senate," and it was his firm intention to regain that title. He had been beaten in politics before, but never stopped.

WINSOME WINNER

Lovely Rhonda Herrin, 19-year-old Los Altan, was crowned Miss Santa Clara County at the Santa Clara County Fairgrounds Monday night. She will reign as queen of the 30th annual county fair and will represent Santa Clara County in the Miss California Pageant. She also won a $1,000 scholarship.

Man arrested in near-fatal stabbing case

A 26-year-old Cucamonga man has been arrested by West End Sheriff's detectives and booked in the West End jail on suspicion of attempted murder in connection with the near fatal stabbing of a Chino man at Humboldt Avenue West of Marine Street in Cucamonga Sunday night.

Robert M. Laguna, 26, of 10117 26th St., Cucamonga, was arrested by sheriff's detectives about 2:45 p.m. Monday at 11465 S. Archibald Ave. in Cucamonga. Laguna, deputies said, allegedly stabbed Gibert Rodriquez Partida, 32, of 4576 Walnut Ave., Chino, following an altercation in Cucamonga Sunday night.

Partida, who was stabbed once in the heart, was listed in fair condition this morning at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland.

Detectives said that Laguna offered on resistance when he was arrested.

For firms with theft problems

Thieves for hire who get caught available

By THOMAS HILLSTROM

BAYSHORE, N.Y. (UPI) — There are crooks for hire these days who get caught for a price.

They steal without worrying about jail. In fact, they aren't punished at all and their best customers are the companies who have theft problems.

Firms who suspect normally hard-working employes of filling their own pockets with company loot turn to T.H.E.F.T.

The people at T.H.E.F.T. specialize in crooks For a fee described as moderate, they'll loan you one in any size, shape and age you choose.

A thief is "hired" with as much fanfare as any other new employe, he spends a few days blending into the regular work force, then is caught stealing. With a great deal of shouting and screaming, he gets fired and the other employes get the message.

"Our people are prepared to take as much scolding and humiliation as the employer may see fit to use," said Rae Wilder, founder and director of T.H.E.F.T. (The Honest Employes Fooling Thieves) which she runs out of her home in Bayshore, L.I.

"Hire someone to fire," is the young firm's motto.

"The idea is that it's much better for the employer to fire an undercover employe for stealing and get the message across that way rather then lose an otherwise valuable employe.

"Say you discover that an employe you've had for 20 years is doing some stealing from your supplies or inventory. You can reprimand that person, but he'll just get belligerent. With our system, you can show him you mean business and still not lose his experience," Miss Wilder said.

The thieves Miss Wilder lines up are mostly unemployed actors.

Her firm, which went into business only this month, grew from a conversation Miss Wilder had about a year ago about petty theft problem she was had with employes at a store she then operated.

Her first client was a department store that requested a sales clerk. After a couple of days of acclimation, the clerk was caught redhanded with an armful of hot goods. "We allowed that person to get picked up by store detectives and really humiliated," Miss Wilder said.

Two men hold up Allied Radio, escape with cash

Two youths, one armed with a .45 caliber pistol, walked into the Allied Radio Shack at Central and Walnut Avenues in Chino Monday afternoon and dobbed the store of its cash.

Police said the pair both Caucasians about 17, walked into the store and approached an employe William Bruesh to hand over the cash from the register. The two robbers took the money and fled.

Bruesh further described the pair to police. Both weighed about 140 to 160 pounds. One had long black hair, with a red short sleeve shirt or jacket, tennis shoes and a white hat with red trim. He had a "diamond shaped chin" and a thin nose.

The second robber was described as wearing a blue shirt and blue jeans. He had bushy black hair.

Three men kidnap, rape 25-year-old housewife

Upland police continued their search for three men who kidnapped a 25-year-old Upland housewife carrying her four-month old baby at Moutain Avenue and Foothill Boulevard Sunday night, and raped her in a lemon grove in the Cucamonga area.

Police said the woman was hitchhiking on Foothill Boulevard about 9:30 p.m. when a car, described as a light blue or beige Vookswagen with three men inside, stopped to pick her up. She told police that once inside the car the men drove towards Cucamonga telling her that "if she didn't cooperate they would harm her child." The woman said the men stopped in a lemon grove near Sapphire Avenue and 19th Street where two of them raped her.

The men then drove the woman and the baby to Campus Avenue and Foothill Boulevard and released her.

The woman described the three men as Caucasians. The driver of the car was described as 18 to 19, 5 feet 9, 135 pounds, with black curly shoulder length hair, wearing black pants. The second man was described as 18 to 25, 5 feet 8, 180 to 190 pounds with black bushy shoulder length hair. The third man was described as being 23 to 25, 5 feet 9, 150 pounds, with blond hair and a blond mustache. He was wearing a dark blue navy watchcap and a blue or grey jacket.

Burglars steal photo equipment worth $6,500

Almost $6,500 in photographic equipment was stolen in a burglary of Lab-Photo at 211 N. Indian Hill Blvd. in Claremont.

The breakin was discovered early Monday by owner Michael A. Yale, 18, who lives behind the shop at 209 N. Indian Hill Blvd. Police said the rear door to the shop had been forced open while Yale was away. The loot included cameras, lenses, film, exposure meters and an antique camera valued at $1,200.

Woman, male friend shot by estranged husband

PALM SPRINGS (UPI) — A 42-year-old woman was in serious condition after she and her male companion were wounded by her estranged husband following the start of divorce proceedings Monday.

Caroline Pappas, 42, and Ray Vaughn, 46, were shot by a man identified by police as Mrs. Pappas' estranged husband, John Pappas, 49.

Officers said the three were in Superior Court for the divorce in the morning and then Mrs. Pappas and Vaughn went to lunch.

They returned to a motor home they were driving and Pappas, hiding inside, apparently opened fire, officers said.

Vaughn was shot in the upper left side and police said he may have suffered only a flesh wound.

Pappas then got behind the wheel of the motor home and started driving, with Mrs. Pappas hanging out a window. When Pappas stopped the motor home Mrs. Pappas fled into an apartment house.

Police said Pappas followed the woman into the building and reportedly shot her in the neck.

Pappas was arrested at the scene without resistance, according to police.

Franco will recover to rule again--doctors

MADRID (UPI) —Ailing Generalissimo Francisco Franco will recover completely from a circulatory ailment and there is no medical reason why he could not take back the powers of chief of state which he delegated to Prince Juan Carlos four days ago, his doctors said today.

"He will be able to live the same normal mental and physical life as before," hospital director Manuel Hidalgo told a news conference.

Speaking on behalf of the team treating the 81-year-old leader, he added: "From the medical point of view, he could assume again the functions of chief of state".

The announcement came only four days after internal bleeding forced Franco to delegate his powers to Juan Carlos, his designated successor.

Hidalgo said the bleeding has disappeared, but that Franco was still suffering from phlebitis, an inflamation of the veins in his right thigh which originally caused his hospitalization two weeks ago.

Boy missing after air mattress was run over by boat

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (UPI) — The search for a young California boy missing since his air mattress was run over by a speedboat at Lake Coeur D'alene Saturday has been called off.

Kootenai County Sheriff Thor E. Gladwed said Monday night, "We'll have to let nature take its course."

The sheriff said the water, 80 to 90 feet deep and murky, gave little chance of finding the body of Jack D. Mays, 12, Lakewood, Calif.

Mays and Debra Garren, 11, Spokane, Wash., were floating on air mattresses about 200 feet from shore in Wolf Lodge Bay on the east end of the lake Saturday afternoon when they were struck by a boat driven by Cindy Lee Rowley, 20, Kellogg, which was pulling a water skier.

The Mays youth disappeared but Miss Garren was taken to Kootenai Memorial Hospital here where she was reported in satisfactory condition after amputation of her right leg below the knee.

Sheriff's deputies said the accident is being investigated.

Murder trial due to start today

The murder trial of Ronny Willis Michael, 27, was expected to begin today after pretrial legal issues were settled before Pomona Superior Court Judge Glenn M. Pfau.

Micheal, of Covina, is charged with slaying his estranged wife and her companion Feb. 12. The victims were Connie Gail Michael, 28, and Wayne Douglas Beach, 28, who were killed in Beach's home at 1612 S. White Ave. Five young children were sleeping inside when the pair was slain.

Educators meet on metric system

SAN MATEO, Calif. (UPI) — Educators from 23 states began meeting today to map the conversion of the nation's schools to the metric system.

The four-day meeting of the Interstate Consortium on Metric Education was set up to provide guidelines in metrics for text publishers and teachers.

Test chemical a cancer killer

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Scientists at the Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory said Friday they have tested an anticancer chemical that kills maligant cells without harming healthy ones.

Cell biologist Mina J. Bissell said the substance, Rifazone 8, had been tested only on chicks and "a tremendous amount" of research must be carried out before it is tried on humans.

"Its main value now," she said, "is showing us that we are on the right track."

The chemical was synthesized by Allan N. Tischler in 1973 in the University of California laboratory and is a new derivative of Rifamycin SV, used on a large scale to treat tuberculosis.

Humans don't have a monopoly on free-wheeling fun as is testified by Rommell, a 120-pound German shepherd, as he motorcycles along Highway 299 with his master, Ken Matthauser of Redding. Matthauser says that the dog rides with him nearly everywhere he goes and also enjoys sailing in a small, one-man rubber raft equipped with a broomstick mast and a makeshift sail. On the motorcycle, Rommell insists on riding up front, making Kathy Love take a back seat. The German shepherd enjoys a dog's life.

U.S. warship brings 384 Americans out of Cyprus

BEIRUT (UPI) — The helicopter carrier USS Coronado arrived from Cyprus today carrying 384 Americans rescued from the embattled Mediterranean island.

The Coronado threaded its way through the congested port —23 freighters were anchored just outside —and docked at 11:40 a.m.

In addition to the Americans there were 35 Lebanese and 60 nationals from 14 other nations aboard, an American embassy spokesman said.

They included three British, one Canadian, one Australian, one Swede, one West German, two Swiss, nine Greeks and four Indonesians, and the remainder were from Arab countries.

Lebanese security officials banned all newsmen from the port area until after the passengers were cleared. Embassy officials said they were being taken to Beirut's plush Phoenicia and Holiday Inn Hotels.

The departure of the carrier from Cyprus was announced earlier today by the Pentagon in Washington.

The evacuation began an hour after the cease-fire was due to take effect Monday. The British had asked the Americans to help, saying the more than 4,000 refugees who had been convoyed to Dhekelia over the weekend were straining the base's facilities, Pentagon officials said.

The State Department said it did not have the names of the evacuees yet and did not know if a group of more than 60 student archaelogists from Harvard was among them.

About 350 Americans are staying behind, about 200 of them officials.

The Russians will send in their own ship to pick up about 150 Soviets citizens at the port of Larnaca. The Russian fleet cabled the Americans of the plan so there would be no suspicions that the Soviets were trying to sneak in troops or otherwise intervene.

Hell for those left behind

Greek atrocities on Cyprus told

BRIZE NORTON AIR BASE, England (UPI) — Tears streamed down the 15-year-old Turkish girl's face as she waited to be processed into Britain with other refugees from Cyprus.

"I ran through the streets and the soldiers were shooting all the time," she said. "I ran into a house and I saw a woman being attacked by soldiers. They were raping her. Then they shot her in front of my eyes. I ran away again."

The girl, Kezhan Dervis, was visiting relatives when fighting broke out in Limassol Saturday. Greek National Guardsmen executed her uncle and took the rest of the family away as hostages, but she escaped.

"Turkish men and women looked after me. They were escaping as well," she said. "There were lots of women and children screaming and the soldiers were firing at us all the time."

The school girl's tale was one of a growing list of accounts of Greek atrocities being brought from Cyprus by Turkish Cypriots and Britons landing at this air base.

British-born Shirley Valdarin said guardsmen dragged her husband from their home and killed him. A London restaurant manager of Turkish descent said he saw others shoot a baby because it refused to stop crying.

Restaurateur Umit Hussein said he was vacationing in Limassol when the fighting broke out and was arrested with other Turks and taken to prison.

"A big crowd was standing in the prison yard and a number of people were weeping. This little girl was crying in her mother's arms," he said.

"A Greek soldier yelled at the mother, 'If you don't make her shut up we'll kill her.' The mother pleaded that she couldn't help it, but the soldier shot the baby."

Mr. and Mrs. Methmet Bessim, who had returned to their native island from Britain for a honeymoon, said they were also caught up in the Limassol round-up, but won their freedom because of their British passports and United Nations intervention.

"They (the Greeks) shot down many women and children. I saw myself 20 dead children in the street and others crying out who were wounded," he said. "The Greek soldiers were waiting like vultures for the women to go home so they could start killing them."

Another refugee said she saw guardsmen machinegun a crowd, including many women and children, without provocation outside a Turkish hospital.

"I saw one woman after she had been raped," said another. "There were many others who were also assaulted.It is hell for everybody who is left behind."

Judge clears Ehrlichman of charge of lying to FBI

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge has cleared John D. Ehrlichman of lying to the FBI, one of four charges on which he was convicted 10 days ago in the Ellsberg break-in case.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell Monday overruled the trial jury on the charge, tossed out the conviction and ordered "a judgment of acquittal ... entered in its place."

But Gesell refused to grant Ehrlichman a new trial and refused to tamper with guilty verdicts returned against him on three other counts in the case of lying to a grand jury. He was acquitted at trial of a third count of lying to a grand jury.

The judge also denied a motion by co-conspirator G. Gordon Liddy for a new trial.

Ehrlichman, Liddy, Bernard L. Barker and Eugenio R. Martinez were convicted July 12 of conspiracy to violate the civil rights of Dr. Lewis J. Fielding, psychiatrist to Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg, by burglarizing his Beverly Hills, Calif., office in 1971 in search of Ellsberg's medical records.

All four men are to be sentenced July 31. Ehrlichman could receive as much as 20 years in prison and $30,000 in fines; the others could each get up to 10 years and $10,000.

In a three-page memorandum explaining his decision, Gesell said: "After carefully considering the evidence presented at trial and the arguments and briefs of counsel, the court concludes that Congress did not intend that the statute be applied to statements given to the FBI voluntarily and without oath or verbatim transcription during an interview initiated by the bureau in the course of a criminal investigation."

He said the "principal difficulty" is that the law imposes the same maximum penalty — five years and "$10,000 —for those who lie during FBI interviews as for those who commit perjury, or lying under oath.

"In short, the FBI interview may occur —as it did here — under extremely informal circumstances which do not sufficiently alert the person interviewed to the danger that false statements may lead to a felony conviction . . .," Gesell said. "In light of all these considerations, the court concludes that the law was improperly invoked in this case."

Liddy, convicted last year for the Watergate bugging, and Ehrlichman, who faces trial in September for the scandal's cover-up, are appealing their Ellsberg convictions to higher courts.

U.N. working for start of Cyprus talks

GENEVA (UPI) — U.N. officials worked today to prepare the start of crisis talks between Greece and Turkey on the explosive Cyprus situation.

U.N. officials said only Greek, Turkey and Britain — the guarantors of the island state's independence —would take part in the discussions.

The talks on returning Cyprus to constitutional rule could open as early as Wednesday, depending on the arrival of foreign ministers from the three nations, the officials said.

British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan, who arranged the conference, said in Brussels Monday that Turkey had agreed to open the talks Wednesday afternoon.

Callaghan, who originally wanted the talks to begin today, said Wednesday was "good enough for me," adding that he hoped Greece also would agree.

Greece has agreed to attend but wanted a Friday start.

In Athens, Western diplomatic sources said today the Greek government apparently has not yet agreed on its position at the Geneva talks.

GOP judiciary committeemen making up their minds about impeachment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republicans on the House Judiciary Committee today officially replaced their counsel amid indications that key GOP members were making up their minds on impeachment of President Nixon.

Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan, R-Md., who is seeking GOP nomination for Maryland governor, said he had reached a decision on how he would vote on impeachment and was preparing to announce it even before the start Wednesday of nationally televised committee debate on proposed impeachment articles.

Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., second ranking Republican on the committee, said that with discussion of impeachment at hand, he felt it was time for members to "take sides" on the issue.

Hogan and McClory are considered two of eight or nine GOP members who until recently had not decided which way to vote. The number of Republicans on the committee who vote for impeachment is considered an indicator of how the full House will vote if the committee recommends impeachment.

In a morning conference the Republicans officially named Sam Garrison their minority counsel, replacing Albert Jenner who had fallen to disfavor for supporting Nixon's impeachment. McClory said they debated firing Jenner but in the end took no position on his status.

McClory said the vote to replace Jenner was overwhelming, but said there was no formal roll call. Reps. Thomas Railsback, R-Ill., and William Cohen, R-Maine said afterward they disagreed with the move.

Jenner told newsmen, "I'm going to stay on in the same position I've always been — nonpartisan. I don't know what my title is."

Jenner was criticized by some Republicans for endorsing statements by the committee's chief counsel, John M. Doar, in urging impeachment. The Republicans picked Garrison to deliver counter arguments Monday.

Garrison told the committee members they should base their decisions not on whether the President appeared guilty of "complicity of a crime," but on whether his impeachment would be in the public interest.

In California where he had met with Nixon for more than two hours, presidential attorney James D. St. Clair told a news conference Monday he believed the evidence "does not indicate complicity on the part of the President."

Republicans of the committee said they were surprised by Hogan's decision to call a news conference later today to reveal how he would vote. Rep. Harold B. Froehlich, R-Wis., said it would be unusual to do so unless the decision was to vote to impeach.

Nixon tells Senate he'll veto consumer protection measure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has sent word to the Senate that legislation establishing the Consumer Protection Agency is "unacceptable" as it stands and he will veto it.

Nixon's first direct statement on the legislation was delivered Monday in a letter to Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., and immediately brought criticism from the nation's largest consumer group.

The Consumer Federation of America, which claims to represent 30 million organized consumers, said today that Nixon's comment "is one more example of his contempt for and total disregard of the average American citizen ... it is part of a conscious policy to crush the consumer."

The bill would create an independent consumer lobbyist to intervene in government decision making on behalf of the public.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said today the veto threat would make it more difficult to pass the legislation, now in its second week of debate on the Senate floor.

A stack of amendments to the House-passed bill still has to be dealt with and Mansfield said any attempt to cut off debate would be "close."

Backers of the bill believe they have the votes to win passage in the Senate if they can ever get the measure to a vote.

In general the administration wants to curb the degree to which the agency could force businesses to answer its fact-finding questions, and make it possible for the administration to have closer fiscal control over the agency's budget.

Cookie crumbles

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon's chief economic adviser, Herbert Stein, has found a new way of predicting the economy — fortune cookies.

Stein topped off a Chinese dinner with a fortune cookie at the House of Hyun in Laguna a few nights ago. The message: "Money matters will improve after while."

"I've found a new way of predicting the economy," quipped Stein.

Predicts victory

CHICAGO (UPI) — Rep. Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich., vowed to a national women's organization Monday that backers of the Equal Rights Amendment will win its ratification this year.

"Now we have five states to go to ratify, and we are going to get those states," she told about 3,000 delegates to the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

Mrs. Griffiths is one of 170,000 members of the organization which has supported passage of the E.R.A. for more than 30 years. She spearheaded the movement for the bill's passage in Congress as the House's senior woman members.

Appeal to labor

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (UPI) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., Monday called on organized labor to moderate wage demands in exchange for more new jobs as a way of fighting inflation.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the Southeastern Tax Administrators Association, Mills said such action would help the national economy and one of organized labor's major goals.

Mills is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which has been engaged in a tax reform effort.

Impeachment vote

LEWISTON, Maine (UPI) — Former POW Markham L. Gartley, now running for the House od Representatives, says he would vote for impeachment of President Nixon if he were a member of Congress.

"I think the trial is absolutely necessary to establish the viability of our constitutional process when faced with the situation we've seen," he said in an interview Monday.

"Probable cause already exists in the minds of the people of the United States and most members of Congress," he said.

Gartley faces Rep. William S. Cohen, R-Maine, a member of the House Judiciary Committee, in the November general election.

Radziwills divorce

LONDON (UPI) — Prince Stanislas Radziwill, 59, and Lee Radziwill, 41, sister of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, have ended their marriage of 15 years.

Claiming a marital breakdown, Prince Radziwill was granted the divorce Monday, and Princess Radziwill consented to the decree.

The Polish-born prince said the couple had lived apart for more than two years, since his wife went to the United States to live. They were married in Fairfax County, Virginia, in 1959.

They were awarded joint custody of the two children Antoine, 14, and Anna, 13.

It's not for sale

NEW YORK (UPI) — Elizabeth Taylor's 69-carat diamond is not for sale. Or so says the actress' attorney, Aaron R. Frosch.

In fact, said Frosch, an offer of $2.5 million to buy damond, originally purchased for more than $1.1 million for Miss Taylor by former husband Richard Burton, recently was rejected.

Frosch denied reports that Miss Taylor, recently divorced from Burton, had unsuccessfully attempted to sell the diamond for $500,000.

Last week, auctioneer Arnold Greenfield of Yardville, N.J., said he believed he was the "only qualified buyer right now" for the diamond and said he would meet with Frosch to work out the sale. Frosch said he had never heard of Greenfield before last week.

The diamond is listed in the 1973 Guiness Book of World Records as being the most expensive gem ever auctioned.

A COMFORTING WORD—Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke and his wife talk outside U.S. District Court in Washington Monday after Reinecke testified at his own perjury trial. Reinecke swore he told John Mitchell about an ITT offer to help finance 1972 Republican convention two months before settlement of an antitrust suit against ITT.

Move on to keep CIA from scandals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House armed services subcommittee has proposed revising the CIA charter to keep the agency out of any future Watergate scandals.

But the Justice Department says the proposal has no teeth and if it did it probably would be unconstitutional.

Rep. Lucien Nedzi, D-Mich., made the proposal public at a hearing of his intelligence subcommittee Monday and said it was an attempt "to assure that the CIA not engage in activity outlawed by its 1947 charter and to discourage any future attempts in the executive branch to so use the agency."

Most of Nedzi's proposals were endorsed by CIA director William E. Colby, but Colby also said he wants strong legislative authority to protect the secrecy of CIA's "sources and methods" of operation.

Deputy Assistant Attorney General Thomas A. Hayes said Nedzi's proposal seems to prohibit disclosure of CIA's sources and methods and to ban unofficial contacts between ex-CIA men and the agency, but that it doesn't exact a criminal penalty for violation.

Ironically, he said, any criminal penalty put into the bill would probably be unconstitutional.

The bill's provisions would:

—Limit CIA to "foreign" intelligence to make sure it stays out of domestic activities.

—Require CIA to refer to the Justice Department "for appropriate action" any violation of its "plans, policies and regulations" for protecting its sources and methods. CIA officials cited their own such authority as ground for aid given E. Howard Hunt and the White House "plumbers."

—Specify that the National Security Council can only ask CIA to perform tasks not included in its charter when they relate to foreign operations, and require a report to Congress on each such NSC request.

—Bar CIA involvement in police, law enforcement, internal security and domestic intelligence operations in the United States.

—Prohibit all "transactions between the agency and former employes, except for purely official matters."

Judge orders disclosure of names in 'Huston Plan'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — At the request of actress Jane Fonda, a federal judge Monday ordered the former White House aide who gave his name to the "Huston Plan," to reveal the persons and groups that were the plan's targets.

The former aide, Tom Charles Huston, had recommended that Nixon authorize relaxation of existing restraints against domestic intelligence operations, suggesting the use of "surreptitious entry," wiretapping and mail surveillance of leftist groups. The "Huston Plan" was a major issue during impeachment hearings.

U.S. District Court Judge Malcolm M. Lucas gave Huston 30 days to provide details of the 1970 White House domestic intelligence gathering operation, or refuse to do so on grounds of executive privilege.

Miss Fonda, well known as an activist, especially against the Vietnam War, brought a $2.8 million civil suit against the federal government, charging harassment by federal agencies directed by the White House.

Part of the judge's order to Huston included a demand that he specify whether Nixon ever personally approved the plan. Nixon has already admitted doing so, however, but he also said the plan was never put into effect.

When word of the plan was leaked to newsmen, Nixon said that he had approved such a domestic intelligence-gathering plan at one point, but withdrew his approval five days later because J. Edgar Hoover, then the director of the FBI, objected to it.

Investigators for the House Judiciary Committee said they found evidence of the plan, but no evidence that the President ever withdrew his approval of it.

Attorney Mark Rosenbaum, representing Miss Fonda, argued that Huston's testimony on the plan's targets was a key point in her case, and that his answers would provide insight into the Nixon administration's domestic intelligence-gathering efforts.

Justice Department attorney Lee Oliver, arguing for the government, said that revealing details of the plan would "expose confidential informants and investigative techniques, and internal operation procedures and advisory procedures ... by which governmental decisions are formulated."

The judge upheld arguments by the government that Huston should not be required to answer questions that ask who originated the plan, who helped develop it and whether it was discussed within the White House or the executive branch of government.

Calley seeks release 'now' on parole

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI) — Former Army Lt. William L. Calley Jr. will seek an "immediate release" on parole from the Army military prison at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., his lawyers said today.

Calley, serving a 10-year prison term for the murder of not less than 22 South Vietnamese civilians at My Lai in 1968, was sent to Ft. Leavenworth last month after the courts refused to revoke his bond.

J. Houston Gordon, Calley's chief counsel, said that "traditionally, a prisoner is automatically eligible for parole after he has served a third of his sentence, which in Calley's case will be in about five months.

"Technically, a prisoner can be released on good behavior any time after he is imprisoned if a parole board so approves."

The parole request will be mailed from here Wednesday, prompted by the 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals' refusal last week to reconsider the question of his release on bail.

U.S. District Judge J. Robert Elliott, who had given the former platoon commander his freedom on bond last January, is currently reviewing documents and films relating to Calley's appeal for freedom on constitutional grounds.

Among other things, Calley's attorneys contend that pretrial publicity prevented a fair trial.

Morse didn't want machine to prolong life

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — Former Sen. Wayne Morse, who died Monday at the age of 73, refused the use of a kidney dialysis machine that might have prolonged his life.

"It was a matter of philosophy with him and the family that if it was the only thing that would sustain him for a while, he would prefer not to," said Jim Miller, a spokesman for Good Samaritan Hospital in Portland, Ore.

Miller said Morse and his wife refused the use of the machine during the weekend.

Youths held in stabbing of woman, 81

CORONA DEL MAR (UPI) — Four teenaged youths were arrested this weekend in connection with the stabbing death of an 81-year-old widow whose body was found Sunday in her home near here.

Sheriff's deputies identified the victim as Anna L. Russell. Deputies had earlier said Mrs. Russell was shot to death.

The youths—one of them a 14year-old Riverside County boy —were arrested by the U.S. Park Service in Yosemite National Park. Officers said the 14-year-old boy was driving a station wagon he had bought with $300 believed to be taken from Mrs. Russell.

It was believed the youth took about $4,000 from Mrs. Russell's personal savings. Officers said he had delivered papers and done yardwork for the woman.

Four Senate candidates to debate

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Television station KNXT will host a debate Oct. 27, between four candidates for the U.S. Senate.

The debate will be between incumbent Sen. Alan Cranston, a Democrat, Republican state Sen. H. L. Richardson, American Independent Party candidate Jack McCoy and Peace and Freedom Party candidate Gayle M. Justice.

The debate will be carried live on both television and radio in the Los angeles and San Francisco areas.

How to tell if pups' food is sufficient

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Cindy's puppies—her first and ours—seem very healthy. I wonder if they're getting enough to eat. If any one of them gets a hold of my finger, it tries to nurse on it like mad. Is this a sign of hunger?—Y.D.

Dear Y.D.: If the milk bar is running low, the pups would have plenty to say about it. In fact, short rations and chilling are the most common complaints among young puppies and they'll do a great deal of drying until their ma and everybody else within range knows about it. However, vigorous short-term nursing on anything vaguely resembling a nipple is a normal reaction for a healthy puppy, even one who's well-fed. A sick puppy, on the other hand, would tend to ignore or reject a finger or similar object in its mouth.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My aquarium gets a lot of light this time of year and I have trouble with too much green algae. It grows so thick I can hardly see the fish. Are the chemicals on the market to kill this algae as safe as they claim, or is there a better way to get rid of it.—W.W.

Dear W.W.: When directions are carefully followed, these products are reasonably safe to use, though I personally prefer natural methods, such as acquiring one of the many species of fish that live on algae and will consume large quantities of it. The option, if you don't want a tankful of algae-eaters, is to provide more shade during at least part of the day to reduce the light intensity in the tank. Algae growth will be correspondingly slower as the quantity of light is reduced.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My husband doesn't want to have our year-old male cat desexed because it shortens their life span. Is this just his opinion or is that medical fact?—N.S.

Dear N.S.: His opinion. Actually, castrated males tend to live considerably longer than those who have by hook, crook, or "luck" avoided surgery. Most humans are aware of the various hazards of tomcatting around. For cats, these hazards include other male cats, dogs (both sexes), getting lost, poisoned, struck by cars, shot at, miscellaneous accidents and more mundane causes of death including being out in inclement weather and consequent pneumonias. Another direct factor in their "whole" tom's life span is the actual effect of the testicular hormones which have some accelerating effects on the aging process.

Gardena youth shot to death

TORRANCE (UPI) — An 18-year-old Gardena youth was shot to death in a gang-related incident in a park near his home, authorities said Sunday.

Deputies said Daniel Steven Beserra left a group of friends and walked up to 20 members of a rival gang in a parking lot. An argument broke out and a gang member pulled out a handgun and shot Beserra.

He died at Harbor General Hospital from head wounds.

'Hire a worker to fire' plan pays dividends

NEW YORK (UPI) — Are your employes stealing you blind

Do you find your supply cabinet suspiciously bare of ballpoints, ash trays and paperclips. Perhaps a typewriter or two

Maybe it's time to call in a crook.

The people at T.H.E.F.T. specialize in crooks. For a fee described as moderate, they'll loan you one in any size, shape and age you choose.

The plot goes something like this:

Thief is "hired" with as much fanfare as any other new employe. Thief spends a few days blending into the regular work force. Thief steals. Thief gets caught stealing. Thief, with much yelling and screaming, gets fired. Other employes get message.

"Our people are prepared to take as much scolding and humiliation as the employer may see fit to use," said Rae Wilder, founder and director of T.H.E.F.T. (The Honest Employes Fooling Thieves) which she runs out of her home in Bayshore, a suburban Long Island community.

"Hire someone to fire," is the young firm's motto. Miss Wilder explains:

"The idea is that it's much better for the employer to fire an undercover employe for stealing and get the message across that way rather then lose an otherwise valuable employe.

Her firm, which went into business only this month, stems from a dinner conversation Miss Wilder had about a year ago when she discussed the theft problem she was having with employes at a store she then operated.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This is one of those days when it will be rough to get others to cooperate. Expect little and you won't be frustrated.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Keep a wary eye on coworkers, especially those who resent functioning as a team. There carelessness could cause a mishap.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There are some unusual circumstances that warn you not to have fun at the expense of someone else. Be considerate.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If your attitude is negative, it will have a very depressing effect upon your entire family. Look for something you can laugh about.

FORTUNE KOOKIES

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're apt to experience some problems in communication today. Persons you want to get in touch with won't be available.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Some discussion with a friend is going to be required to iron out a situation where you've either loaned or borrowed funds.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You tend to react contrary to what others expect from you. This won't win you any popularity contests.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Over the next few days you'll tend to make volatile issues of trifling frustrations. If you do, you'll feel extremely put upon.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Someone who has taken advantage of you before still thinks you're an easy mark. This person will try to tap you for something again.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's going to be difficult for you to win others over to your point of view at this time. Particularly if they think you're pushing too hard.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is not your best day for trying to do work of a mental nature. You'll fare better with tasks that require brawn.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) One who cares a great deal about you is a little disappointed with your behavior because you're hiding some facts.

Government won't take money back

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — For the past seven months Charles P. O'Conner has been trying to tell the government to quit sending him money.

But each month he receives a supplemental security income check of $145 for a medical disability.

"I wolldn't mind keeping it, but I have no right to it," said O'Conner, a 21-year-old insurance underwriter who received state aid last year while attending college.

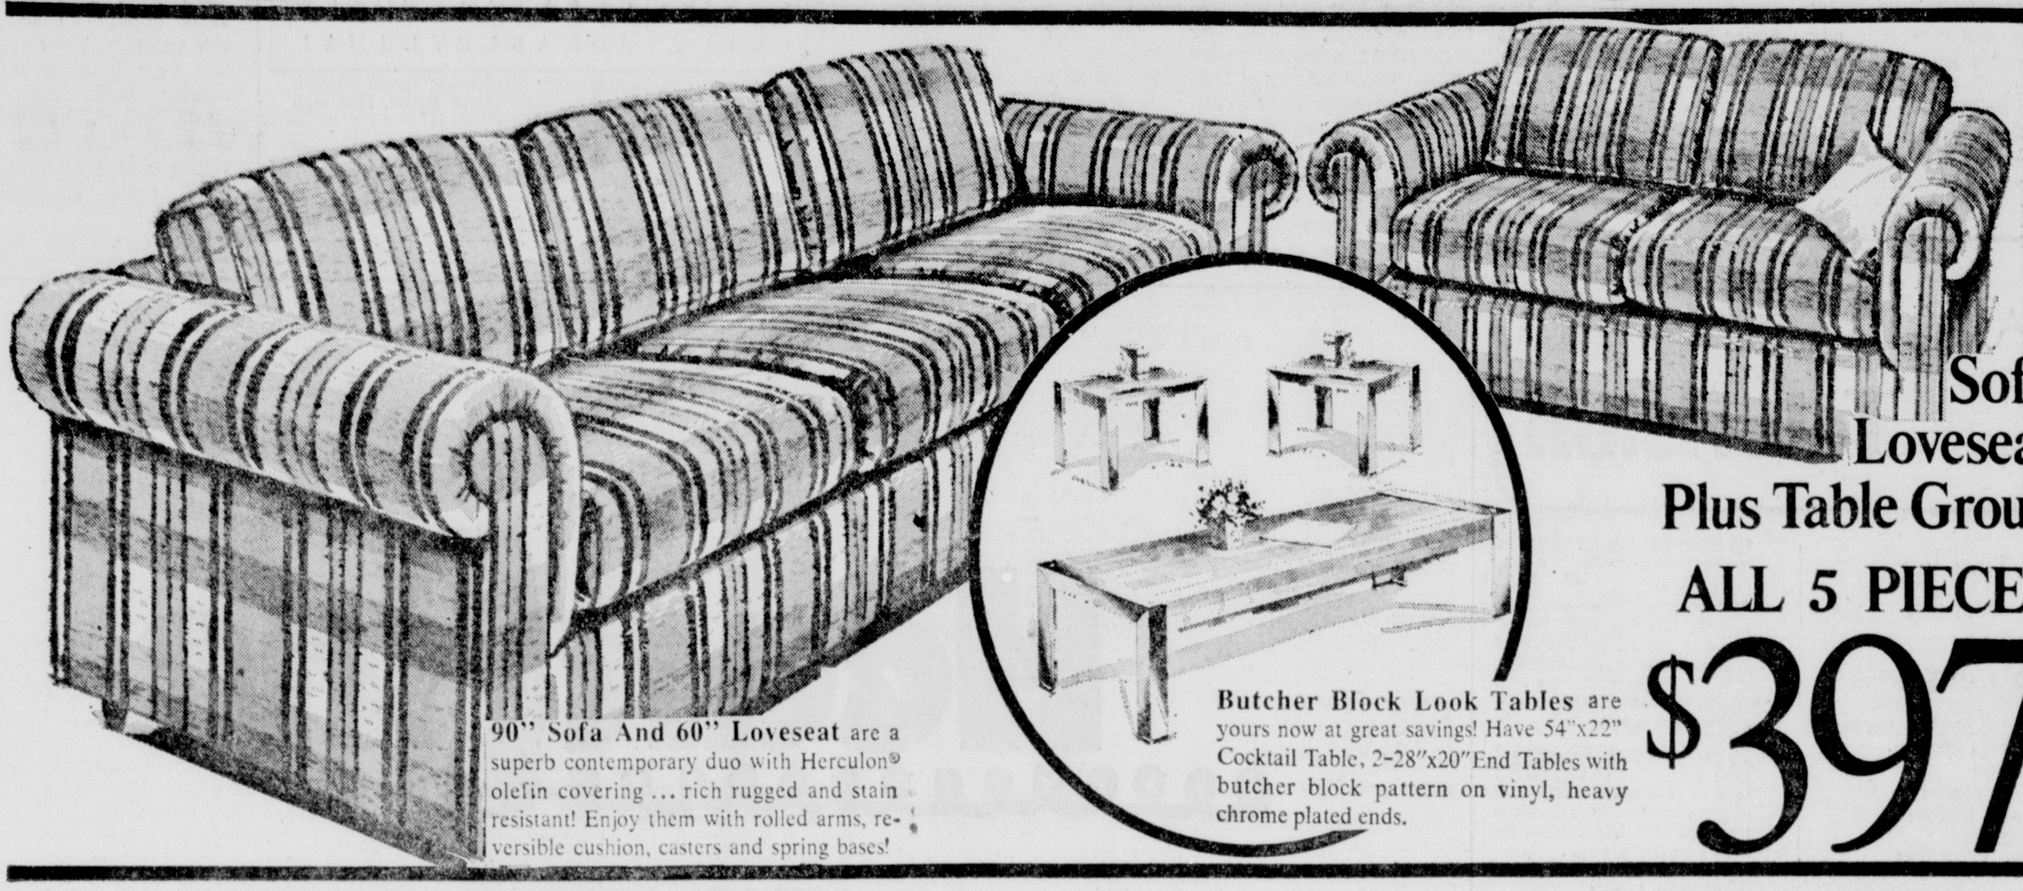

O'Conner said he and his wife, Jeanie, now have a combined income in the "five-figure range" and he's thus ineligible for the SSI checks, a fact he's been telling the Social Security Administration each month.

He said he returned the first check only to have a duplicate mailed to him a few weeks later. Now, he has a drawer full of checks totaling about $1,000.

Council upholds variance on senior citizen project

By TONY NAVARRO
P-B Staff Writer

The Pomona City Council after a lengthy public hearing Monday night voted 3-2 to uphold the Planning Commission's granting of a variance to reduce development standards for a proposed 110-unit housing complex for senior citizens.

The council thus rejected an appeal filed against the commission's action by Councilman Mrs. Georgia Grove, who with Mayor Ray J. Lepire cast the dissenting votes.

At its meeting June 26, the commission voted to approve a conditional use permit, environment impact report and variance for the development proposed on a site of more than five acres at 200 W. Drake St.

Mrs. Grove objected to two of seven conditions included in the variance to reduce the minimum floor areas for each one-bedroom apartment unit from 700 square feet as required by city ordinance to 540-556 square feet, and to waive requirements for recreational vehicle parking and storage areas.

She was joined in her opposition by the mayor and former Mayor Ben Lawing.

Speaking in support of the variance were John MacLaurin, Mark Novak and architect Young Woo, representing the developer, Urbatec, two representatives from the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), and Morgan R. Sly, president of the Greater Pomona Housing Development Corp.

Mrs. Grove explained that she filed the appeal on behalf of a constituent from her council district and contended that a 550-square-foot apartment unit and the storage areas included in the plans were inadequate.

"There is no way two people could live in this small space and be comfortable," she said.

She said a restroom facility to be built at Sharkie Park would cost $44 a square foot while there would be "a cost of $16 a square foot for a permanent home for senior citizens."

Before casting his vote, Lepire said he was not against the senior citizen complex but felt there should be more areas provided for storage.

Woo said the complex, to be built about 600 feet west of Garey Avenue on the south side of Drake Street, would include three 2-story apartment buildings, a recreation building and four parking structures.

Lawing, of 3009 Gladstone St., said it seemed incongruous for the city to concentrate on efforts to do away with substandard housing and at the same time allow the variance.

He said he and other nearby residents were not against the development adding that northwest Pomona "is one of the few areas that doesn't have boarded-up houses."

Urbatec officials objected to Lawing's reference to the development as "standard" and Lawing explained that he meant to convey the fact that the variance granted was to reduce certain development standards.

Novak and others contended that 550 square feet was adequate, saying that "the elderly don't want a big place."

Representatives for the developer said Urbatec was able to construct developments at a lesser cost than other companies, adding that the $16-a-square foot figure cited by Mrs. Grove did not include all costs.

Novak said the cost for the land alone would be more than $200,000, and for construction, $1.2 million.

He said the plans provided for alternative storage.

He said the city, through the Valley Association of Cities (VAC), would have control over who rents the units. The units will be constructed under an agreement with the Los Angeles County Housing Authority, which in turn has an agreement with the city for a program to provide housing for senior citizens and persons from low-income families.

Council reaffirms action: south of town residential

By LENORE WALLACE
P-B Staff Writer

The San Dimas City Council repeated an action taken May 28 and voted 3-2 to designate the area south of Bonita Avenue for residential use.

The repeated decision came after a long public hearing at which both residents of the area south of the downtown section and supporters of the two industrial properties in the area gave their views.

Mayor James Lough and Councilmen Marvin Ersher and Ray Miracle voted to designate the area for residential use in the general plan and Councilmen James McLean and Keith Brogan voted against the proposal.

The matter was opened up for a new public hearing after a joint meeting with the Planning Commission on June 18. Supporters of the industrial use for some of the area attended that meeting and presented petitions from residents in favor of the industrial designation.

But little new evidence was provided Monday night and the long session only repeated much of the testimony given at the last public hearing on the subject.

The City Council had directed Planning Director Mark Goldberg to present a new specific plan for the area if it were to be designated as industrial use. Goldberg gave a detailed outline of a proposed "Qualified Industrial Zone" which he said would be a new zone. He suggested that Monte Vista Street be closed off to all vehicle traffic in this area and that the alley between Railway Street and Commercial Street be improved.

But when the public hearing opened up, no one spoke in favor of the plan.

Some 30 residents spoke in favor of designating the area for residential use and 15 testified in favor of the industrial use.

The two industries in the area, Cornett Ventilation Systems, Inc., and A to Z transfer and Storage, Inc., will be able to continue operation of their business for a 25-year period but will be unable to expand their properties.

Jack Jager, attorney for Cornett Ventilation Systems, said his client had $88,000 invested in his property. He wanted the property zoned for industrial use but didn't agree with the plan outlined by Goldberg.

"My client is most willing to work with the city of San Dimas and its neighbors but we have to have a plan that is also workable for us," Jager said. He said the proposed new zoning would "detract from the property."

Park and Recreation Commission member Terry Dipple and a resident, Mrs. R. V. Taylor, spoke for many homeowners in the area who protested the industrial zoning. Dipple cited the heavy truck traffic in the area and said residents oppose an industrial use in a residential area.

Mrs. Taylor appealed to the council that members not "sacrifice the residential use for the sake of two industries."

In other action the council set a joint meeting with the Park and Recreation Commission for 7 p.m. on July 29 to discuss the proposed master plan for the swim park. The council will also meet at 7 p.m. Aug. 5 with members of the Chamber of Commerce and the Creative Growth Review Board to discuss the downtown development plan.

Bomb in London Tower, evacuation in Greece

Debra Parsons of Pomona and Polly Mastin of Dallas, Tex., both graduates of Claremont High School, originally planned a tour of the Holy Land, but their mother decided it was too dangerous.

The alternative—a 30-day tour of Europe—landed the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hull of 1220 Canyon Way, Pomona, smack in the middle of danger and adventure.

Within a few days they were entering the Tower of London as it was bombed; and before recovering from this shock completely they were being evacuated by boat from Athens, Greece.

"They were scheduled to go on a Holy Land tour, but I wouldn't let them go because it was too dangerous," recalled Mrs. Hull. "And now nothing's happening in the Middle East. Everything's going on in Europe!"

Mrs. Hull heard from her two daughters over the weekend. A phone call was necessary to assure their parents that all was well, they had not been harmed and they did not intend to return home yet.

"On Wednesday they were in the Tower of London when it was bombed," Mrs. Hull said. They were coming out of the Crown Jewels Room, crossing the courtyard into the room where the bomb exploded. A woman in front of them was thrown through glass, and pandemonium and terror broke loose."

Miss Parsons and Mrs. Mastin were caught up in the incident because their tour was 12 hours late. They were supposed to be, ironically enough, in Athens, Greece.

Upon arriving in Athens early Friday, the two women settled back on a bus heading for the first Olympic stadium, relaxed and glad to be out of England. And then the bus was stopped by Greek military personnel. News of the invasion by Turkish forces and the swift evacuation of tourists and Americans struck confusion in the riders.

Mrs. Hull reported that upon returning to Athens, the two witnessed riots, looting and mass confusion before being loaded on to a boat to Bari, Italy.

The two told their mother they had no intention of ending the tour, however. They will visit sights in Rome, Florence, Venice, Vienna, Switzerland and Berlin.

"This is their first tour and they were only gone a week when all this started happening. What an introduction," laughed Mrs. Hull.

American Motors hikes car prices

DETROIT (UPI) — American Motors Corp. said Friday it was increasing the average price of its cars and trucks by $33. It was the company's fifth price boost for 1974 model vehicles since last September.

Bid accepted on $750,000 in water bonds

The La Verne City Council has accepted a bid by the Security Pacific National Bank to buy the remaining $750,000 worth of water bonds approved by the voters nearly three years ago.

The bank was the only party interested in the purchase of the bond. When it submitted a bid Friday the council called a special meeting for Monday afternoon to take quick action.

Security's offer to accept seven per cent interest per year on the bonds for the next 25 years was at the city's legal limit. The bonds were the last of a $2½ million indebtedness which voters here approved in October 1971.

It took two attempts to sell the bonds. No bids were received the first time July 1, and at the suggestion of Edwary Hyland, a representative of Stone and Youngberg, the city's consultants, the city left the deadline open.

Hyland told the council that the lack of interest in the bonds was "no reflection on the city, but rather a commentary on the status of the financial market" where the prime rate of interest on lending money was 12 per cent, 5 per cent more than La Verne's legal limit.

He said a similar condition had existed in the bond market in 1969.

Having sold the water bonds, the city can now finish its project of providing its residents with a water distribution system four times as large as it was in 1971.

Council wants to see plan for abandoned house project

A request was made by the Pomona City Council Monday night that a proposal to speed up the rehabilitation of federally owned abandoned houses for resale be submitted in writing next week for council review a week later.

The request, approved 5-0, came after the council heard the verbal presentation of Ray Carrasco, president of Urbano Consultants International. He is the former Los Angeles area office director for the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Carrasco said his proposal would give the city control over who buys the federally owned units once they've been brought up to standards, with qualified buyers to be determined by mortgage lenders, counseling agencies following criteria set up by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA). His firm would enter into an agreement with the city for the bulk rehabilitation of houses.

Urbano's proposal involves the rehabilitation of 50 to 100 units at one time on a block-to-block basis. HUD's approval would be required.

Carrasco said the firm would work in cooperation with HUD, the city, mortgage companies, the Better Communities Management and Development Co., and others.

But Mayor Ray J. Lepire said Carrasco's proposal sounded like the kind of programs tried unsuccessfully by the federal government in Pomona.

Chino corn feed to be featured at band concert

A corn feed with corn grown in Chino will be featured at the Pomona Concert Band program Thursday in Ganesha Park.

Friends of the Pomona Concert Band are sponsoring the feed which will begin at 5:30 p.m. and continue until the concert begins at 8 p.m. Butter and salt will be provided for the corn which will sell for 35 cents an ear. Pie and coffee will also be on sale during the corn feed.

Corn not sold during the corn feed will be sold uncooked for those attending to take home.

Councilman Adrian Wright will be the guest of honor at the concert program. Included in the band's performance will be selections from "Hello Dolly," "Blue Tango," "All Through the Night," "Fantasy on Lady of Spain," and the overture to "The Barber of Seville."

Marches will be "Malta, G. C.," "Hosts of Freedom," "Golden Gate," "Hands Across the Sea," and the "Coronation March" from "The Prophet."

Pomona Jaycees name new slate of officers

Wayne Smith has been elected the new president of the Pomona Jaycees.

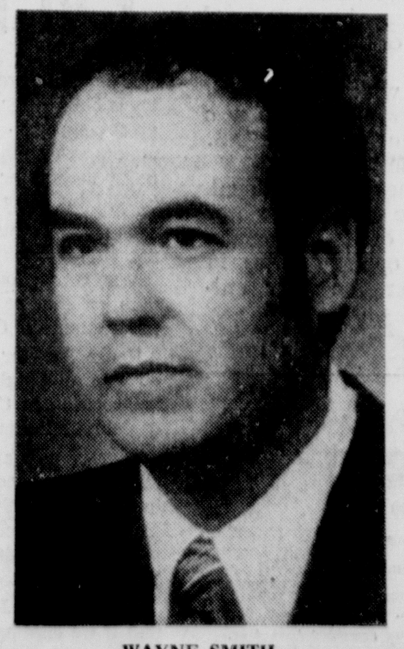

A graduate of La Puente High School and Mt. San Antonio College, Smith is an employe of Johnson and Higgins Insurance Brokers.

Active in the Jaycees for many years, Smith has previously served as a state director, district governor, and national director. He has also been active in the Pomona Valley Democratic Club and the California Young Democrats.

He has received many Jaycees awards including the Presidential Award of Honor in 1970 and 1971, the Outstanding State Vice President.

He and hs wife, Carol, and two daughters, Tracy and Karen, reside in Claremont.

Other new officers for the Pomona Jaycees, are Jim Schmidt, first vice president; Mike Wilcock, second vice president; Tom Dreyer, secretary; Sam Russo, treasurer; and Bob Castaldi, state director.

$6.1 million Navy contract to local firm

The Navy has approved a $6.1 million contract with the Honeywell Corp's marine systems division in West Covina for building a sonar operator training device for use at the Navy's anti-submarine warfare school at Norfolk, Va.

The Honeywell plant has some 1,000 workers in the production of sonar devices. Nearly two years will be required for completion of the contract, said Rep. Victor Veysey, R-43rd Dist.

Earlier this month, Honeywell received a $1.1 million contract from the Navy to refurbish a similar type sonar training device and to train seamen for anti-submarine warfare at the San Diego Warfare Training Center.

Architectural commission to review Casa Ramon plans

Review of architectural and site plans for development of Casa Ramon terrace for outside dining and a plant shop at Griswold's Old School House will come before the Claremont Architectural Commission Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council chambers.

The city staff finds the proposed development is compatible in its design and layout with other uses at GOSH, but feels that more details are necessary before commission approval.

The commission also will look over plans for demolition of a garage at 284 W. 10th St., in the Historical Claremont Overlay District and construction of a new garage at that location.

Plans for remodeling a service station at 202 W. Foothill Blvd. by Tony and Jean Alfano will be considered by the commission.

Approval of a single-faced 35-foot by 2-foot, 4-inch sign for Straw Hat Pizza Palace in the Stater Bros. shopping center at 1065 W. Foothill Blvd will be reviewed by the commission.

Also on the commission agenda are two tabled items: review of architectural and site plans for signs for the new Florence Cohn building at San Jose Avenue and Indian Hill Boulevard and review of a permanent sign for St. Ambrose Episcopal Church at 830 W. Bonita Ave.

Tattoed articles a burglar's bane

Burglary is still the No. 1 crime in America. Some 2½ million burglaries are committed every year—about one every 13 seconds—for an estimated loss of more than $722 million.

Only about one in every five burglaries is solved. Of the relatively small percentage of stolen goods that police recover, a large share can't be identified and is eventually put up for public sale. This lack of positive identification of stolen property also makes it difficult to obtain convictions for breaking and entering.

"Operation Identification," a protection program sponsored by the National Association of Insurance Agents (NAIA), is a plan to put the thieves out of business. It simply involves personalizing or branding portable belongings with the owner's personal identification number. Electric engraving pens are available at no cost through the local offices of NAIA members across the country.

After branding their property, participants in Operation ID put decals on windows and doors reading," "All items of value on these premises have been marked for ready identification by law enforcement agencies."

The idea is that, being forewarned, burglars won't usually break in for any good burglar knows that marked items are not only hard to fence but offer police hard evidence for a conviction and are, therefore, an invitation to jail.

The results, where the program has been put into operation, have been dramatic.

In the Cincinnati area, for example, in one year's time there were 12,000 burglaries in 125,000 non-Operation Identification homes. During the same period there were only 10 burglaries in the 17,000 homes participating in the program.

Wichita, Kans., reports 5,553 burglaries in 90,000 homes. But of the 20,000 homes involved in Operation ID, only four were burglarized and of these four, only six marked items were taken and three of them were subsequently recovered.

Operation Identification thus has three functions, it deters burglaries, traces stolen property and helps prosecute thieves. It also helps keep down spiraling insurance costs.

Currently, about 1,000 cities are participating in the program.

U.S. MFN to USSR?

An overwhelming majority of U.S. business executives with international responsibilities favors this country's extending "most-favored-nation" (MFN) treatment communist countries without regard to their emigration policies.

Business International Corp., a New York-based research publishing and counseling organization, recently polled 236 top executives representing 220 companies. A total of 195 executives (83 per cent) opposed attaching any strings to MFN, 29 favored restrictions and 12 had no opinion.

Most-favored-nation treatment would accord goods from communist countries the same tariff treatment that is generally given those of "free world" countries. Britain, France and most other western nations extend MFN to communist regimes but the U.S. withdrew MFN from the communist nations during the height of the cold war.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson would deny MFN to any nation that limits emigration of its citizens. The Jackson amendment is aimed principally at the Soviet Union because of its restrictions on Jewish emigration.

On the question of the probable effect on their companies' export of the granting of MFN to communist countries 48 per cent of the executives felt their exports would rise, 33 per cent believed they would not and 29 per cent had no opinion.

This is noteworthy, says Business International, because it indicates that a large proportion of executives oppose the Jackson amendment on general principles, rather than on grounds of benefit to their companies.

In its discussions and interviews with those polled, there was a general attitude that granting MFN was not a favor but an undoing of inequities in U.S. trade relations with communist countries.

"Most significantly," says Business International, "the feeling was clear that steps to promote greater intercourse with the U.S.S.R. and other communist states would contribute to more open societies in those nations and greater freedom for their citizens."

Scripps becoming one of the mass

Thank you for printing Nackey Scripps Loeb's letter to the Manchester N.H.) Union Leader on your editorial page July 16.

Like Mrs. Loeb I deplore the changes that have come to the college we knew, a college that was unique and beautiful, embodying as it did the ideals of a great lady, its founder Ellen Browning Scripps, and the abilities, enthusiasm and loyalty of an extraordinary faculty and a student body that was expected to measure up to high moral standards as well as scholastic ones.

Like her also I feel that the administration has betrayed the dream of Miss Scripps and of every faculty member, trustee, and student who ever shared that dream with her. It has done so by allowing the college's way of life to be determined by a student body so immature that it cannot make the distinction between liberty and license.

Through the hard years of the Great Depression it was what I had from Scripps that kept me from a spiritual poverty that would have been far worse than the physical one I suffered from, along with many others of my generation. And not the least of this was the memory of the living halls that were gracious, well-ordered, and beautiful homes to us during our school years.

What, I wonder, will today's Scripps graduate take with her from these same halls. How will the irresponsible "life-style" that she has lived in them with its casual attitudes toward meaningful relationships, its betrayal of parental trust, and disregard of the rights of others, have prepared her for the far from permissive world she will have to make her way in?

There was a time when a Scripps girl was expected to be both a scholar and a lady. A few, of course, failed to be either, but as I remember, their stay with us was usually short.

Then a Scripps girl sought for and found in the independence of college life more than just an opportunity to share her bedroom and toilet-bath facilities with any and every male-comer.

She expected more of herself and for herself than do those who have taken her place on a campus so "wide-open" that it has lost the respect of a large share of the community that surrounds it.

By today's relaxed standards she might have been "up-tight" in some ways but in those that matter the most and the largest I am glad to say that she was not as "down-loose" as her successors.

As a graduate of Scripps and the mother of another graduate I deeply resent what has happened to the college of which I was once so proud. The changes it has undergone have been leveling ones that are fast making it one with the mass, reducing it to a sad average.

And none of these changes were necessary. Scripps could have remained itself, apart from and above the ordinary, if only its administration had dared to take the necessary stand, however unpopular with the student body, and if the trustees had seen to it that it did. In so doing they would have kept faith with the woman upon whose bounty both faculty and student body are still dependent.

How big oil sets its own rules

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Geological Survey, which is supposed to protect the public from calamitous offshore oil spills, has turned to the oil industry for guidance.

A Geological Survey document, marked "PRIVILEGED INFORMATION," reveals that the government has brought in 23 oil executives to draft the standards for antipollution equipment used in offshore drilling.

This is a little like putting Dracula in charge of the blood bank. The oil tycoons have demonstrated in the past that they are more interested in holding down their costs than in protecting the public from oil spills.

The scramble for more oil, meanwhile, has spurred a drive for new leases to drift for oil off the Gulf and Atlantic coasts. Unless adequate safeguards are taken, repetitions of the disastrous Santa Barbara, Calif., oil spill could blight America's beaches.

A Geological Survey spokesman promised us that the antipollution standards adopted by the industry-dominated committee would be carefully reviewed.

The quiet appointment of 23 oil executives to draft oil spill standards, however, illustrates how the industry influences federal oil policies. Top industry executives and government oil officials shuffle back and forth between corporate boardrooms and government conference rooms with remarkable ease.

Not only does the government depend upon industry manpower but also industry data in oil policymaking. A confidential General Accounting Office investigation has found, for example, that the oil oversight agencies accept industry figures on everything from the number of shut-in wells to the amount of recoverable oil and gas under the ground.

The government doesn't verify the figure, GAO investigators were told, because "policies prohibit verification." These "policies" are imposed by the oil and gas industry, which supplies the government with the data.

Any manipulation of the figures, of course, could significantly alter oil and gas prices. Yet there is no way anyone can double-check.

Footnote: Congressman John Moss, D-Calif., who requested the GAO study, has called for independent government data gathering.

TIMM'S TROUBLES — In 1960, Federal Communications Chairman John Charles Doerfer took a brief yachting vacation at the expense of broadcaster George B. Storer.

Doerfer admitted at House hearing that he and his wife had flown to Miami in a plane owned by the Storer Broadcasting Company and had gone yachting and golfing in the Keys aboard Storer's cabin cruiser Lazy Girl. "This was a social occasion," pleaded Doerfer.

Nevertheless, President Eisenhower immediately summoned Doerfer to the White House and demanded his resignation. Within a week, the unhappy Doerfer was no longer Federal Communications Chairman.

Last month, Civil Aeronautics Chairman Robert D. Timm and his wife flew to Bermuda for a golfing vacation at the expense of United Aircraft Corporation.

They arrived in a company jet and were put up at the fashionable, cliff-side Castle Harbour Hotel. We went to Bermuda and checked the hotel, which is surrounded by lush, semitropical gardens. It has an 18-hole championship golf course, two private pink sand beaches, a private yacht club with deep-sea fishing boats and three swimming pools, one of them complete with a man-made waterfall.

Strictly speaking, the Doerfer and Timm junkets were not alike. Doerfer's expenses were paid by a company he was supposed to regulate. Timm doesn't regulate United Aircraft, which picked up his bills.

Oil industry is lightning rod

A storm is brewing. American industry is blamed for overpricing and underproducing, for overexaggerating and underemployment. Here is a big-city daily newspaper saying, "Inflation is caused by corporate monopoly."

The article blames corporations for not paying enough taxes. Corporations pay no taxes! Any tax you assess a corporation that corporation passes on to its customers. Only people pay taxes!

House Speaker Carl Albert from the oil state of Oklahoma says, "Sentiment is growing in Congress to end the oil depletion allowance."

That is the tax allowance which oil men get to encourage them to invest in high-risk exploration. Take that depletion allowance away and who will pay for finding and producing more oil? You will.

Energy boss John Sawhill computes that if we eliminate the oil depletion allowance the price of crude will go up $1.35 a barrel, the price of gasoline another three cents a gallon.

During any campaign year politicians who think you don't know any better will promise to "tax big business." This year you tell those campaigners that big business pays no taxes and never has; only people pay taxes.

It is the American economic system which is being challenged; the oil industry is merely the lightning rod. The Arabs have turned our Mideast oil supply on again. Even they were surprised by the effectiveness of their embargo. Now that they know the disruptive power of their oil weapon, they will not likely return it to its holster. They've merely removed their finger from the trigger for now.

United States of Americans paid "ransom" for release of that oil and we are subject to political and economic blackmail from now on unless we hurry the development of enough additional energy of our own.

Yet Congress is considering half a dozen items of legislation which would worsen our stateside shortage: raise oil company taxes, roll back prices, break up the oil companies.

You and I have shared some of the exciting anticipation of tomorrow's exotic new energy sources—nuclear, solar, geothermal steam—but these at best are years in the future.

Unless we are to be caught with our pants down again, we need more of the "today" kind of fuel—the oil and gas which provide 78% of our nation's energy.

There is enough oil under the United States to last our country for the next 200 years, enough natural gas for 300 years, enough coal for 1,500 years.

Indeed we have more potential oil reserves than have all those Middle Eastern countries put together—just in the form of oil shale!

But oil is more expensive to produce from exotic sources. The cheap energy honeymoon is over. Give the industry tax incentives plus a profit that is adequate to explore for and refine the more oil and gas we must have.

The alternative is to convert another American industry into a public utility —and everywhere on earth that they've that the people pay a lot more for oil and gas than you do!

Gossip for today

Some people will go to any lengths in an attempt to be first and so it is not surprising that in the telephone directory listing you will find the name AABAR leading them all. —But strangely enough, there is also another unique type of mentality that goes all out to finish last. Just how effectively the desire can be accomplished is strikingly illustrated by the name someone thought up for a mineral springs area located east of Barstow. It is called ZZYZX.

TOM TIEDE

A reward for just doing their duty?

WASHINGTON — The man in the blue bandana, picketing the White House last week, said at first he was demanding "more money, more benefits, more everything" for Vietnam veterans. Then, aside, over a brew, he grinned: "I don't know why I'm here. I served two years in the Air Force and never got closer to 'Nam than California. I was a stateside mechanic the whole time. I think the real vets deserve something, but, man, I don't deserve a dime."

An honest man. With a timely point. Lost in the current debate over fair benefits for Vietnam veterans is the question of whether some of the veterans should be receiving anything at all.

No fair citizen objects to government's responsibility toward the "real" vets, those who served in the combat zone, but it is time to re-evaluate the increasing attitude that the Republic owes the same to those who merely wore uniforms during the hours of combat.

Government benefits to veterans are a means of equaling "significant sacrifices" resulting from military service; I submit that half or more of the Vietnam era's seven million veterans, indeed, half or more of America's 29 million veterans, have not made "significant sacrifices" and therefore should not be treated preferentially.

Heresy? Not at all. Franklin Roosevelt said years ago that "No person, because he wore a uniform, must thereafter be placed in a special class of beneficiaries over and above all other citizens."

And Gen. Omar Bradley repeated it later, in the report of his commission on veterans benefits: "Military service is an obligation of citizenship. It should not in itself be considered a basis for special privileges."

These are the shepherding principles of GI benefits, yet they have been monstrously abused over the years.

As it stands today, pressured this way by crowd-pleasing congressmen and self-interest veterans groups, 29,165,000 U.S. veterans are eligible for special beneifits above all other citizens. That's 50 per cent of all the adult males in the land, and, families considered, almost half of America's entire population.

Many of the GI's never did anything in the service except serve time, certainly many of them did not serve with the patriotic zeal which characterizes the reasoning behind Veterans Administration benefits. Yet all, given the circumstance, are eligible for at least free pension, free hospitalization and, when it finally comes to it if necessary, free burial.

By itself, this is not damning. No representative government should let its citizens get sick, old or dead without help. But as it is, the veteran form of welfare is clearly discriminatory in that it rewards a specific requirement. A man who is 4-F is therefore never entitled to such. A citizen who chooses honest work rather than two years of spit-shining must earn his own burial money. The social lesson is clear: all Americans are equal, but some are more equal than others.

Those who are more equal moreover, are not many but expensive. The VA budget of $13.6 billion is already the third largest in the bureaucracy and can do nothing but skyrocket. Economists have predicted that if present methods of benefits administration continue, the Vietnam veterans alone will cost $350 to $400 billion over the course of their lives. If the money were spent repairing wounds, or educating the combat veteran yanked out of school, it would all be necessary and obligatory; yet if current trends continue, almost half the future outlay will go for "non-service connected" (no sacrifice) benefits.

But money is not the big issue. Since any reduction of the veterans' benefit ranks would merely put the needy into some welfare department other than VA, government costs would probably not diminish much.

Thus the proposal to weed out the veterans eligibility list rests principally on a foundation of constitutional common sense. Military service, as obeying the law, is an obligation of citizenship—and we don't reward people for not shooting their wives, do we?

Heart valve flaps sometimes damaged

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What causes a "leaky" valve of the heart? Just what is this and how does it affect an individual? Are the lungs affected? Is it a serious condition? How should it be treated?

Dear Reader — There are four main valves inside the heart that regulate the flow of blood. All of these are made up of to two or three flaplike structures. You can think of them as curtains. When the flaps close no blood can normally pass between them. When they open they let the blood flow through that part of the heart.

Sometimes the valve flaps are damaged or don't close completely. In this case blood will leak through the valve when the flaps are supposed to be closed. This is called a "leaky valve."

Damaged valves can be caused by many different things. In young people the most common cause is rheumatic heart disease. When a person has a heart attack, the control of the valve flaps can be affected so they don't fit together properly and cause a leaky valve even after the heart attack is over. If the heart enlarges as in heart failure, the valve flaps may not meet properly and cause a leak.

What to do about the problem? It really depends a lot on how bad the leak is. If it is a small one it won't affect the function of the hart too much and may be left alone. If it is a large one, depending on which valve is involved and the patient's condition, it may have to be replaced by heart surgery.

If the heart is not pumping effectively because of the leaky valve it can result in accumulating fluid in the lungs. This is one of the things that can happen with heart failure. This doesn't mean the heart stops but that the heart muscle is not strong enough to pump as much blood as it needs. Medicine often helps this problem. By strengtening the heart the fluid is pumped out of the lungs and conditions return to near normal.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I think I might have cancer of the rectum. When I move my bowels there is usually blood. This only happens once in a while. I am 15 and no one in my family has ever had cancer. Is there any other way I can tell if I have it before going for a checkup? Could this be something other than cancer? Would you please hurry with this answer, it's very important to me.

Dear Reader — There is only one thing to do about bleeding from the rectum, get an examination. That is true for all ages. It is less likely that you have cancer of the rectum, but it can and does occur in young adults.

Even if you don't have cancer, it is still important to find out what is causing the bleeding. The most common cause is hemorrhoids. You can have those internally where you can't see them. However, cancer of the rectum can cause pressure on the viens in the rectum and cause hemorrhoids. So you shouldn't neglect having an examination just because you think it's hemorrhoids. Early diagnosis of cancer of the rectum often means it can be cured. Letting it go can be a disaster.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of The Progress-Bulletin P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on hemorrhoids, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Hemorrhoids" booklet.

Don't just bug mosquitoes, clean them out

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — If mosquitoes are really bugging you this summer, don't rely simply on such traditional means of retaliation as bug spray, leading entomologists advise. They say you've got to hit them where they live.

Alvin Therrien of the Department of Public Health and Harold Newsom of Michigan State University, both entomologiste, said that chemical sprays, lotions, fogs and most conventional anti-mosquito steps are only temporary and not all that effective.

Private contractors often charge high fees to place insecticide sprays and fogs around a lake or a patio. But those efforts are aimed at adult mosquitoes and don't get at the source of the problem —the breeding grounds.

In addition, spraying and fogging have to be repreated periodically.

Homeowners who want to try their own pest control program should try to eliminate places where water can gather —like old tires, abandoned automobiles, old flowerpots, rain gutters and similar spots. All species of mosquitoes need some body of water to raise their young, Therrien said.

What do you think of the suggestion that classical music should be played as a background to professional boxing matches? Neither do I. That's done in Thailand, however. There, the fighters kick, knee and elbow jab while the instruments reverberate in a most remarkable manner.

Q. "HOW DID actor Glenn Ford get into show business?"

A. His first such job was manager of a burlesque house in San Francisco.

Q. "DON'T most people die if hit by sharks?"

A. Not most. But 38 per cent do. Loss of blood is why, generally.

SAILBOATS

Client contends sailboats are the most dangerous of the vessels. Can't be right. Three out of five drownings involve motor driven craft. One out of five, rowboats. Canoes and rafts, almost all the other deaths. Sailboats figure in fewer than half a dozen water fatalities per year. Imagine that's because sailboaters have to be pretty bright to get out there in the first place. But further, they pay attention to the shape of the water and the wind, relying on same as though upon some godliness. Motorboaters trust too much in personal power. Part Two of this sermon will be delivered in the near future. Let us pause now, please, for a moment of meditation.

Opening lead—10♦

In a beginners' game South will get to four spades. The bidding is just about automatic. He will win the diamond lead, draw trumps and lead a club toward dummy's king. Beginner West will hop up with his ace and South will make his contract. If West is smart enough to duck, dummy's king will win the trick, but the defense will now collect two tricks in each minor suit.

A good South will force the defense to lead clubs. After drawing trumps he will cash the high hearts and ruff the last one. Then he will lead a diamond. East will take two diamond tricks and shift to a club.

If East is right on his toes he will lead the eight and no matter what South does the contract will fail. If East isn't at his best he will lead the six. South will play low. West's best play will be the jack but it won't be good enough. Dummy's king will win the trick and the suit will be led back. South's queen-nine will be able to handle whatever card is played by East and the contract will wheel in.

Incidentally, this hand has all sorts of possibilities. We will play it again tomorrow against slightly different East-West holdings.

EVERY DAY 1,000 MORE CHEVROLETS ARE BOUGHT THAN ANY OTHER CAR.

IF YOU DIDN'T KNOW THAT, DOESN'T IT MAKE SENSE TO FIND OUT WHY?

Our cars. No matter how many reasons we could give you, it all comes back to our cars. They're the real reason Chevrolet's so far ahead of anybody else as usual, based on latest dealer reported sales for the 1974 model year through July 10.

Car buyers are great shoppers. They look and visit, drive and compare. And then they buy more Impalas than any other regular-size car. Paced by such favorites as Chevelle and Monte Carlo, they choose half again as many mid-size Chevrolets. And they make Vega the most popular little car in America.

Anybody could lead in one kind of car. But when you're the industry leader and have so much going for you in cars of all sizes, it's got to be more than a coincidence. It's got to be the cars.

Our selections. First, there's the kind of choice Chevrolet gives you: Caprices, Impalas, Chevy Wagons, Chevelle Malibus, Laguna Type S-3s, Monte Carlos, Novas, Camaros, Vegas, Woody Wagons and Corvettes.

Then there's the kind of choice Chevrolet dealers can give you: models, options, interiors, colors, engines—chances are they have in stock what you want, when you want it. Which is usually immediately, right? Our dealers give you the kind of advantage that their kind of volume gives them.

We want to sell cars. You want to save money. It's that simple. We call it our Year-End Savings Plan. Every year about this time Chevrolet dealers really pull out the stops to make buying a new car a nice thing to do. And an easy thing on your budget.

The 1974 model year is drawing to a close. It's the time of year a lot of smart car buyers purposely wait for. And they sure won't be disappointed this year. Selections are huge right now. And you'll find one outstanding value after another.

See your Chevy dealer some day this week. That's the day we're planning on being able to say 1,001 more Chevrolets were bought than any other car.

CHEVROLET MAKES SENSE FOR AMERICA. Chevrolet

The right to marry

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I know it's not right to live with anger and resentment but I'm finding it so difficult to forgive my husband for not telling me that my 68-year old mother was planning to marry a man she had known only two months. Now it's too late for me to do anything as the wedding is over. I've been miserable ever since I finally got the news from a friend in Florida where my mother lives. I feel that both she and my husband have failed me and I'm not only angry, but hurt.

My mother's behavior embarrasses me and I've been unable to tell any of my close friends about it because I'm sure they'll find this as strange as I do. My husband knows how close I was to my mother and if he'd had the guts to tell me about this beforehand I know I could have discussed this with her and maybe prevented a tragic mistake.—K.M.

Dear K.M.: It is often difficult for adults to realize that their parents have a right to their own lives and freedom. This seems an odd thing to say, but many middle-aged Americans hang on to their parents as if the parents were the children rather than independent, mature adults.

This may have something to do with our preoccupation with staying young ourselves. On the one hand, middle-aged persons may still run to their parents like small children in need of guidance. On the other hand, they refuse to allow their parents self-determination. Like small children, they resist the notion that their parents might have any sexual interest.

There's no reason why your mother shouldn't have remarried and it is childish for you to be embarrassed by the fact that she is capable of love and affection and sex. Healthy men and women can enjoy sexual relations as long as they live and there is no reason they should be deprived of companionship, whatever their age.

I think it's important to reexamine your own attitudes about your mother; it might give you some insight into yourself, your problems and your marriage.

I assume your husband didn't tell you because he was aware of what your reaction might be. He might have been trying to protect your mother from possible interference or he might have been hesitant to deliver what he knew you would consider "bad" news. He is not alone in not wanting to relay bad tidings, for most people are reluctant to deliver undesirable messages.

In recent studies psychologists found that the mood of the receiver played an important part in whether or not certain news was delivered. Somewhat curiously, subjects were much more inclined to communicate any given message to a sad person than to a happy one.

Possibly your husband just wouldn't stand to make you unhappy and anxious over something that he may have considered "good" news, rather than "bad" news. Whatever his reasons, the fact that you didn't know of your mother's plans may have worked to your advantage as well as your mother's. No matter how good your intentions, she probably would have deeply resented any interference in her private life.

We can learn from resentment and anger, and if you analyze why you're overreacting to your husband's behavior and your mother's, you may be able to grow and mature. With new awareness, you may also become a happier, more relaxed individual.

Sally Wignall wed on college campus

Bridges Hall of Music on the Pomona College campus in Claremont was the setting for the marriage of Miss Sally Lenore Wignall and William Ernest Dix.

The brother of the bride, the Rev. Rex S. Wignall, performed the double-ring rites.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Rex Wiley Wignall of Claremont and the late Rex. W. Wignall, was given in marriage by her uncle, Blake P. Sanborn. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dix of Western Springs, Ill.

A gown of ivory organza with a scoop neck and venise lace panels to the hem of the A-line skirt was worn by the bride. Long, deep puffed, lace-trimmed sleeves enhanced the formal gown. The bride's cap of lace was trimmed with flowers and held a cathedral veil in place.

The bride carried a nosegay bouquet of white rosebuds, combined with gold, coral, blue and burgandy mixed spring flowers.

Mrs. Richard Contreras was matron of honor.

Serving as best man was Gene Whitehorn of Chicago. Ushers were Craig and David Sanborn of Lafayette, Richard contreras of Sacramento and Jay Robertson of San Francisco.

A reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Burton in Claremont honored the newlyweds who honeymooned at Laguna Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Dix will reside at 109 E. 77th St., New York City, N.Y.

MRS. WILLIAM ERNEST DIX

Claremont Music Festival

Libove brilliant in Berg concerto

By RALPH PIERCE

Friday's night's concert in Bridges Hall, Pomona College, by the Claremont Festival Orchestra could well turn out to be the peak of this season's series. The featured work was the Alban Berg Concerto for Violin and Orchestra, which was played by Charles Libove with Giora Bernstein conducting the festival orchestra.

Libove's concerto performances have become an annual event during the festivals and this one easily topped his previous successes. Of the students of Arnold Schoenberg who adopted his "12th tone row" composing technique, Berg succeeded in making his sound quite unique and individual. Unlike some contemporaries who sometimes write music which asks the soloist to sacrifice lyricism in favor of special effects, Berg wrote for the violin in a way which exploited its lyric possibilities to the ultimate. Libove accepted the challenge and gave a truly memorable performance of the difficult and seldom performed work. The orchestra rose to the occasion and played in a way which would meet the performance standards of most professional orchestras.

In one of the movements of the concerto the composer utilized the theme of the German chorale, "Es ist genug." This could be the reason that the concert opened with the Bach Cantata No. 60 which uses this same chorale. The cantata was the least effective offering of the evening program in spite of some truly outstanding singing by tenor Michael Sells and bass Paul Hinshaw.

The closing work on the program was the Mozart Symphony in C, K. 424, the "linz." In this we heard the orchestra again in its customary fresh and enthusiastic style of playing. It was good to hear this work played by a small group of players rather than in the large-sized orchestras which we generally hear. The size of the ensemble and the dedication of the players provided an interpretation which was a delight to hear and projected the bright and crisp sound that makes for a first class Mozart performance. Bernstein acknowledge the enthusiastic ovation following the performance with his customary modesty, sharing the honors with his players.

Swim star to plunge into show business

Mark Spitz, who won seven Olympic gold medals for swimming, will make his debut in stage show business with performances in the Showcase Theater of Magic Mountain at 7 and 9 o'clock tonight through Sunday.

Co-starring with Spitz will be the Mike Curb Congregation and Lori Lynn Ray, world toy hoop champion.

Tickets to the Valencia amusement park—$5.95 for adults, $4.95 for children—include entry to the show, plus unlimited use of the 45 rides and attractions. The Magical Circus and performing animals are offered at the theater in the afternoon.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The usual midsummer rise in stocks, which appeared to be getting underway a few weeks ago, still is to come," says W. E. Hutton & Co. The firm predicts the Dow Jones industrials could move up to the 900 to 940 range in the next three to five weeks. Since most stocks are sold-out, "a little buying (would have) a marked effect on prices and accomplish a sudden improvement on trader morale which lately has been way down in the dumps."

"At least for now, there are enough indications that 'the bear' is exhausted and could be about to hibernate for most of the summer," says Hornblower & Weeks-Hemphill, Noyes, Inc. If the Dow Jones industrial average successfully tests the 850 to 860 level, prices could move significantly higher, the firm continues. "We believe that the market is at a turning point and a substantial rally could be seen from present levels," it adds.

Wall Street Briefs

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The immediate market outlook remains dependent on inflation and interest-rate trends which, though expected to improve in due course, offer little promise for the moment," says Standard & Poor's Corp. Bankers now insist that business credit demands are actually slowing, the firm points out. But even if a brighter picture is not far off," prudence suggests that a fence-sitting position not be relinquished for the time being," it adds.

Messersmith battles A.L. stars

Perry endorses gung-ho attitude

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The American League's gung-ho attitude toward tonight's All-Star Game has been firmly endorsed by the squad's starting pitcher, but one of the team's leading sluggers isn't quite prepared to take any unnecessary risks for the sake of dear old alma mater.

Gaylord Perry of the Cleveland Indians, whom A.L. manager Dick Williams has selected to start against the National League in tonight's 45th All-Star classic, completely embraces A.L. President Lee MacPhail's "win at all costs" policy which has stirred up a mild controversy.

● KNBC (4), 5:30 p.m.

"I think the American League had to take some steps because we're losing too many games to the National League," said Perry, referring to MacPhail's request of A.L. managers not to use any All-Star pitchers last Sunday.

"I can understand why Mr. MacPhail made that request," adds Perry, who won 15 in a row earlier this season and enters the game with a 15-3 record. "A couple of years ago when I pitched in the All-Star Game at Atlanta I had pitched a full nine innings two days before and I had nothing on the ball at all in the All-Star Game. Mr. MacPhail just wanted to be sure all our pitchers were rested properly, thereby making a greater percentage of our pitchers more effective."

But is the game really that important Isn't the All-Star game sort of a fun-and-games type thing that is supposed to entertain the fans? Surely, it's not meant to be taken seriously. Or is it?

"It's really important to me because it's the first time I've ever had a chance to be the starting pitcher," said Perry, who has previously pitched for both leagues in the classic. "It is a lot of fun because you get to meet some old friends in a relaxed atmosphere but when you're out there you're serious. When the game starts you'll see no more laughing and joking between the two teams."

However, one of Perry's teammates on this year's A.L. squad, Reggie Jackson of the Oakland A's, feels there's a limit to how much raw desire one should invest in a contest of this nature.

"I want to do something well, but I don't want to hurt anybody," says Jackson. "The game is not that important enough to me to risk injury to anyone. I'm not going to be barreling into anyone for the sake of an extra base. So many injuries have occurred in past All-Star games and because I'm so susceptible to injury, I'm gonna be on my guard. I'm gonna stride nice 'n easy."

Williams has indicated that he might play some of the A.L. starters for the full nine innings in an effort to end the N.L.'s domination, and Jackson isn't really excited about that idea either.

"If they tell me to play nine innings, I'll play nine innings," he says, "but I won't tell you how I really feel about that idea because it might get me into trouble."

The National League, which has won 10 of the last 11 All-Star Games, is approaching the game in a much more low key fashion. Andy Messersmith of the Los Angeles Dodgers, the starting pitcher for the N.L. with an 11-2 record, went so far as to publicly ridicule the A.L.'s attitude, but there's little doubt the Dodger righthander will be all business once the game starts.

"I respect the challenge of an All-Star game and facing guys like Jackson, (Dick) Allen and (Rod) Carew," says Messersmith, "but I'll find it a lot more enjoyable pitching against Houston next Friday night. How can you equate pitching in an All-Star game with pitching in a pennant race."

Standout in Broncos' camp at Cal Poly

Claudie Minor ready for pro football

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

Claudie Minor is ready for pro football.

The former Garey high, Mt. San Antonio College and San Diego State lineman is currently undergoing the strenuous early days conditioning and practice of the Denver Broncos' training camp at Cal Poly.

"It's always nice to come home and play," the 6-4, 282-pounder grinned prior to taking the field. "Of course I'll have to get used to the smog again. I've been away from that for awhile."

Minor was the third-round selection of the Broncos, who drafted him on the reputation he gained as pass protection blocker. The big tackle played defense at MSAC, but made an easy transition to offense at San Diego St. where he was called one of the finest pass blockers to play for the Aztecs.

"Going from high school ball to college ball calls for quite a transformation," Minor stid. "Going from college to the pros is the same. I think I'm well prepared for the transformation I'm starting to go through now. I've been preparing myself for this for a long time now. It's just a matter of seeing if it will pay off and I think it will."

The statement was not just idle chatter. Broncos coach John Ralston was impressed with the big tackle's work in the Coaches All-America game in June and with the youngster's showing so far in training camp.

"Claudie Minor is very very impressive," said Ralston. "He might be the standout of the camp so far. He looks like one of the better line prospects to come along in several years."

That is high praise indeed when you find out that Claudie is hampered by a hamstring muscle he pulled two weeks ago while doing some running.

The weather was extremely hot in Lubbock, Tex., where the Coaches All-Star game was played. It probably helped prepare Claudie for the training camp here.

"It was 120 degrees on the synthetic turf," he grinned. "I don't think we'll run into any tougher playing conditions unless we go out on the desert."

Playing for Denver, the big rookie will encounter colder weather and playing conditions he hasn't faced so far. But he doesn't anticipate much difficulty.

"I haven't played in cold weather, but I don't think it will affect my performance," Minor said. "It's like the heat. I had to face the worst of that in Texas, but I can't let something like that stop me."

Heat didn't bother the future Bronco in Texas and neither did the thought of possible injury. Pro football teams have been understandably unhappy when a high draft choice is injured in one of the two all-star games and is unable to play for the team which drafted him.

"I don't think about the possibility of getting hurt," Minor said. "You can't. You could be hurt in a car accident or slip in the tub and fall and be paralyzed. So you really can't worry much about something like getting hurt in a game."

The Bronco rookie has matured enough so that he isn't worried or making demands about his status.

"When I was younger in college, I used to think I should start all the time," he revealed. "But now I know that if I play up to my ability, I will start. But I have to improve every day and always play up to my ability."

The NFL players' strike is something that doesn't worry the huge rookie at the moment.

"As far as I'm concerned, it won't affect me at all right now," he remarked. "I have to be in training camp to learn the pro methods and plays. Later on if the strike continues and we have to start playing exhibition games without the veterans, there might be more tension. At that time, we'll have to make a decision on whether to boycott ourselves or go on and play."

Claudie has a younger brother who is hopefully following in his brother's footsteps. He is Curtis Minor, fresh out of the Marines and ready to play for San Diego Mesa JC. Curtis is a defensive back.

The younger brother will be a spectator Saturday when the Broncos scrimmage the Rams at Kellogg Field. The public will be admitted free to the event which, as yet, doesn't have a confirmed starting time.

Pride keeps Jimmy Wynn from 'rest'

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Jim Wynn really shouldn't be here.

The 32-year-old outfielder of the Los Angeles Dodgers can hardly throw a ball, sometimes hurts so much he can barely swing a bat, and the thing he needs more than anything right now is a chance to rest.

But Wynn is here because he is a proud man. He has been selected as the starting centerfielder for the National League for tonight's All-Star game, and he wants to prove to the fans who voted him that honor that he was worthy of their selection.

"I really could use the three days off," says Wynn, "because I'm really exhausted. And I could stand to rest my elbow for three days. But I'm really honored at being selected the starting centerfielder, especially after the terrible season I had last year.

"It's quite an honor that the fans would vote me over guys like Cesar Cedeno and Reggie Smith. What it proves to me is that the fans are saying 'JimWynn is a human being, not a troublemaker like they accused him of being in Houston.' I'm very proud of the season I've had so far (21 homers and 69 runs batted in)."

Wynn's season has been truly remarkable if you consider that he has been playing the entire campaign with bone chips in his right elbow. He is unable to throw very hard and there are times when he can barely get the bat around.

"I'm probably going to have to have an operation when the season is over," he says. "There are bone chips and a little bit of everything in the elbow. It began in my minor league days and is only now beginning to surface.

"I can't throw with any power, so I've had to hustle more than ever to make up for it. The players and manager (Walter) Alston tell me not to throw and I've been pretty good at compensating for my arm. I try to get to the ball quicker than I normally would if I could throw.

"It doesn't affect my hitting as long as I don't cut loose on a throw. Once I do, it usually takes a day or two for the pain to go away and it cuts down on my power. The arm just curls up and drops down slowly to my side. But it hasn't happened too often."

This is Wynn's second All-Star game, his first appearance coming with Houston in the 1967 contest. Like most of his colleagues, he enjoys the camaraderie surrounding the event, but when the game starts he insists he will be all business.

Rams work out on own

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Striking members of the Los Angeles Rams staged an informal workout on their own Monday while the team's rookies and free agents worked out in the Rams' training camp.

About 28 players, including Lance Rentzel, who was suspended from play last season after pleading guilty to marijuana possession, took part in the hour-long workout.

Among the veterans in attendance were quarterback John Hadl, backs Jim Bertelsen and Lawrence McCutcheon, Ram player representative Tom Mack, and Joe Scibelli, Harry Schuh, Jack Snow, Dave Elmendorf and Ken Iman. Mack spoke to the players after the workout, asking them to stay united during the strike and to continue working out. The daily morning drills will continue until the strike is settled.

Several miles away at Cal State Fullerton, Ram rookies and free agents conducted double sessions in hot, muggy weather. There were no pickets, although Mack had said Sunday some form of picket line would remain until the strike is settled.

A Ram spokesman said four players who were persuaded to leave camp by striking veterans last week returned Monday. Tight End Terry Nelson, cornerback Leon Garror, wide receiver Jason Caldwell and defensive lineman Cody Jones, who all saw little action last year, returned to camp.

The four players, along with safety Bill Drake, originally reported with the rookies and free agents last Thursday. But Mack and several veterans, pointing out that all five players were dues-paying members of the Players' Association, convinced them to leave. All but Drake returned Monday.

The Rams announced they will follow a league policy by allowing fans to get refunds for tickets purchased for their Aug. 2 exhibition game with Cleveland. The game will be played as scheduled but league officials said they will grant refunds because there is a "real possibility" that established veterans won't be playing in the first week of exhibition games.

The Ram spokesman said ticket holders can get refunds any time before July 31.

The Rams placed four players on waivers Monday: defensive back Ray Youngblood of California, kicker Lauriberto Ignacio of SMU, wide receiver Larry Reed of Texas-El Paso and defensive back Woodie King of Arizona. All came to camp as free agents.

Brewer placed on 21-day list

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Los Angeles Dodger relief pitcher Jim Brewer has been placed on the 21-day disabled list because of a sore back.

Brewer is the second Dodger pitcher to be sidelined within a week. Last Friday, Tommy John, whose 13-3 record is the National League's best, was placed on the disabled list because of an elbow injury.

Brewer complained of a sore back after a pitching appearance July 14. He has been hospitalized in Centinela Valley Hospital for treatment since then. A team spokesman said the 36-year-old Brewer is in traction.

Brewer has a 4-3 record in 19 appearances this year.

MSAC track contingent competes in Latin games

MEXICO CITY — A track and field team representing Mt. San Antonio College will be participating this weekend in the annual Little Central American Games in Mexico City.

It will mark the ninth straight year that the MSAC squad has participated in the meet. Events are slated to get under way Friday and run through Sunday.

As the U.S.A.'s lone representative in the Games, the MSAC contingent will be wearing this country's red, white and blue instead of their regular maroon and white uniforms. National teams from Guatamala, Nicaragua, Panama, El Salvador, along with MSAC and several territorial teams from Mexico will be in action.

Cuba may also be in competition again this year after rejecting invites to the last two Games.

The MSAC team, which left the school by bus Sunday, will return by air July 29.

Local athletes on the squad include Gerald Bryant, Victor Glover, Ehrich Scott, Andre Hall, and Pam Green of Pomona; Jayson Law of Chino, Bill Sonday of Walnut, and Vernon and Vernell Fergerson of Diamond Bar.

The MSAC team is being supported by Rotary Clubs from Baldwin Park, El Monte, Covina and Pomona plus Kiwanis Clubs of West Covina, South Hills and Walnut Valley. Others contributing are the West Covina Altrusa Club, the MSAC Foundation and Football Sports of Cucamonga.

"Since the program's conception, more than 500 youths have taken part in this international goodwill undertaking," MSAC coach Don Ruh said. "It isn't an easy trip either, but we think the whole thing is worth the effort when you look at the total experience," he added.

Cal quarterback quitting school

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — University of California quarterback Vince Ferragamo is leaving school because the atmosphere is not conducive to a football career.

Ferragamo, a 6-foot-3 junior, might finish out his two years of eligibility at San Diego State or Nebraska, it was disclosed Monday.

Foyt seeks speed record

TALLADEGA, Ala. (UPI) — A.J. Foyt, the United States Auto Club's all-time winningest driver, will try to break the world closed course speed record at Alabama International Motor Speedway Aug. 3, track officials announced today.

"I've never seen Talladega but I've heard enough about it," said Foyt, a three-time Indy 500 winner from Houston. "It's a fast track—the fastest in the world. It certainly will be interesting to see what speeds we can run there."

Foyt will drive a Coyote-Ford, the same car he placed on the pole for this year's Indy 500.

Mario Andretti, the 1969 Indy 500 winner, holds the closed course record of 214.158 miles per hour, which he set at the Texas World Speedway in May 1973.

CHILLING MOMENT — Dodger pitcher Tommy John chills his injured elbow in ice. John, who is 13-3, is currently on the 21-day disabled list and may face surgery if nature doesn't heal it.

Tommy John is hopeful about elbow

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Los Angeles Dodgers lefthander Tommy John, off to his best start ever before he suffered an elbow injury last week, is hopeful he can rejoin the team after a three-week layoff.

John, whose 13-3 record is the league's best, tore a ligament in his elbow while pitching against the Montreal Expos last Wednesday night.

He has been placed on the team's disabled list, and team doctors are trying to decide if surgery will be necessary.

"I personally feel that with three weeks rest I can pitch the rest of the year," John said Sunday. He said he plans to continue suiting up with the team and doing his running.

If all goes well, he hopes to be throwing again in two weeks. By then, Dr. Frank Jobe, the club's physician, should know whether an operation is needed.

"I don't know what I'd do if I couldn't play ball again," John said. "But the main thing that hurts is the chance that I might not play on a pennant winner. It's something I've wanted more than anything else."

John, 31, underwent elbow surgery two years ago and bounced back the next season to win 16 games.

NFL Alumni rap players' demands as unreasonable

DETROIT (UPI) — The National Football League Alumni Association has sharply criticized the NFL Players Association strike, charging the players with undertaking "a mad pursuit of the almighty dollar."

In a statement released Monday by Association President Leon Hart, the alumni accused the players of being divided in their own ranks concerning the strike and urged them not to "turn your back on the public that made you."

Hart played with the Detroit Lions from 1950 through 1957 after becoming the only lineman in history to win the Heisman Trophy while playing at Notre Dame.

"We cannot believe the rank and file of the Players Association is united in support of the extreme position reflected by the players' demands," the statement said. "The dispute may threaten not only the jobs of the individual players but the very existence of the association itself. It is divisive because the cause, by and large, is not reasonable."

The statement pointed out that it was members of the Alumni Association that established the Players' Association. Back when there were "no six figure contracts, no pensions, no benefits.

"We put our jobs, our very livelihood on the line to establish the very union which the present players have inherited," the statement said. "We passed the torch to the present players. We feel they abused it. We fear now they may use it to burn down the edifice which is pro football."

The association also called the players hypocrites for their lack of concern for the old time players. The alumni pointed out that in not one of the 67 player demands do the players make a request to benefit the retired veterans.

"How can the players, in the midst of plenty, demand more for themselves while they turn their backs on the founders of the game, the founders of their union, the founders of their pension fund, the people who made it possible for them to have the benefits, the playing conditions, the money, the 'plenty' they have today?," the statement asked.

The statement said the players, by engaging in the strike, are turning the fans away from the sport in anger.

"Just as surely as we presided over the birth of pro football," The statement said, "you will preside at its funeral."

Third Packer vet reports to camp

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Green Bay kicking specialist Chester Marcol Monday became the third Packer veteran to shun the National Football League Players Association strike against club owners when he took his physical examination and said he would report to training camp Tuesday.

Marcol, a third year man, joins starting middle linebacker Jim Carter and backup man Larry Hefner, at the training camp. Carter and Hefner reported last week.

Marcol was not available for comment but he took his physical after telling a local television reporter he would report to camp.

Dan Devine, Packer coach and general manager, said he had not talked to Marcol but said he got a call from him early Monday but was out of his office and unable to return the message.

"But if Chester has told people he's coming into camp, I'm sure he's coming," Devine said.

Ken Bowman, the Packers' player representative, also said he had not been contacted by Marcol.

"I'm reluctant to make any comment until I talk to him and find out what his reasons are for going in," Bowman said. "I can't conceive of any good reason."

Bowman said he contacted 22 of the veterans and considers the reporting of Marcol, Carter and Hefner "far from a panic situation."

"By and large our people are still strong," he said. "We're all determined we're either going to get the benefits we're asking for or everything is going to go down the tube. There's no question that management is trying to bust the union."

Devine said he thought it was good for Marcol to be practicing.

"Chester is a great young football player," he said. "Apparently, he believes he needs the work to have a good year for the team and for himself. I'll be looking forward to seeing him tomorrow."

Marcol won the NFL scoring title as a rookie in 1972 but was hampered by injuries last season when he connected for 21-of-35 field goal attempts and 19-of-20 points after attempts for 82 points. He had scored 128 points in 1972 and in just two seasons has vaulted into a tie for 13th place in the Packers' all-time scoring list.

Shoe rides 105th 'big race' winner

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Jockey Bill Shoemaker, the world's leading stakes rider, scored his 105th victory in a race worth $100,000 or more Monday by driving Greco II to a head victory in the 33rd running of the $114,600 Sunset Handicap, closing day feature of the Hollywood Park meeting.

Greco II, after racing among the rear-enders for most of the 1 ½ miles on the turf course, came to the outside on the final turn and burst ahead to score the narrow win over Big Whippendeal, another late-closer. Scantling was a close third while Eastern invader Take Off was fourth in the field of 12.

It was the first stakes victory in this country for the Chilean-bred Greco II, and only his second victory since he was brought to this country to make his U.S. racing debut two months ago.

The winner covered the 1 ½ miles in 2:27 flat, a second off the stakes record set last year by Cougar II. Greco II was part of a three-horse entry trained by Charlie Whittingham, and the entry returned $11.40, $4.80 and $3.60. Big Whippendeal paid $4 and $3.40, while Scantling returned $7.

The lesser horses in the race battled for the early lead, with Mr. Cockatoo and Strong Award alternating in front. Greco II laid in eighth position in the early stages, dropped back to 11th and did not begin moving until the field rounded the final turn.

Going into the stretch, Montmartre moved up to challenge for the lead. Take Off, carrying top weight of 125 pounds, also made a brief bid.

As the field neared the finish, nine horses appeared to be battling for the lead. Greco II on the outside with his light impost of 113 pounds rushed ahead at the line.

The winner is owned by E.E. Fogelson of Santa Fe, N.M., husband of screen star Greer Garson. Fogelson received a winners purse of $69,600.

In his previous four starts in this country, Greco II had one victory and earnings of $10,325.

The win increased Shoemaker's lifetime victory total to 6,682. It was his 620th stakes win and his fourth in a $100,000 race at this Hollywood meeting.

Smith uses his forehand for top prize

CHICAGO (UPI) — Marty Riessen may have forgotten how strong Stan Smith's forehand is and it cost him dearly in the finals of the $50,000 International Festival of Tennis.

"My serve to his forehand was a disaster and I realized too late I should have served to his backhand," Riessen said Monday night after Smith claimed the $9,000 first prize with a comeback 3-6, 6-1, 6-4 victory at Soldier Field.

Smith's win gave him 40 additional points in the International Grand Prix standings and strengthened his hold on second place. He now has 274 points, 20 behind leader Bjorn Borg of Sweden.

Smith had to turn it on in the second set against Riessen to gain the victory. After playing "a couple of loose points" to lose the first set, he won the first five games of the second set, breaking Riessen's service twice with that overpowering forehand.

In the final set, Smith lost his service in the sixth game but broke Riessen's serve twice more. Still, he had to play five match points before sealing the victory.

Strike talks in stalemate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mediation talks on the pro football strike were stalemated today with the owners boycotting further bargaining sessions and the players preparing to picket pre-season games.

Formal sessions with federal mediator James Searce ended after a 10-minute session Monday. A full team of player negotiabrs turned up at the Labor Department. The only owner repesentative on hand was a Washington attorney, Sargeant Karsch, described by the player spokesman as a "messenger boy."

The owners' Management Council served notice after three straight days of weekend sessions that their representatives could bargain no further unless the players' union came up with a new package offer.

The owners, apparently attempting to lure more veterans into camp, also announced that they will immediately implement their exhibition season pay offer for the veterans who are already in camp or who are willing to enter camp. The players have rejected the proposal.

Under the terms of the proposal, a player will get 10 per cent of his regular season salary over the seven weeks of the training camp season. For a $40,000 player, this will mean $4,000 or over $500 per week.

That's compared to the $2,855 a five-year veteran got in per diem and exhibition game salary under the old contract. There is a maximum of $10,000. Rookies, who in the past got only per diem, now will make $200 per week.

A total of 114 veterans including 26 starters have joined the rookies and free agents in the 26 NFL camps.

The first picket showdown is anticipated at Canton, Ohio, when the Buffalo Bills and St. Louis Cardinals meet in the annual showcase Hall of Fame game with Vice President Gerald R. Ford expected as guest of honor.

After the abbreviated Monday session, Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, and union president Bill Curry described the owners walk-out action as "insulting to the mediation service and the union."

Meanwhile such union player representatives as Alan Page of Minnesota, Kermit Alexander of the Philadelphia Eagles, Tom Keating of the Denver Broncos and Willie Brown of the San Francisco 49ers turned up with the Washington Redskin veterans on strike to work out at a local college athletic field.

Garvey said that in his opinion the talks to settle the 22 day strike were showing signs of progress but that the owners "sneaked out."

He summarized: "Ted Kheel (consultant for the owners) arbitrarily called off negotiations Sunday without even telling us. We were talking to the mediators when they walked out without notice. Today, they sent a messenger boy without even authority to bargain."

In New York, Wellington Mara, head of the Management Council and President of the New York Giants, announced that the owners were willing to make refunds to purchasers of tickets for the first full-scale round of exhibitions in the weekend beginning Aug. 2.

Mara commented: "The league is facing a real possibility of playing the preseason games without established veterans and we feel the fans should in no way become involved in a dispute that is not theirs."

NFL implements exhibition raises

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football League owners, attempting to lure more veteran players into camp and perhaps break the four-week old strike, announced Monday night that it will immediately implement its exhibition pay offer that the NFL Players Association has already rejected.

Under the terms of the proposal, all veterans who are in camp and have signed contracts will receive 10 per cent of their regular season salary over the seven-week span of the training season. Rookies, who've just earned per diem in the past, will start getting $200 a week.

A total of 114 veterans and 26 starters have reported to the 26 NFL camps.

For a player making $40,000, that means he'll earn $4,000 more during the exhibition season.

Under the old contract, a five-year veteran received $2,855 in per diem and exhibition game salary. So, for the $40,000 player, the raise amounts to $1,145 or $163 a week.

But for the $80,000 player, it means $8,000 and a increase of over $5,000. The maximum is $10,000 so once a player gets a salary over $100,000—which few players have—the percentage is no longer in effect. The NFL Players have asked for a sliding scale of up to $12,000 for the exhibition season.

Wellington Mara, chairman of the NFL executive committee, had already announced the NFL will attempt to play its exhibition season with rookies and the veterans who've reported. But they've offered refunds to the fans who aren't interested.

The exhibition season opens Saturday with the Hall of Fame game between Buffalo and St. Louis in Canton, Ohio. The College All-Star game, originally scheduled for Friday night, has been cancelled.

Padres option Gaspar, Tomlin

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The San Diego Padres announced Sunday they have optioned outfielder Rod Gaspar and lefthanded pitcher Dave Tomlin to their Hawaii club in the Pacific Coast League.

Gaspar was hitting .214 in 14 trips to the plate and Tomlin had a 2-0 record and a 4.98 ERA in 46 2-3 innings.

Diamond Belles divide twinbill

The Diamond Belles softball squads split a pair of games with Ontario Monday night in action in the Inter-City Girls' Softball Association Round Robin Tourney.

In games played at Diamond Bar, the Diamond Belles' Minor Division squad was bested by Ontario 10-7. The D.B. Major Division team came back to down Ontario 21-10.

Elaine Epperson hurled the win for the Majors.

The Diamond Belles will continue tourney play Wednesday night as they travel to Colony Park in Ontario to square off against Ontario once again.

Slice Dodger lead in 12 days

Reds enjoy dozen

CINCINNATI (UPI) — What a difference twelve days make.

A dozen days ago the Cincinnati Reds were trailing the Los Angeles Dodgers by 10 ½ games in the National League West title chase.

But just as the Dodgers started to enjoy their big lead, they blew it.

Now as the standings go into a temporary "hold" position for the All-Star game break, the Reds trail by only 5 ½ games.

It seems like someone left the carbon paper in from last year. Last July the Reds trailed Los Angeles by 11 games but caught fire the second half of the season and won the division with room to spare.

Some said it was a case of the Dodgers folding but Reds Manager Sparky Anderson didn't think so. He said the late surge by the Reds far overshadowed any downfall by the Dodgers.

"The Dodgers never did fold last year and they're not going to fold this year," says Anderson. "To win it we've gotta play like heck again."

The big lead the Dodgers piled up this year stunned Sparky more than last year.

"When the season started I didn't think anybody would get more than four or five games out in front—not even us—and I thought this was our best ball club."

Two big reasons for the Reds' success of late are the mildly surprising Don Gullett and the greatly surprising Cesar Geronimo.

Gullett, with his brillant forkball complimenting his fastball, is the winningest pitcher on the staff with a 12-6 record.

And who would have guessed before the season that Geronimo would be hitting better than such guys as Pete Rose and Joe Morgan?

Geronimo, a lanky centerfielder from the Dominican Republican who hit just .210 last season, is leading the team this year with a .307 average.

Despite the big comeback in just the past dozen days, Reds' first baseman Tony Perez believes the rest of the battle will be tougher. The Dodgers lost seven of 10 before the All-Star game break but Perez doesn't expect them to remain in a slump.

"The Dodgers are going to keep on winning because they're a better ball club than last year," says Perez. "(Jimmy) Wynn and (Steve) Garvey are really hitting now and the young guys now have another year's experience.

"And we've got to remember that they don't forget. They think about what happened last year—the way we came back— and they're going to try harder. It won't be easy for us. Possible, but not easy."

Nine games remain between the Reds and Dodgers and they will be the keys to the title chase.

Los Angeles has won eight of the first nine games between the clubs and Anderson says the Reds need a similar sweep in August and September. However, six of those nine games will be played in Los Angeles.

Although 5 ½ games behind the Dodgers, the Reds still have an impressive 58-40 record for a winning percentage .592. That mark is good enough to lead any division in the major leagues except one—the one Cincinnati is in.

Yarborough gets win in Nashville dispute

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — NASCAR ruled Monday night that Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S. C., won last Saturday night's disputed Nashville 420.

Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., claimed that Yarborough was credited with two extra laps. When Allison complained officials decided to rule later on who actually won the race.

A spokesman for NASCAR said Yarborough was probably credited with an extra lap but added that penalties must be assessed during the race not after it is over.

Yarborough's win was his eighth on the tour this year.

NASCAR scorers also changed the finishers in the top five.

Darrell Waltrip of Franklin, Tenn., was given an extra lap and moved from fifth to third followed by David Sisco of Nashville and Alton Jones of Peasant Grove, Ala.

Manning's decision by week's end

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Archie Manning's agent says he hopes to know by the end of this week whether the New Orleans Saints' quarterback will continue in the National Football League or move to the Memphis Southmen of the rival World Football League.

"I don't play games," Ed Keating told the Commercial Appeal Monday in a telephone interview from Hartford, Conn. "The talks (with the Southmen) are for real."

There have been a number of reports in the last week that Manning, the former Ole Miss star now in the fourth year of a five-year contract with the Saints, has been offered a three-year, no-cut contract with the Southmen totaling more than $1 million. However, Southmen General Manager Leo Cahill denied any definite offer had been made.

Keating said he is trying to arrange a meeting with Southmen owner John Bassett for today or Wednesday to discuss the Manning situation.

Keating, who represented Miami Dolphin stars Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick and Paul Warfield in their deal to switch from the NFL to the Southmen next year, indicated Manning would be ready to move because of statements made by Saints General Manager Dick Gordon.

"Some statements were made by Dick Gordon that I can handle all right, but you don't say things like he said in front of a kid like Archie," Keating said. He would not say what the statements were.

Manning, who left a picket line at the Saints' training camp in Vero Beach, Fla., and returned to his home in New Orleans, said he is considering the statements and other things that happened at a meeting last Friday with Saints' officials.

"I'm trying to weigh loyalty to the Saints, to the fans and to the city against financial security for my family," Manning said.

"It's something I never dreamed I would have to do," he said. "It's a decision I hoped the Saints wouldn't make me have to make."

Allen earns A.L. honor for big week

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chicago White Sox first baseman Dick Allen became the second player to win the American League's Star Parade award twice Monday when he gained the honor with a torrid bat that accounted for four homers and three doubles in six games last week.

Allen's stunning 1.150 slugging average for the week enabled him to share the award with Cleveland no-hit pitcher Dick Bosman, who fashioned his masterpiece against the Oakland A's.

Allen went 8 for 20 during his spree and drove in 10 runs to give him a .302 batting average going into the All-Star break.

Craig Nettles of the New York Yankees is the only other player to earn the Star award twice this season.

Other candidates in the latest weekly award selections were pitchers Doc Medich of New York and Jim Kaat of Chicago and outfielder Mickey Rivers of California.

Del Mar to open for 35th season

DEL MAR, Calif. (UPI) — Horse racing addicts turn their attention this week to the Del Mar racetrack, which opens its 35th season on Wednesday, two days after the closing day at Hollywood Park.

Track officials say more than $3.2 million in purse money will be distributed during the meeting, which runs until Sept. 11. The first stakes feature is opening day's $20,000-added Palomar Handicap, a 7 ½-furlong grass event for fillies and mares.

Eighteen-year-old jockey Steve Valdez, who won the track riding title with 61 wins as an apprentice last season, will return to defend his crown. Valdez won an Eclipse Award as the nation's top apprentice jockey last season.

Joining Valdez will be Alvaro Pineda, who won 45 races here last season; Jorge Tejeira, who is coming back from an injury he suffered last year; and Bill Shoemaker, Don Pierce Howard Grant, Jerry Lambert, Rudy Rosales and John Ramirez.

Shrine Classic Saturday

Stark excited about game

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

If it's true thet history repeats itself, then Chaffey High's Harley Stark could be among the precollege players performing in the 23rd annual Shrine All-Star Football Classic Saturday night in the Rose Bowl that will make a future college all-American football team.

There have been 27 all-Americans emerge from the annual charity game, played for the Los Angeles unit of the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children.

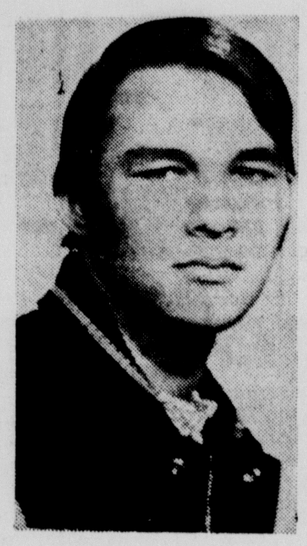

Three of those all-Americans have captured Heisman trophies, emblematic of America's top football player. Heisman winners include John Huarte, who played for Mater Dei High (Santa Ana) and Notre Dame, Mike Garrett, Roosevelt High and the University of Southern California, and Jim Plunkett, Lick High San Jose) and Stanford.

Stark is coming off a momentous grid season in which he grabbed 36 receptions for 556 yards, an average of 15.4 yards per catch, including seven touchdowns. His performance earned him spots on the All-Citrus Belt League first team (he made the third team in 1972); the All-Pomona Valley team, and second team All-CIF.

The 6-foot-5, 210 pound tight end, making his first appearance in an all-star game, is headed for UCLA in the fall where he is optimistic about making the varsity as a freshman.

Stark, who will start for the North in the Shrine classic, feels his teams is one of the better high school squads ever assembled.

"If put together, this team would make an exceptional college team," said the Chaffey High co-captain. "The potential is already there. These guys are a lot bigger and better than the usual high schools teams and while there were maybe 10 real good athletes on Chaffey's team, each of these guys was picked because of their exceptual talent."

HARLEY STARK
. . . Chaffey High

Co-head coach Paul Womack of Redlands High said "Harley is a very fine receiver, an excellent blocker and a very fine defensive player. I understand he's going to UCLA and will play tight end. He'll do real well there but to play that position he'll need to gain 15 to 20 pounds."

Stark returned the complement.

"We couldn't have finer coaches," said. Stark who started on Chaffey's varsity basketball and baseball teams. "They stress offensive and defiensive fundamentals and conditioning. They figure we don't need to go over the basics—that we know them or we wouldn't be here."

Stark is enthusiastic about everything having to do with being an all-star, espcially the team's Player-of-the-Year backfield.

The quarterback, Stark's roommate, is 4-A Player-of-the-Year Dennis Sproul who completed 200 of 295 passes for 2,380 yards and 24 TD's

The backfield is composed of Robert 'Binky' Genton, an all-CIF first team selection from Los Altos who had a two-year rushing total of 2,735 yards and 27 scores. And Glenn 'Ricky' Brown.

Brown is the 2-A Player-of-the-Year from Temple City. The 5-9, 180 pound back ran for more than 3,000 yards in three years and scored 27 touchdowns last fall.

So far, Stark has accompanied the team to MGM Studios and the Shriners Hospital.

"It was really and enjoyably experience visiting those kids at the hospital," said Stark. "I tried, as did the other guys, to talk to each of the boys and girls. I think it brightened up both us and them as well as make me realize how fortunate I am to be healthy. They're fantastic boys and girls. We played chess and checkers and had a good time."

Harley plans to major in communications at UCLA and minor in psychology (he had a 3.0 grade point average in high school) and pursue pro football amibions.

And being named all-America or the Hesman Trophy winner is certainly a good shot at being looked at by the pros.

Courageous, Intrepid in sea battle

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Two-time cup winner Intrepid races Courageous again today in another sea battle between the two leading contenders to defend the America's Cup this fall.

With less than a week left in the second round of trial races, Intrepid holds a 5-4 lead after beating Courageous Monday. The New York Yacht Club's race committee will choose the U.S. defender after the third and final round in August.

As has been the case in the last five matches between the two boats, the yacht getting the early lead finished ahead Monday. Intrepid left Courageous at the starting line, fell off and started half-a-second before Courageous.

With the initial lead, Intrepid led her opponent for the entire 24-mile course. Intrepid crossed the finish line one minute, 21 seconds ahead of Courageous.

The race was sailed in light winds varying from six to eight knots.

Valiant, third contender for the U.S. spot, is expected to drill Tuesday and resume racing Wednesday.

The Australians continued their layoff as work was still being done on Southern Cross, considered the likely choice for that nation's berth.

The French representative, France, is scheduled to arrive here shortly. She will meet the Australian representative with the winner challenging the U.S. for the cup last won by Intrepid in 1970.

Pomona American plays Ontario North

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

Two locals will meet head on tonight as the Section 7 Senior Division Tournament at Ontario High completes its opening round of games.

Pomona America, the District 20 Senior champs, will meet District 23 titlist Ontario North tonight at 5:15 p.m. at Ontario High.

In the other opening round contest Monday, Sunset of La Puente bested West Covina East, 4-1.

Action in the double elemination Sectional tourney will continue through Saturday. The championship game is slated for a 12:15 p.m. starting time, with a second contest to follow if needed.

The four-team tourney field seems to an exceptionally strong one. Pomona American marched through the District 20 Senior tourney undefeated, while Ontario North subdued the District 23 field with only one loss to Chino Hills.

The winner of the Pomona-Ontario match tonight will meet Sunset on Thursday, while the loser will tangle with West Covina Wednesday. All Section 7 tourney games will be played at Ontario High.

American has a fine pitching duo in Cregg Handy and Elton Keys. The two posted two wins apiece without any relief help in the District 20 playoffs, surrendering only 18 hits in 30 innings of pitching.

Steve Warren has been the big bopper in playoff action for the American squad, with Felix Perez also carrying a hot bat into the Sectional tourney.

Ontario North has an awesome hitting attack. They scored 35 runs in 35 innings of District 23 playoff action, knocking out 49 base hits.

Mario Ruiz, who won three games in the District competition, is the top hurler for the Ontario squad.

Sharks favored to defeat Sun

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI) — Nevada oddsmakers Monday gave Philadelphia a 1-point edge over New York in Thursday's televised World Football League game.

The point spread predictions for Wednesday's WFL games, as listed by Harrah's Tahoe Racebook, were Jacksonville 2 over Southern California, Florida 3 over Houston, Birmingham 3 over Memphis and Chicago 4 over Portland.

Abdul-Jabbar takes career average lead

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Milwaukee Bucks has moved past Wilt Chamberlain into the top spot in lifetime scoring average in the National Basketball Association, according to league statistics released this week.

Following five seasons in the NBA, three times winning the league's Most Valuable Player award, Abdul-Jabbar has built a 30.5 points a game average. Chamberlain, who jumped to the American Basketball Association prior to last season, has a 14-year average of 30.1.

Abdul-Jabbar also moved ahead of Los Angeles Jerry West in highest lifetime scoring average in playoff action, 29.7 to 29.1.

In all, 32 records were set and five others tied during the 1973-74 season, most of them minor.

Rick Barry of the Golden State Warriors moved into the top spot in free throw percentage with .88369, surpassing Bill Sharman's mark.

The Houston Rockets set a new single season free throw record of .812, erasing Golden State's 1972-73 mark of .798.

Meanwhile, 14-year veteran Oscar Robertson extended his record for most assists, most free throws made, highest average assists a game lifetime and most assists in one quarter (8).

In new statistical categories just begun, West had 10 steals in a game and teammate Elmore Smith blocked 17 shots in one contest.

Hinke KOs Rush in 2nd

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — Terry Hinke of Eugene, Ore., heavyweight boxing champion George Foreman's sparring partner, knocked out Elmer Rush of Atlanta in the second round of their scheduled 10-round heavyweight fight here Monday night.

Rush, 215, in just his second bout since coming out of a seven-year retirement, kept Hinke, 219, off balance and opened a cut above his left eye in the first round, which he easily won.

But Hinke, trying to vault into the heavyweight top 10, stormed out in the second round. A pair of harmless looking rights and an innocent left sent Rush to the canvas and he stayed there as referee Bill Moyer counted him out at 1:33.

In the main preliminary fight, Barry Smith, Tacoma, Wash., scored a TKO over Johnny Pineda, Modesto, Calif., at 1:03 of the first round in their junior middleweight bout.

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Atlanta Braves are offering their new manager only a halfyear contract, take it or leave it, and they've narrowed the field for this rather thankless interim job to a pair of diametrically opposite individuals.

One of them is Clyde King, clean-cut, college bred and with some major league managerial experience, having handled the San Francisco Giants during 1969 and part of 1970.

The other is Clint "Scrapiron" Courtney, roughhewn, unlettered and with no major league managerial experience. He doesn't have nearly the polish Clyde King has, but he's more direct than a punch in the mouth and always gets his point across.

Clint Courtney is managing the Richmond Braves in the International League now. He has been managing in the minors more than four years for the parent Braves, and wherever they've sent him he has done an exceptionally good job. Never anything fancy, you understand. Just good and solid.

Eddie Robinson, the Braves' vice president of baseball operations, says he'll name Eddie Mathews' successor Wednesday. Since there seems to be more curiosity over who's going to follow Mathews in Atlanta than in who's going to win tonight's All-Star game here at Three Rivers Stadium, I thought I'd put in a call to Courtney in Richmond. I got him shortly before he and his club took off for a ball game in Norfolk.

"What about the Atlanta job?" I asked. "Do you want to manage that much in the big leagues?"

"Has a goat got horns?" Courtney came right back.

"What makes you think you're qualified?"

No losers

"I've been managing four-five years now and never brought home a loser. This club I got now is two games out, but we were tied for first place yesterday."

"What's your general philosophy as a manager?"

Clint Courtney laughed. When Clint Courtney laughs, every last bit of him has a good time.

"I don't know anything about philosophy," he said, still laughing. "One thing I do know is that 'W,' and that 'W' is win. That keeps everybody happy."

"What do you think is wrong with the Braves?"

"I don't know because I'm managing the Richmond ball club. I'm only concerned with my ball club. I don't know what's wrong with some other one. Now if you were to ask me what's wrong with my club, what do we need, I could tell you."

"Okay, what's wrong with your ball club?"

"We need a right-handed power hitter and a right-handed short reliever."

"Whom have you learned the most from?"

"(Paul) Richards and Robinson."

"What did they teach you?"

Courtney laughed again.

Little things

"What's the use of sayin'?" he said. "Nobody outside baseball would understand. They taught me little things, inside baseball ... how to win."

"Do you think you manage like anyone you ever played for, say like Casey Stengel or Rogers Hornsby?"

"I don't know who I manage like. I manage like Clint Courtney. That's the only one I wanna manage like."

"Do you have any one thing you tell your players, any special slogan or something?"

"No slogans. The only slogan I have is win."

"The Atlanta job is only for the rest of the season. Interim manager. How do you feel about that?"

"Wouldn't bother me at all. That's the only way they ever gave me a ball club, on a trial basis. I'm used to that."

That, Clint Courtney is. He came up originally to the big leagues on trial with the Yankees and was the most unorthodox looking ballplayer you ever saw, more so than Yogi Berra, but he made it. He made it by sheer dint of hard work, the same way Clyde King did.

They were discussing the Atlanta job in both All-Star clubhouses, and Baltimore manager Earl Weaver, who had him once as his second baseman with the Orioles, said, "why don't they give it to Davey Johnson?" He told me he was ready for it two years ago."

Now don't get upset, Dave. Earl Weaver was laughing when he said it.

NEW YORK (UPI) — After promising to make Maryland "the UCLA of the East" when he took over as basketball coach five years ago, Lefty Driesell was asked if he he was really that good a coach.

Driesell quietly drawled, "You give me (All-America) Charlie Scott and give North Carolina coach Dean Smith my guard, and I'll outcoach him every time."

So, without any particular genuis of coaching technique, Driesell has built the Terrapins into a national power by simply going out and getting more than his share of the Charlie Scotts.

College basketball championships are won during the April to June recruiting season, not December to March when the games are played.

Following the latest roundup of high school seniors, North Carolina State, UCLA and Maryland are destined to continue as powers, but may be joined by former poor boys Auburn, Clemson and Georgia.

Driesell, the former champion encyclopedia salesman of the state of Virginia, returned to the scene of past glories to land the prize catch of the 1974 recruiting season—Moses Malone.

The 6-11 center is expected to become college basketball's dominant center, at least until he turns professional.

In addition to Malone, Driesell came up with two more highly-sought prospects in 6-9 Chris Patton of Buffalo, N.Y., and 6-3 guard Brad Davis of Monaca, Pa., for a recruiting package the equal of any in the country.

North Carolina State won the top recruiting battle of three years ago when it outfought the rest of the nation's schools for the services of David Thompson. The fierce recruiting contest cost the Wolfpack a year's probation, for which they were compensated nicely with last year's national championship.

This year, the Wolfpack signed seven-foot Tom Barker of Southern Idaho Junior College, last year's junior college player of the year, 6-7 Kenny Carr, Adrian Dantley's replacement at Washington's DeMatha high school, and Chicago's 6-2 Robert Jackson.

UCLA, despite losing Bill Walton and Keith Wilkes, still has an army or two of former high school All-Americas, reinforced by Utah's seven-foot Brett Vroman and 6-7 Marvin Thomas, probably the best prep player in Los Angeles.

Other perennial powers such as North Carolina, Marquette, South Carolina and Providence picked up the customary high school All-America here and there.

The Tar Heels landed 6-2 homestate guard Phil Ford; Marquette lured a pair of top-notch guards in Butch Lee, one of the two best backcourt men in New York City, and Gary Rosenberger, Wauwatosa, Wis.; the Gamecocks filled their only need with guard Jack Gilloon of West New York, N.J., and Providence latched onto 6-9 Bruce Campbell, a large reason Wilbur Cross of New Haven, Conn., was the best high school team in the country.

But the 1974 recruiting season may go down as the year the Southeastern Conference decided "King Football" must share the spotlight.

Last year the SEC had the unheard of situation of two teams fighting for the conference crown and neither was Kentucky.

So the Wildcats' recruited with a vengeance this year, signing undisputed All-Americas in 6-10 Rick Robey of New Orleans, 6-4 hometown product Jack Givens and 6-11 Mike Phillips of Manchester, Ohio.

Auburn also had an excellent recruiting season with a powerful quartet of signees in 6-2 Jim Krivacs of Indianapolis, 6-8 Mike Mitchell of Atlanta, 6-7 Miles Patrick of Macon, Ga., and 6-11 Wayne Bracey of Brimingham, Ala.

Georgia reaped the bounty of the state's incredible crop of prep cagers by signing 6-7 Jackie Dorsey, 6-4 Tony Flanagan and 6-10 Lucius Foster.

Clemson took a giant step toward competing in the powerful Atlantic Coast Conference by signing 6-5 Stan Rome of Atlanta and 6-4 guard Skip Wise of Baltimore.

Southern California appeared to have pulled a major recruiting coup in landing a trio of All-America high schoolers, each reputed to be the best in his state. Earl Evans, a 6-6 forward from Port Arthur, was the undisputed best in Texas and one the premier players in the nation. The Trojans also signed 6-10 Steve Malovic of Phoenix and California's sharpshooting guard Mark Wulfemyer, but Wulfemeyer later signed a professional baseball contract with the California Angels.

In the Big Ten conference, Minnesota easily had the greatest success with the Gophers ready to bull their way through the opposition with 6-7 Mark Olberding of Melrose, Minn., 6-11 Chad Nelson of Yankton, S.D., 6-9 Dave Winey of Nashua, Mass., and 7-0 Eric Hovey of Twin Falls, Idaho.

Notre Dame lost an irreplaceable amount of talent, but signed a pair of standout players in 6-2 Donald Williams of Washington and 6-7 Dave Batton of Springfield, Pa.

And, looking for big surprises in next season's action, Illinois State and Rhode Island loom ready to spring a couple of major upsets.

Illinois State has a pair of All-Americas in Detroit's 6-8 Cyrus Mann and Chicago's 6-6 Billy Lewis, while Rhode Island landed 6-8 Victor Soares from Providence and 6-0 James Williamson, another from Wilbur Cross High in New Haven, Conn.

Philadelphia coach signs new contract

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A prayer Fred Shero made in a Russian monastery was answered Monday when the Philadelphia Flyers' coach signed a new three-year contract with the National Hockey League champions.

Shero, who traveled to the Soviet Union for a hockey seminar in June, said he visited the Gorski Monastery about 60 miles from Moscow two days before he left Russia.

"I lit a candle and I prayed I wouldn't have to leave Philadelphia," said Shero, who was wooed by Minnesota of the World Hockey Association. "Mr. Ed Snider (Flyers' board chairman) answered that prayer."

The Flyers tore up Shero's old contract on which there were two years remaining and gave the coach a new three-year pact for an estimated $80,000 a year. The old contract called for an estimated $40,000 next year.

"The aggregate sum of this contract is something less than offered by Minnesota, but when you take in other considerations, it is a fine contract," said Shero's agent, Mark Stewart. "This contract affords him the financial and national recognition he deserves."

The Fighting Saints of the WHA reportedly had offered Shero a long-term, $100,000-a-year contract with the promise that he would be coach and general manager and would have part interest in the franchise.

Shero, 48, said he always wanted to stay in Philadelphia.

"Despite the stories going around," he said, "I never really wanted to leave Philadelphia. I'm happy here and so is my family."

Neither general manager Keith Allen nor Shero would disclose details of the contract, but Shero said he now would be making as much as some players.

"I think it's ridiculous how much money untried players are signing for," he said, "while men who have dedicated their lives to this game have been paid like poor relations."

Shero will enter his fourth season as coach of the Flyers. He took Philadelphia to fourth place in his first year, to second in his second and to the Stanley Cup title in his third.

"Everyone in the Flyers' organization and the fans have treated me great," Shero said. "I guess the only way to repay them is to go out and win the Stanley Cup again."

UCR recruits cage star

RIVERSIDE—Dwight Tyler, 6-foot, 7-inch standout performer for Riverside City College basketball the past two years, will attend UC Riverside, basketball coach Freddie Goss has announced.

"He is so quick in getting the outlet pass," Goss said of Tyler, "I feel it is the strongeht part of his game."

"I know he has the potential to be an otustanding rebounder, even though he didn't show it completely at RCC or Ramona High School. But I feel he will be deep in the post position this year," Goss said, "so we can bring Dwight along without putting pressure on him early in the season."

Tyler, 20, averaged 12 points a game at RCC and was an All-Mission Conference basketball first team selection last season. He previously was chosen Most Valuable Player of the varsity at Ramona High, Riverside his senior year and was also an All-Citrus Belt League selection.

Tyler said he chose UCR because "they have such a fine record." Goss has won 98 games in five years at UCR as head coach.

Czech, Romanian teams win again

By United Press International

The United States and Australia, the two most powerful tennis playing nations in the world, must sit back and watch while a new Davis Cup champion, probably from the east, is crowned.

In matches held over from the weekend, Czechoslovakia defeated Germany 3-2 in Munich on Monday, while Romania beat France by a similar score in Bucharest.

With the defeat of France, a new name will be inscribed on the coveted bowl because none of the survivors ever has won the Cup. The United States, Australia, Britain and France are the only countries to have previously triumphed.

Czechoslovakia, paced by former Wimbledon champion Jan Kodes, meets Russia in the next round for the right to meet India for a place in the final, while Romania, led by world No. 1 Ilie Nastase, takes on Italy for the other final berth.

Jiri Hrebec, 23, survived a four-hour marathon against Hans Juergen Pohmann before emerging a 6-4, 6-1, 6-8, 12-10 victor to clinch Czechoslovakia's win over Germany after Pohmann had come back from a 5-2 deficit in the fourth set to lead 6-5. Ten service breaks followed in succession before the Czechoslovak held in the 21st game and clinched the match in the next game on his sixth match point.

In Bucharest, Francois Jauffret kept French colors flying by defeating Toma Ovici 6-2, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5 to tie up the match against Romania, but then Nastase entered the arena and whipped Pierre Barthes 6-2, 6-2, 6-3 to complete the Romanian victory.

Tennis pundits predict a final between Czechoslovakia and Romania with the Romanians favored if Nastase displays something like his normal form.

Indiana trades All-ABA guard

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — The Indiana Pacers Monday traded former all-ABA guard Don Freeman to the San Antonio Spurs for a future draft choice and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Freeman, a 6-3 guard, was with the Pacers for two seasons, averaging 14.3 points a game in 1973-74.

Baseball players give Marvin Miller raise

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Marvin Miller, executive director of the major league baseball players association, has been given a $20,000 pay raise by player representatives meeting here in conjunction with the All-Star Game.

Miller, who has been instrumental in helping the players boost their salaries in their dealings with owners, had his annual salary raised from $80,000 to $100,000. Additionally, the players voted to give Miller cost-of-living increases in 1975 and 1976.

Reggie Jackson, player representative of the Oakland A's, said the players also discussed changing the company which handles their medical insurance and the possible site of their winter meeting this coming November.

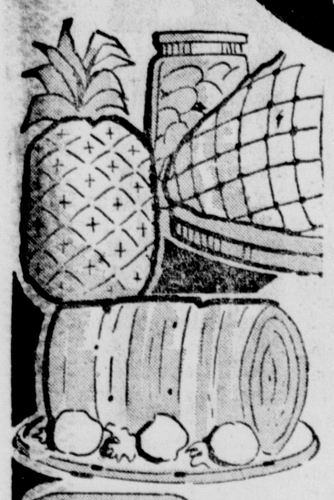

Brooks Robinson of Baltimore, Steve Rogers of Montreal, Mike Marshall of Los Angeles, Buzz Capra of Atlanta and Dave Chalk of California were among other All-Stars present at Monday's meeting.

Seek black candidate for mayor of Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — A special committee has been formed to choose a black candidate for the mayor of Chicago.

Charles Hayes, an international vice president of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters Union, announced the formation of the committee recently. The committee is composed of prominent Chicago black residents.

"We are concerned about the future of Chicago," Hayes said. "As whites flee from us to take up residence in the suburbs, our concerns must be for the stabilization of our city.

"We cannot run. Nor can we hide. We must turn Chicago around and give hope to those browns, native Americans and white people of good will who desire to carve out the future with our help."

Hayes said the black candidate would probably enter the Democratic primary for mayor next year. He said the committee would use eight criteria as a guideline for selecting a black candidate, with integrity and a record of community service high on the list.

Chicago alderman William Singer is the only announced candidate for the election. Mayor Richard J. Daley has not announced whether he will seek another term.

Hayes said the candidate must have a "willingness to put community interest above personal ambition," and must "understand that the mayor's race is a means toward political power for the black community, not a personal foray."

Other members of the committee include the Rev. Jesse Jackson, president of Operation PUSH and William Cousins and Anna Langford, both members of the city council.

Cite success of internal cast in cancer fractures

BOSTON (UPI) — Use of a special "internal cast" has been successful in treating four patients who suffered fractures due to bone cancer.

Drs. David H. Carlson and Ronald Adams of the Tufts University School of Medicine reported their findings in the July issue of "Radiology."

The process involves removing the disintegrated bone, filling the area with a special cement called methylmethacrylate, and then inserting a metal reinforcement.

The metal would not hold without the cement because of the destruction caused by the malignancy, the doctors said.

"The fractures do not heal across the cement," they reported on a study involving four patients. "Instead, the cement acts as an internal cast supporting the bone and metal and can withstand tremendous pressures."

The cement has been used previously in neurosurgery to reconstruct destroyed vertebra.

The doctors said the procedure should "soon find wide usage." They said the four patients were "spared the deteriorating effects of prolonged bed rest and had enjoyed a mobile, pain-free period of from six to 12 months when the report was written."

Radiologists, they said, can detect the location of the bone destruction before the operation and monitor the repair after it is completed.

6.1 million West Berliners visit East Germany

BERLIN (UPI) — A total of 6.1 million West Berliners visited East Berlin and East Germany from the time the Big Four Berlin agreement went into effect on June 4, 1972 to the end od 1973.

The U.S., British, French and Soviet agreement resulted in a lifting of an East German travel ban of many years standing.

The traffic was mainly one way. The Communists permitted only a handful of East Berliners to visit West Berlin. The Berlin Wall, barriers that include death strips with mines and barbed wire plus armed patrols and watchtowers, still prevent Germans crossing the frontier without permission.

River Plate estuary drains a large area

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The River Plate Basin in South America includes large areas of Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Paraguay and Uruguay.

The area is drained by the Parana, Paraguay and Uruguay rivers. Their more than 9,000 miles of navigable waters empty into the Atlantic through the River Plate estuary. An estimated 80 million people live in the region, which has a largely untapped potential for producing 60 million kilowatts of hydroelectric power.

Soul singer has come a long way

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Millionaire soul singer Isaac Hayes, who grew up on a west Tennessee cotton farm and rose to riches on the theme from the movie "Shaft," has come a long way.

Hayes now drives a modified, gunmetal gray luxury automobile which contains two radio-telephones, two sunroofs, closed circuit television, a separate color television set, refrigerator, strobe "go-go lights" and special air conditioning ducts.

Major Indian war

TULE LAKE, Calif. (UPI) — A major Indian war, the only one to be fought in California, took place in the lava flows of Lava Beds National Monument near here in 1872. A band of Modoc Indians held out against federal and volunteer troops for nearly six months.

Progress-Bulletin

Assist with projects

Wives of professional men have organized auxiliaries to assist with the various projects of the men's organizations and to promote friendships among women with common interests.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Tri-County Dental Society, Western District, has 39 members and meets on the third Thursday of the month. Officers are Mrs. William G. Sinclair, 1725 Oxford Ave., Claremont, president; Mrs. John H. Mertens, president-elect; Mrs. Allan Howe, secretary; Mrs. Thomas Watson, treasurer; and Mrs. Daniel Young, publicity.

One of the main functions of the auxiliary is to supply needy children with toothbrush kits. This year, 3024 kits were supplied. The group also presented a puppet show, "Adam's Apple," for 11,000 first to third grade students, flannel board demonstrations of proper diet and toothbrushing instructions to Head Start classes, a poster contest; supplied hospitals with dental care booklets for mothers of newborns; and sponsored five traveling classroom dental units to help children get acquainted with dental procedures.

Funds for the dental projects were raised, in part, through a fashion show and a Las Vegas night.

WIVES OF PROFESSIONAL Engineers is headed by Mrs. William Gelling, 2138 Victorian Way, Pomona. Assisting her are Mrs. Robert L. Gottier, vice president; Mrs. C.A. Van Dam, secretary; Mrs. R.L. Scheffler, treasurer; and Mrs. Gottier, publicity.

The 25 members meet on the fourth Thursday. Programs this year included a luau, a Christmas dance, Engineer's Week banquet, a fashion show and tea and a tour of a Pomona plant.

MRS. CALVIN CHAMBERLAIN, 4505 Briney Point, La Verne, is president of District 14, Women's Auxiliary, Los Angeles County Medical Association. Also serving as officers are Mrs. Fritz Moser, vice president; Mrs. Edward Daseler, secretary; Mrs. Carroll White, treasurer; and Mrs. Robert Dukes, publicity.

The auxiliary has 87 members who meet on the first Wednesday. The group provides financial help to nine scholarship recipients in medically related fields of study. Funds are also raised for the American Medical Association Educaton and Research Fund through the sale of Christmas cards, fruit cakes and other projects. Elderly cancer patients are transported to Pomona Valley Community Hospital for treatment.

CITRUS VALLEY LAWYERS Wives has 50 members who meet on the first Monday of the month to plan programs in support of the local bar associations and their objectives.

Delegates from the wives group assisted at the State Bar Association convention in September. A champagne brunch in the fall honored prospective new members. The Barristers Ball was held this year aboard the Queen Mary in Long Beach to raise funds for three scholarships presented to second-year law students in the area. Funds were also donated to the Legal Aid program and McLaren Hall.

Salute to women

Profound interest in the community and dedication to improving conditions for the underprivileged are the tenets by which clubwomen are known in the valley. Others dedicate their efforts to education and concern for the young and the old.

Today the Progress-Bulletin salutes four Woman Achievers along with thousands of valley clubwomen in the 13th annual edition of Valley Women for their great effort to help their communities.

Winners of the awards are Mrs. Helen Bouthton, Mrs. Eileen Carter, Mrs. Beverly Shacklett and Mrs. Margaret Stewart. Their stories are found on pages 8, 21, 17 and 14.

The women's staff of the Progress-Bulletin is very grateful to the individuals who submitted nominations for the awards and who completed forms on the many organizations so their club stories could be told in this edition.

We regret omissions and request that organizations that did not fill out club blanks send us their stories so that they may be printed in the regular women's new columns during the coming year.

Thank you,
MARY REMILLARD

Social sororities assist many in Pomona Valley

Chapters of social sororities in the valley spend much of their time assisting the elderly, the crippled children and chartering new chapters.

President of Delta Theta Chi sorority, Upsilon chapter, Alcyone province, is Mrs. Ed Johnson, 1129 Hermosa Drive, Pomona. Other officers are: Mmes. Nicholas Kelch, vice president; Mrs. Ernest Rawley, recording secretary; Mrs. Gene Miller, treasurer.

Purpose of the club, which meets on the second and fourth Thursday of the month, is social and educational. There are 25 members.

During the last year members attended the province convention in October at Madonna Inn, San Luis Obispo; held a Christmas party; hosted the province spring brunch in Claremont; and hosted a tea for the chartering of the new Sigma chapter in Riverside as well as an international dinner.

Chi Omega Alumnae of Pomona Valley have selected as their president Mrs. James Hood, 452 Chapparal, Claremont. Mrs. Kay Lott is press chairman.

The 15-member club meets on the first Monday of the month and plans social and philanthropic activities including assisting the Crippled Children's Society.

Special activities planned include the alumnae luncheon, parties for couples at Christmas and in the summer.

Mrs. John H. Anderson, 1904 Austin Court, Claremont, is president of Pomona Valley Alumnae Club of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Other officers of the 40-member unit are: Mrs. John E. Gillespie, vice president; Mrs. Drew S. Barden, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Philip B. White, publicity chairman.

Purpose of the sorority is to support active chapers of Kappa Kappa Gamma with recommendations for membership; to raise funds for the Rose McGill fund.

During the year the group held several luncheons at which time they prepare for sale live Christmas greenery for the Rose McGill fund which helps elderly Kappas. An arts and crafts party as held in the spring, a couples' party is planned during the summer.

Twins' moms active in assisting others

Mrs. Howard Wright of 1792 Buffington St., Pomona, is the president of the Mothers of Twins Club in which members exchange twins equipment and ideas and support foster twin boys in Bogota, Colombia.

The 41 members of the club meet the second Wednesday of each month. Their activities during the past year have included a children's Christmas party, attending three television quiz shows, an annual card party and the 18th annual fashion show to raise money for the foster twins.

Serving with Mrs. Wright are Mrs. Norbert Becker, vice president; Mrs. Milton Ashcroft, secretary; Mrs. Ted Gilbert, treasurer, and Mrs. Matthew Quay, publicity chairman.

Women serve as hospital volunteers

Service to the hospitals with which they are affiliated, volunteer fund raising and rendering help to promote better patient care in the hospitals.

The welfare of patients in the hospital is the purpose of the seven hospital auxiliaries in the valley.

MRS. ROBERT A. KEITH, 1122 Whitman Ave., Claremont, is president of Casa Colina Auxiliary. Other officers are: Mmes. M. G. Lacy, vice president; Roy L. Anderson, secretary, V. Rojansky, treasurer; and Jerry Laws, publicity chairman.

The 65 members hold their meetings on the fourth Monday of each month.

During the year club members presented 15 fashion shows from the auxiliary's boutique; conducted a Christmas card sale, round robin bridge, gift show and horse show. The auxiliary raised $10,000 during the year.

MRS. GERALD RATHBUN, 1239 Scott Ave., Pomona, is president of the 400-member Pomona Valley Community Hospital Women's Auxiliary. Vice president is Miss Edith Frances Eels, and secretary is Mrs. Delvin W. Ludwick. The treasurer is Mrs. Henry C. Kinney.

The auxiliary meets on the first Thursday of October, January, April and June.

The auxiliary contributed 32,000 hours in staffing 15 different services within the hospital. The Junior volunteers, Candystripers and Handystripers, served a total of 10,000 hours. In the past year seven families were helped by the auxiliary Sick Baby Fund which provides financial assistance to families with babies requiring extensive medical care; a sewing committee provided red Christmas stockings in which newborn babies were presented to their mothers; provided puppets for children in pediatrics and printed aprons which were worn by nurses in the pediatrics ward.

The auxiliary maintained a treasure chest in pediatrics, from which children may select their own treasure upon departure. Holiday favors were made for patient trays and for Meals-on-Wheels. Three $400 scholarships were awarded this spring to high school students.

This year the auxiliary completed its pledge of $100,000 toward the pediatrics wing of the hospital. Equipment in the amount of $7,060 was purchased for the neonatal nursery.

Proceeds from the annual May Breakfast, a Christmas Fantasy, along with those of the auxiliary gift shop and nursery photos enabled the organization to make the donations.

DOCTORS HOSPITAL of Montclair Auxiliary has Mrs. Mac Glassman, 9550 Fremont Ave., Montclair, as president. Other officers are Mrs. Melba Conant, vice president; Mrs. Jerry Lasher, secretary; Mrs. Lee Young, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Paul, publicity chairman.

The group meets on the fourth Wednesday, September through June.

The auxiliary opened a gift shop during the year, hostessed mother-to-be teas, participated in the Chirstmas charity bazaar at Montclair Plaza, donated funds to the x-ray department and purchased a Resusi-Anne, first aid mannequin.

CHINO GENERAL HOSPITAL Auxiliary has Mrs. Agnes N. Stewart, 12844 Monte Vista Ave., Chino, as its president. Other officers of the 90-member group are: Mrs. Bruce O. Lensch, vice president; Mrs. Elvin Embly, secretary; Mrs. Jim Fero, treasurer; Mrs. John Rhodes, publicity chairman.

The board meets on the first Tuesday of the month and the auxiliary holds four meetings each year.

Activity highlights since last September include volunteer and volunteen services to the hospital at the reception desk, gift shop and with patient care. During the year the auxiliary presented two scholarships of $500 each, one to a Chino High School graduate and one to a hospital employe. They held a valentine tea honoring doctors' wives, provided guides for tours for school children and guides at open house.

MRS. JAMES SULLIVAN is president of San Antonio Community Hospital Women's Auxiliary in Upland. Mrs. Richard McElvany is first vice president and Mrs. Robert Wright is secretary. Treasurer is Mrs. Donald Webber and publicity chairman is Mrs. George Gibson.

The 500 members meet on the first Monday of the month.

Highlights of the last year were a silver tea, carousel dinner dance, trump brunch, employees' tea, organizational coffee, maternity tours monthly, hospital tours for children's groups, book cart service to patients, reception desk service and operation of the gift shop by volunteers.

MRS. DONALD DENISON, 757 Kilnaleck, Glendora, is president of Foothill Presbyterian Hospital Auxiliary. First vice president is Mrs. Philip Gray, and secretary and treasurer are Mrs. Michael Crawford and Mrs. Bert Binegar. Miss Eula Mellon is publicity chairman.

The 267 members meet four times a year.

During the last year the group presented four $100 scholarships, held a holiday boutique to raise funds, purchased feeding tables for pediatrics and purchased a projector and casette for the education department. They contributed over 30,000 hours of volunteers service to hospital patients.

SAN DIMAS COMMUNITY HOSPITAL Auxiliary has as its president Mrs. Robert J.

HELEN BOUGHTON

Leads productive life

By WINNIE ROBERTSON
Asst. Women's Editor

Wearing several hats and frequently working a 16-hour day would depress most women, but Mrs. Helen Boughton, a 1974 Progress Bulletin Women Achiever thrives under the pressure.

"It's a busy, happy life with no two days alike," reports Mrs. Boughton as she discusses her professional role.

She has served as medical records administrator at Pomona Valley Community Hospital for 20½ years. Since 1953, Mrs. Boughton has also been executive secretary to the PVCH medical staff. Additionally, she serves as administrative assistant to Pomona District 56 Los Angeles County Medical Association, and administrative assistant to LACMA's Auxiliary.

"I am grateful to many men in my life," says Helen. "Walter W. Jones, a life underwriter, was my first boss before I married and raised a family. Then I worked part time for William M. Graeber Insurance Company until Drs. Welch and Schield asked me to use my medical record science background (obtained at Iowa State University) and be their medical secretary."

When she became medical records administrator at PVCH in 1956, the entire department was in a small room on the fourth floor with a one-girl staff.

In subsequent years, the department has grown to nine full-time and five part-time employees.

"When Dr. Elvin Stanton of Glendora became president of the medical staff in 1957, he said the staff needed a secretary and would I assume the responsibility?"

"At that time, it was no big deal. But this job, too, has grown like Topsy as the staff has developed into one of the best, well organized groups in the Southland.

"Then, in the next few years, the Pomona District of LACMA needed an administrative assistant and I seemed to be the logical one.

"My duties for the staff and LACMA include the normal secretarial responsibilities plus planning agendas and scheduling numerous meetings, many at breakfast, luncheon or dinner time.

"It's easy to keep the meetings from overlapping," laughs Mrs. Boughton. "I do all the scheduling."

The hospital administration have understood the "growing pains" of the department and provided needed personnel. The department now has five medical transcribers to meet the demands of the medical staff.

Keeping up with the newest technology, the department last year launched a computer program for medical records in a professional activity study and medical audit program to assist in the continuing education of the medical staff and para-medical personnel in the hospital.

For this information to be analyzed and disseminated to the doctors and staff at the hospital, Mrs. Boughton has been accepted for health record analyst training. She has completed the oral examinations and will leave Thursday for the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor for an intensive course.

The records are coded and kept completely confidential. The local patient records are correlated in a national system with specific information on diagnosis and treatment researched and computed to better assist the staff.

When the addition to the hospital now under construction is completed in 1975, the medical record department, medical staff office and continuing medical education complex, as well as the professional medical library, will be in the new building.

"This will increase the productivity and efficiency of the department even more," adds Helen.

To keep abreast with developments in the medical field, the Achiever has attended many professional institutes, workshops and seminars. In addition, she has instituted professional activity studies and a medical audit program in the medical records department at the hospital. She conducts training sessions for medical transcribers and medical records clerks.

The attractive brunette is chairman of the bylaws committee of the Medical Staff Secretaries Section of the Association Western Hospitals, a member of the American Association of Medical Records Administrators and a member of the Southern California and State Chapters of Medical Records Association.

But her demanding job does not preclude Helen's interest in community activities. She is secretary of the board of the Pomona YWCA and served this year as a division leader in the membership drive. She has held various offices and chairmanships in the Zanta Club of Pomona Valley and the Pomona Business and Professional Women's Club.

For five years, Mrs. Boughton served as secretary of the board of directors of Mt. San Antonio Council of Camp Fire Girls.

While her children were growing up, she was active in Girl Scouts and in PTA, serving as a unit president in 1961.

A devoted mother, Helen is proud of the accomplishments of her two children. Doug Boughton is in charge of the curriculum and teaching of visually handicapped children in the Los Angeles School District and Mrs. Madelon Murray, her daughter, is a private secretary in China.

She spends much of her spare time with her two young grandsons who she describes as "good future citizens."

Occasionally she even finds a few minutes for a favorite hobby, needlepoint.

"While certain days, especially Mondays, are hectic, I try to keep my cool. If I get to work early and have things well organized, I'm calm. Then everyone else seems to be calm, too."

Being calm, well organized, cheerful and serene are reasons for this Woman Achiever to wear those many hats so easily.

Daughters . promote friendship

The Royal Ascot Chapter of Daughters of the British Empire has 36 members who gather on the first Thursday of the month.

The officers are Mrs. John D. Harris, 827 Jasmine Ave., Ontario, president; Mrs. Edward F. Kelly, vice president; Mrs. William Doty, secretary; Mrs. Jack Brockie, treasurer; and Mrs. Jane Smyth, publicity chairman.

The nonprofit organization promotes Anglo-American friendship and goodwill. The main goal is to help support the British Home in Sierra Madre for elderly men and women of British birth or origin. The chapter also donates to Harvey Mudd College for a revolving student loan.

In December, all DBE Chapters in the Southland sponsored a movie benefit in Los Angeles. The annual British Home Faire was held on the grounds of the home in June.

Concert band is active

Providing a civic and cultural service through their support of the Pomona Concert Band, the Friends of the Pomona Concert Band meet the first Thursday of each month.

During the year the Friends sponsored a trip to the Hollywood Bowl and a Christmas party for the Band and assisted in a winter concert in Claremont.

Mrs. Carson E. Hawk serves as president of the 35-member group. Other officers are Mrs. Alma Pies, secretary; Mrs. Paul J. Schuergens, treasurer, and Le Roy Hughes, publicity chairman.

MRS. CARSON HAWK

Casa Colina aided by PBX Club

Newly elected president of the PBX Club of Pomona Valley is Mrs. Mary Buettner, 406 W. Hawthorne Ave., Ontario.

Other officers are: Mrs. Marcia Hellen, vice president and publicity chairman; Mrs. Raylene Scott, secretary; Mrs. Mary Jane Brown, treasurer.

The club is educational and is formed to raise the status of PBX operators. The 22 members meet on the second Wednesday of the month.

During the year the group held a Bosses' Night dinner and program, a Christmas party and a silent auction. The members contributed a sum of money to Casa Colina and sent delegates to the state convention in Anaheim and to the international convention in Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

Wet and dry

Brightly colored cotton umbrellas are becoming increasing popular as fashion accessories. Cotton reproduces color and pattern better than any other fabric used for umbrellas.

Auxilians help

Sullivan and secretary is Mrs. Virginia Abbington. Mrs. John Patrick Cullen is the treasurer, and publicity chairman is Mrs. Dennis Green.

The 220 members meet on the third Monday of each month.

During the last year a barbecue was held to raise funds for scholarships. Six recipients received a total of $2,000 for scholarships to further their education in medical fields. Volunteers work at the blood banks held at the hospital during the year. A membership brunch was held in the home of Mrs. Clyde Anderson in Glendora.

Fine Arts Foundation stimulates art interest

The Fine Arts Foundation of Scrkpps College has as its purpose the stimulation of public interest in art and the development of greater opportunities for the study of art at Scripps College.

Officers are Mrs. G. W. Gallman, 675 W. 9th St., Claremont, president; Mrs. Carl G. Wilson, vice president; Mrs. Robert Teare, secretary; Mrs. Robert Pastor, treasurer; and Mrs. Helen Eisworth, publicity.

Regular meetings for the 348 members are scheduled on the second Tuesdays of the month from October through May.

Among the programs presented during the past year were tours to the J. Paul Getty Museum, Desert Museum and Newport-Balboa. Speakers at the meetings included Millard Sheets, Peter Selz, Dr. E. McCung Fleming and Charles Luckman.

The foundation also conducted a one-day tour to San Francisco to visit Bay Area Art Museums; sponsored Docent tours through art shows at the Scripps gallery; presented a fiesta at Padua Hills in honor of Richard Petterson; published an art catalogue for the Ceramics Exhibition at Scripps College; assisted the curator of art once a week; and hosted a luncheon at Wilbur Hall.

The foundation also awarded six art scholarships to students at Scripps and Claremont Graduate School and gave $100 in prizes for the student art show in May.

DAR, Colonists are patriotic societies

Patriotic, educational and historical goals are supported by women's groups composed of descendents of early American families.

The National Society of the Daughters of the Amrican Colonists has as its regent Mrs. Francis A. McKee, 772 W. 9th St., Claremont. Other officers are Mrs. Robert B. Thompson IV, vice regent; Mrs. Alfred H. Maupin, recording secretary; Mrs. Aris C. Sanders, treasurer; and Mrs. McKee, publicity.

The chapter has 15 members and meets four times a year. This year, the new chapter won both state and national awards for achievements in carrying out the DAC objectives. Community activities included organizing a Girl Scout Troop, providing comfort and therapy for hospitalized veterans, and participating in the Bicentennial planning and the marking of a historical site. Membership is by lineal descent from an ancestor who rendered civil or military service in any of the colonies prior to July 4, 1776.

MRS. FRED W. JUERGENS, 3530 Damien Ave., La Verne, is regent of the Claremont Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The chapter has 70 members and meets on the first Thursday of the month.

Other officers are Mrs. Cecil L. Shagena, vice regent; Mrs. Calvin H. Mullen secretary; Mrs. Aris C. Sanders, treasurer; and Mrs. Arthur D. Jaynes, publicity chairman.

The chapter conducted an essay contest during American History Month and presented awards at Our Lady of the Assumption School. DAR Manuals were presented to a citizenship class for the foreign born. Awards for Homemakers and Good Citizenship were presented to high school girls. Flags and medals were also presented to students and groups. The Claremont chapter participated in erecting a marker at Santa Ysabel Mission near Ramona and presented a scholarship to Bacone College for Indians in Oklahoma. The chapter won national and state awards for its projects.

MARGARET STEWART

Has varied interests

By MARY REMILLARD
P-B Women's Editor

Involvement is a basic element in the makeup of one of the Progress-Bulletin Woman Achievers for 1974.

She is Margaret Sanders Stewart, a native of Ontario, who began a conscious involvement in serving people when she was still in high school. It was then that she resigned from the presidency of Girls League to run, successfully, for student body presidency of Chaffey High School, a role exclusively filled until then by boys. From then up to the present, Maggie, as her friends call her, has been involved!

"Life is never dull around my house, and I like it that way," says the wife of Walter E. Stwart, former councilman in Ontario. They are the parents of three daughters and have two grandchildren.

"I can truly say I've enjoyed enerything I've ever done," says this energetic woman whose interests have many facets.

She is quick to give credit to her husband for his cooperation in her various activities and understanding of the time involved.

Margaret went to work in civil service after atending Chaffey College. She was employed at the Army Cal-Aero Flight Academy in Chino which provided primary and basic flight training for the air force during World War II and was married in 1944.

Never one to be impressed by titles, Mrs. Stewart has served in jobs that in themselves were impressive, but she has also served in those jobs which might not be considered glamorous but which needed to be done.

A friend said of her, "The very special thing I can say about Maggie is that she is involved but she is also an involver—an involver of people so that they in turn can utilize their own special talents."

"She is a filler of gaps, performing any and all jobs with energy, enthusiasm and extraordinary talent," says another of her boosters.

Maggie believes strongly in the privileges and obligations of citizenship. She takes her privileges seriously and exercises her obligations in both partisan and non-partisan efforts.

She was founder of the Young Republicans in the Ontario area in the early 1950s, served the group as president, served on political steering committees, an election committee chairman and was a supporter of her husband while he served 12 years on the Ontario city council by attending council meetings of the League of California Cities and city functions.

She is currently press secretary for the San Bernardino County Republican Central Committee and an associate member of the state Republican Central Committee and serves as Ontario committee chairman for committee to elect Van der Poel for the 65th Assembly District committee and has assisted recently on other recent campaigns.

"Politics is fascinating to me and I love to be in the center of it," says the Woman Achiever.

Mrs. Stewart was a founder of the Oasis Youth Center in 1959 in Ontario.

"This," she says, "was one of my great interests. It was formed as a result of a need in the Ontario area for a place where kids and teenagers could gather for supervised fun and mutual interest. It served a great purpose and continued from 1959 to 1967. She was the club adviser for the entire program.

Mrs. Stewart was a founding member of Baldy View School PTA and served as president for two years. She was on the Hawthorne PTA board and received an honorary life membership from that group. At Chaffey High School she served on numerous citizens' groups in support of the school and district.

She held many offices in the Assistance League of Upland between 1951 and 1958 and has continued as a sustaining member since then. She is a past member of Beta Sigma Phi and served at one time as a public relations chairman for Santa Claus, Inc. of Ontario.

Maggie was the recipient of the Outstanding Citizen award of the National Conference of Christians and Jews in 1963 and is presently a board member of the Ontario division.

For her many years in Girl Scout work, Mrs. Stewart received the Thanks Badge, the Girl Scout highest award. Her interest in scouting began in childhood in Chaffey College. Through the years she was a Scout leader, Chaffey Council and East San Gabriel Valley Council trainer, board member, president of East San Gabriel Valley Council and president of Spanish Trails Council, 1965-1967, on the press corps staff at the national Girl Scout Round-Up at Farragut, Idaho in 1965 and became a professional serving as public relations director in 1967 and serving in that capacity for Spanish Trails Council currently. Mrs. Stewart was an adult observer for the Experiment in International Living in New Zealand in 1960 and a participant at the International Adult Adventure Session at La Cabana in Cuernavaca, Mexico in 1972.

For Chaffey College Mrs. Stewart is a member of a screening group which recommends types of exhibits and showings at the Rex W. Wignall Museum Gallery and serves on the sub committee for the museum gallery.

The executive director of the United Way, West End, has said, "The phrase "Key Volunteer" is sometimes very loosely used, but in Maggie Stewart's case it is an understatement. Her enthusiasm and zeal really make things go. She has been an involved volunteer for the West End for many years but, as chairman of the public relations committee last year, she topped all her previous accomplishments. One of the responsibilities of the public relations committee is to set up and stage the campaign kick-off, the campaign report meetings and the annual dinner meeting.

"Maggie with her flair for breathing life into what has been dull, routine, poorly attended meetings made those events bright, interesting and so peppy and enjoyable that they were well attended. The meetings set the tempo for the entire campaign and were highly instrumental in making the 1973-74 increase of $60,000 over the previous campaigns," he said.

The Stewart family does things together, and the three girls have taken up involvement in the community from their parents. With their sons-in-law and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. William Lee and Mr. and Mrs. John Hawkins and Miss Shirley Stewart the Stewarts love outdoor life and list water skiing as their favorite sport. Mrs. Stewart has become very interested in learning to play golf and somehow manages to find time for it in spite of her many activities.

"I want to give credit to my husband for never objecting to the time I have spent on community activities. His cooperation has been of utmost importance to me. My family has always come first, though, even if the total number of hours of involvement seem tremendous," she says.

Margaret Stewart has many friends and she is a friend vo countless people in the valley. Her interest in people is a contagious thing and her sunny disposition has smoothed away many problems.

Dangerous habit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — To would be gasoline siphoners, the word is DON'T.

Medical experts say even a small amount of gasoline swallowed or inhaled can make a person very ill. In some cases, it can be fatal.

Also, the slightest spark or flame—such as a water heater pilot light in a garage—can trigger an explosion.

A final word: Use a mechanical siphon, never your mouth.

MRS. KENNETH TESKE

Welcome Wagon unit greets newcomers

The Welcome Wagon Club of Claremont was established to offer social and community involvement for newcomers to the valley.

The club, with 60 members, meets on the third Thursday ofthe month.

Officers are Mrs. Kenneth Teske, 2467 N. San Diego Court, Claremont, president; Mrs. Robert Tidball, first vice president; Mrs. Perry Stewart, recording secretary; Mrs. Thomas McCrory, treasurer; and Mrs. Sonny La Fave, publicity.

Monthly activities include bowling, arts and crafts, bridge, golf and a couples' gourmet group. At the monthly luncheons, the programs included talks by a mayor and a doctor, a tea, musical entertainment, a fashion show and a tour. A wine-tasting and Basque dinner party helped to raise $300 for the Our House in Claremont.

Girl Scouts serve 24,000

Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council serves 20,000 girls and 4,000 adults in the council area.

Mrs. Sanford Newton, 1449 N. Gibbs St., Pomona, is president of the board of directors which meets on the third Wednesday of the month except in July and August. Other officers are Mrs. Gerald Weber, first vice president; Mrs. Joseph Arri, secretary; Hugh Crombie, treasurer; and Howard J. Snider, public relations.

MRS. SANFORD NEWTON

The Girl Scout organization helps girls develop as creative responsible individuals. Strong emphasis is made for the development of the individual girl even though the programs are in troop, camp and special opportunities.

Over 800 troops meet in churches, schools and homes for service projects, social and environmental action and career exploration. Campaing, home arts and creative arts provide the basis for activities. IGOR (Intergroup Out Reach), a cooperative program with Camp Fire Girls and YMCA at Ralph Welch Park has offered social opportunities to youngsters in the community. Last year, 2,208 girls attended Girl Scout camp and 3,503 adults participated in adult education or training programs.

Political education encouraged by league

The League of Women Voters is a national nonpartisan organization whose purpose is to encourage the informed and active participation of all citizens in government and politics. Three leagues serve the valley.

Mrs. D.E. Nunn, 22712 White Fir Lane, Diamond Bar, is president of the League of Women Voters of Pomona. Serving with her are Mrs. Patricia Marti, first vice president; Mrs. Helen Coonrod, secretary; Mrs. Nina Mangrich, treasurer; and Mrs. Elizabeth Honor, publicity chairman.

The unit has 70 members and meets on the second and fourth Wednesday of the month.

Highlights of the year include unit studies on campaign financing, land use, American Indians, housing, rapid transit and equal rights for women. The league also sponsored candidates meetings before the elections, and public Pro and Con meetings on the ballot measures.

THE LEAGUE of Women Voters of Claremont has 210 members and meets twice a month. Officers are Mrs. Mack Gilkeson, 402 E. Balaisdell Dr., Claremont, president; Mrs. Dan Rhoades, first vice president; Mrs. Alonzo Stoddard, secretary; Mrs. F. Raymond Iredell, treasurer; and Mrs. Arthur Brayfield and Mrs. Orlando Davidson, publicity.

The Claremont League's speaker Bureau filled 16 engagements to discuss the Pros and Cons of ballot measured and cosponsored three meetings for candidates. The league also organized a group to do a valid survey on the transportation needs in Claremont which has since been published. The group also honored women in government at a dessert and hosted the state president of the league at the annual meeting.

MRS. GEORGE SCHULTZ, 885 S. Benson Ave., Ontario, is president of the League of Women Voters of West San Bernardino County which has 42 members and meets twice monthly.

Other officers are Mrs. Arvid Wedin, vice president; Mrs. Joseph E. Johnson, secretary; Mrs. John Nicholson, treasurer; and Mrs. Richard Diver, publicity.

During 1973, this league studied transportation needs and Presidential power uses and abuses.

MRS. JOE GILLENTINE

La Leche League is active

Informal meetings are held on the third Thursday of each month by the 90 members of the La Leche League of Upland to acquaint others with the physical, psychological and practical sides of breastfeeding.

The league held a rummage sale and film night to raise funds to finance a trip for officers to the Fifth International Convention of the La Leche League in Chicago this month.

Serving as officers of the Upland league are Mrs. Joe Gillentine, 537 Cinderella Drive, Claremont, leader; Mrs. Timothy Painter, vice-leader; Mrs. John Haughland, secretary; Mrs. James Krahl, treasurer Mrs. Terry D. White, publicity chairman, and Mrs. Denis Baskin, librarian.

National WCTU marks its 100th birthday

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which celebrated its 100th birthday this year, is dedicated to the abolition of the liquor traffic and the following of Christian principles.

The La Verne WCTU has 64 members and meets on the second Tuesday. Officers are Mrs. H. Spenser Minnich, 2607 B St., La Verve, president; Miss Jane Wingard, vice president; Mrs. Ruth Weaver, secretary; Miss Edna Bohr, treasurer; and Miss Wingard, publicity chairman.

The La Verne units supplied films and literature on narcotics education in schools and conducted poster and essay contests. They sponsored a participant in the Inter-collegiate Oratiorical Contest. The group celebrated the anniversary of the WCTU. Mrs. Susan Shull, education director, attended the state convention in Brawley, annual state workshop at the University of Redlands and the 26th world convention in Norway.

THE POMONA-CLAREMONT WCTU has 71 members and meets on the third Thursday. Serving as officers are Mrs. Clifford Henning Sr., 735 St. Paul St., Pomona, president; Mrs. Alta Brown, vice president and publicity; Mrs. Bessie Johnson, secretary; and Miss Harriet Morley, treasurer.

During the past year, the president attended the state and county convention and the national convention in St. Paul, Minn. The unit distributed speech contest literature to six schools and over 3,500 YTE Bulletins and 25 posters. The WCTU sponsored campership for two young women. It also gave out 450 Young Crusaders to church and public schools and presented copies of "Heritage of Dedication" to the Pomona and Claremont Public Libraries. Members also baked cookies for police officers breaks during seven months.

Boy Scouts are aided by women

The Women's Service Board of Old Baldy Council of Boy Scouts of America has as its purpose the raising of funds and providing publicity for the scouting program.

Officers are Mrs. Robert Taylor, 2816 Tamarask, Ontario, president; Mrs. W. L. Toothaker, vice president; Mrs. Robert Vonder Reith, secretary; Mrs. Richard Kirkendall, treasurer; and Mrs. Vincent Martin, publicity chairman.

The 25-member group has a year-long program of recycling used uniforms for youths who might otherwise be unable to own a Boy Scout uniform. Funds raised during an Evening at Brookside Winery were used to extend scouting to more boys in the Pomona Valley. The board also purchased a security system for the council headquarters.

MRS. ROBERT TAYLOR

MRS. RUBEN HENDERSON

Sensible reduction encouraged

Mrs. Ruben Henderson, 921 Milford St., Pomona, is president of the TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) Club of California No. 6.

Other officers of the club, organized to assist persons to lose weight according to a doctor's instructions, are Mrs. Ernesto Garcia, vice president; Mrs. John Brinkley, secretary; and Mrs. Frank Rosselot, treasurer.

The 30 members meet every Monday evening. The club celebrated its 18th birthday in March and members attended the area recognition day in Riverside and the state recognition day in Anaheim. Chapter 6 is the oldest club in California.

rs. Shacklett feels there dangers when too little ntal interest is shown ren.

"While working in the ols, we always tried to programs that would be nterest to the parents," said. "Invariably we hed the parents we didn't to reach. The parents really needed to know t was happening didn't e. It was their children suffered and caused blems for society."

Mrs. Shacklett feels thare is ger, too, if too much par- al influence is exerted. rents can smother chil- n, hinder personality de- opment. They have to rn when to stand back and children make their own isions.

"I really don't think I've othered my children. I like feel I've been helpful to m," she said.

"I think parents can be ore understanding of their ildren if they keep active d know and analyze what is ing on. It helps parents to ep growing. They learn what life is all about today r their children, if they ep informed."

Mrs. Shacklett is 43 and a tive of Los ngeles. She has ved in Claremont 21 years.

Her career of public service began in 1954 when she joined the Pomona Emblem Club. She still is active in the group.

She is a member of the Claremont United Church of Christ and taught Sunday School from 1959 to 1961.

She joined the Claremont Junior Women's Club in 1957 and worked with it two years.

In 1961, she accepted the position of social chairman of the Mt. View School PFA. She was first vice president in 1962 and president in 1963. That same year she served as health and safety chairman of the El Roble PFA. She was first vice president at El Roble in 1964 and president in 1967-68.

The following year, she was El Roble parliamentarian and a member of the nominating committee at Claremont High School PFA. In 1971, she was second vice president at Claremont High, and in 1972, president. She was parliamentarian this year.

Last spring she and her husband chaired the Claremont High senior party.

Mrs. Shacklett was campership chairman of the Claremont Coordinating Council in 1967, and in 1967 served with the education committee which put out the book on Youth And The Law. She still is a member of the cobrdinating council.

In 1964, she was president of the Elementary Advisory Council and in 1969, president of the PFA Central Council. She served as Central Council secretary in 1972 as well as secretary of the Traffic Safety Committee. She was a member of that committee from 1969 to 1973 and served as vice chairman in 1971.

She joined Claremont Family Service in 1968, as vice chairman in 1971-72 and is the recipient of a Family Service Achievement Award.

In 1970, she was selected for the committee to appoint a superintendent for the school district. In 1972 she served on the Claremont Needs Assessment Committee. She was elected to the school board in 1973 and that same year was named to the Mt. Baldy View Regional Occupational Program commission.

Mrs. Shacklett served as a volunteer at Pomona Valley Community Hospital from 1968 to 1970. She was a Little League team mother in 1967-68. From 1971 to 1974 she was a member of the Claremont High School Quarterback Club.

In 1973 she served as secretary of the Women's Service Board of Old Baldy Council, Boy Scouts of America. She still is active on the board. She was Eagle banquet chairman of Troop 407.

Mrs. Shacklett is a member of the Assistance League of Pomona Valley, and the Republican Women's Club of Claremont where she has served as corresponding secretary and parliamentarian.

Her son, Bill, is married and working. Robert attends the University of Montana in Missoula. He wants to coach. David was graduated this month from Claremont High School and is working this summer. Kathleen will be a sophomore at Claremont High next year.

Right now the school board gets the major portion of Mrs. Shacklett's attention. "Our budget looks bad. Declining enrollment cuts into our ADA. We have to make program cuts. We just have to wait and see to what extent we have to cut. Then, there's inflation. Costs are up. It's very difficult and very interesting. I've learned so much this year.

"I feel we have an excellent board in Claremont. We work together. We get and give respect."

Occasionally the Shacklett get to leave the city and spend a weekend walking, fishing and hiking at their Lake Arrowhead home.

Once a week they bowl with Pomona Elks mixed team. Mrs Shacklett has a 136 average.

She loves sports and is a Dodger fan. She likes to play golf. "I'm not very good, but I do enjoy the out-of-doors," she said.

Looking ahead, the Shacletts would like to travel and have more time for golf.

Nail break

Try a change from nail polish this summer. Instead of applying polish, buff your nails for a pretty shine. You'll need a kit with a cream or powder and a chamois buffer.

David and Margaret Friends aid girls

Friends of David and Margaret help support the David and Margaret Home, Inc., a home for teen-age girls, in La Verne.

The 200 members of the organization meet the second Monday of each month and also serve as volunteers in varied positions at the home. Members are residents of various communities throughout Southern California.

Leading the auxiliary is Mrs. Clifton Allen of 1479 N. Euclid Ave., Upland, president. Officers serving with her are Mrs. Eugene Adlef of Buena Park, vice president; Mrs. Norman Cadman of Claremont, secretary; Mrs. Maurice Jones of San Dimas, treasurer, and Mrs. Wallace Riutcel of Fullerton, publicity chairman.

During the year club members attended a fashion and talent show presented by the girls of David and Margaret Home and raised funds to provide special medical, dental and counseling help for girls at the home.

MRS. CLIFTON ALLEN

Jumpsuit

The jumpsuit for evening continues in popularity. Leo Narducci of New York does it for fall in a slim jersey "tube" shape, topped with a turquoise chiffon poncho, printed with Art Nouveau vine pattern in black.

MRS. ROBERT HECHT

Auxiliary is social group

With a membership of 45, the Pomona Fire Department Women's Auxiliary meets on the second Tuesday of the month.

Heading the group this year are Mrs. Robert Hecht, 1946 Judson Court, Claremont, president; Mrs. Kirt Lindebaum, vice president; Mrs. Westley King, secretary; Mrs. Ron Bozarth, treasurer; and Mrs. Joe Read, publicity chairman.

While the organization is formed as a social group among the wives of firemen, its main purpose is to serve the firemen when they are on a fire for an extended time. The members prepare sandwiches, coffee, cold drinks, etc. They respond when called by the chief in charge and have assisted at four major fires.

Activity highlights include a Christmas party for children, get-acquainted potluck dinners, an Easter Egg hunt for youngsters at Lincoln Park and a trip to a TV show. In addition, the auxiliary has helped at four retirement dinners for fire department personnel and at the fireworks show at the fairgrounds on the 4th of July.

Education is first interest of AAUW

The American Association of University Women strives to unite the alumnae of colleges and universities for educational work and to incease influence in the community for the solution of social and civic proglems.

Mrs. Ted W. Swartz, 424 Elder Drive, Claremont, is president of the Pomona Valley Branch. Other officers are Mrs. D. H. Douglas, vice president; Mrs. Robert C. Gius, secretary; Mrs. J. C. Menees, treasurer; and Mrs. Virginia Coffey, publicity.

The branch has 137 members and meets on the second Tuesday evening of the month.

During the past year, the group established Volunteers in Art program with the Pomona Unified School District; raised $1,000 for Fellowships through a December home tour and boutique; and presented a Reader's Theater program, "Women Through the Ages."

MRS. TED W. SWARTZ

Women's golf clubs sponsor tournaments

Women's golf clubs have been organized at valley courses to provide amateur golf activites and social events for women golfers.

Mrs. Raleigh Kinker, 560 E. Bucknell, Claremont, is president of Red Hill Women Golfers. She is assisted by Mrs. Fred Williams, vice president and tournament chairman; Mrs. Doug Birdsall, secretary; Mrs. Neal Thomas, treasurer; and Mrs. Paul Gardner, publicity chairman.

Among the highlights of the year were team play matches with other country clubs, the annual Pow Wow Invitational of 31 Southern California Clubs, the President's Cup tournament in January and February and the Club Championships in May. The club has 150 members.

THE DIAMOND BAR Women's Golf Club meets every Wednesday and has a membership of 45.

Officers are Mrs. Ted Le Roy, 15018 Lashburn, Whittier, president; Mrs. Jacob Dietrich, vice president; Mrs. Vincent Kater, secretary; Mrs. Alan Patterson, treasurer; and Mrs. Richard Steck, publicity chairman.

WITH 52 MEMBERS, the Los Serranos Women's Golf Club meets every Tuesday. Serving as officers are Mrs. Loren F. Stone, 12116 Abacherli Ave., Chino, president; Mrs. Helen Sprague, first vice president; Mrs. Robert Kaufman, secretary; Mrs. James Hudson, treasurer; and Mrs. Ken Schlick, publicity.

Activities this year included the President's Cup tournament in September, and invitational meet in May and the Club Championships in June.

MARSHALL CANYON Women's Golf Club has 39 members and meets on Tuesdays.

Serving as officers are Mrs. Leif Ericson, 2364 Silver Tree Rd., Claremont, president; Mrs. Thomas Keenan, vice president; Mrs. Robert Harbicht, secretary; Mrs. Robert Wilson, treasurer; and Mrs. Daniel Hurwyn, publicity chairman.

MRS. RALEIGH KINKER

MRS. TED LE ROY

Educators are united

Two area chapters of Delta Kappa Gamma, a chapter of Pi Lambda Theta and the Claremont chapter of California Women in Higher Education have as their main interest the education of women and to unite women educators.

DELTA KAPPA GAMMA Society, Epsilon Sigma chapter, has Mrs. James Walker, 5556 Franics St., Chino, as its president, First vice president is Mrs. Georg Meffan, and Mrs. E. J. Wangler is recording secretary. Mrs. Jack R. Chick is treasurer and the publicity chairman is Mrs. Muriel Desilets. The 32 active and one honorary member meet once a month during 10 months of the year.

Purpose of Delta Kappa Gamma Society is: to unite women educators of the world; to honor women who have given or who evidence a potential for distinctive service in any field of education; to advance the professional interest and position of women in education; to support educational legislation; to stimulate personal and professional growth of members; and to inform membership of current issues in economic, social, political and educational fields.

During the last year members heard programs by Marge Allen, past president of Chi state, DKG; Ruth Wilkinson, principal and former reading teacher; Ruth Church Gupta, attorney and legislative advocate for DKG. Members attended a mini convention at Palm Desert, initiated six members and admitted an honorary member, attended Alpha Pi chapter symposium and a chapter meeting where Mrs. Virginia Johnson, assistant professor in teacher preparation at Cal Poly, and Mrs. Beverly Benjamin, coordinator of early childhood education at Chaffey College, were speakers; presented grants of $100 each to Mrs. Mark Tremayne and Miss Jennifer McDowell for assistance in education.

MISS MARGARET LINGER, 1320 5th St., La Verne, is president of Delta Kappa Gamma Society, Beta Mu chapter.

Other officers are: Mrs. Margaret Reel, vice president; Mrs. K. J. Nevins, recording secretary; Miss Carol Bennetts, treasurer; and Mrs. R. J. Newton, publicity chairman.

The 60 members meet once a month.

During the last year the group presented a $100 scholarship to a Claremont High School student and honored outstanding young citizens from all area high schools with certificates of recognition. The chapter also held a reception for the youth, parents and school administrators.

ALPHA IOTA CHAPTER of Pi Lambda Theta is a national honorary education fraternity.

President is Mrs. Dori Hart, 2987 Gayridge St., Pomona. Miss Maxine Shurtz is vice president, and recording secretary is Mrs. Ted Glauthier. Miss Dorothy Grant is treasurer. There are 257 members in the Claremont Graduate School chapter.

During the last year the group published the book "Iyabo of Nigeria" by Rhoda Johnson, a native of Nigeria; hosted the national Pi Lambda Theta biennial conference; hosted an authors' tea at Claremont Reading Conference; held book fair in connection with the conference.

THE CLAREMONT CHAPTER of California Women in Higher Education attempts to educate women regarding the rights and opportunities to which they are entitled as people involved in higher education and to take action whenever a situation of discrimination occurs.

MRS. JAMES WALKER

Mrs. Odette Meyers, 343 Harvard Ave., Claremont, and Mrs. Tobe Orrell, 7432 Via Salsipuedes, Cucamonga, are coordinators. Secretary is Mrs. Betty Eirls and treasurer is Mrs. Sara Calvillo-Cuecuecha. Communications chairman is Mrs. Katheleen Pearce.

The 30 members hold meetings every week, alternating between Wednesday and Thursday and one evening meeting each month.

During the year the organization sponsored two evening meetings. The March meeting concerned Affirmative Action. At the April meeting educational and career opportunities available in the area were made known.

LEEN CARTER

Looks on positive side

By MAE TATE
P-B Staff Writer

leen Carter of Chino is a an of affirmative action balances a "basket of lism" with practical real- and research.

I was brought up to be e if you had any com- int, be sure you could do ething about it before you plained. Don't criticize hout offering a construc- e alternative," said Mrs. rter.

"I can't say I'm an in- rable optimist, but I think e's survival in this world quires looking at the posi- ve side of things. If you're oing to do anything construc- ive, you must look at the ositive side."

With that philosophy in ind, Mrs. Carter has be- ome a viable force in her West End community. Her la- est accomplishment is elec- ion to the Chino City Council.

The list for community par- icipation is long and impres- ive — co-founder and past president of the West End League of Women Voters; chairman of the planning commission from 1958 to 1967 and member from 1971 to election to the council; chair- man of the Citizens Civic Cen- ter Committee which success- fully engineered the tax over- ride election; West Valley Planning Agency repre- sentative; charter member of Chino Valley Historical Society; 1973 citizen of the year; member of the Civic Center Strategy freeway and landscape committees; co- founder of the local Future Homemakers of America; member of the county charter review committee.

She voiced surprise and some embarrasment for the achievement recognition. Modesty claimed her in a mo- mentary protest.

"There are people and people and people all around who are unsung and unseen who are really the achievers. You think of the mother who creates well-balanced, con- structive, creative young per- sons — that's an achieve- ment," she commented.

Mrs. Carter and her hus- band, Ned, a machinist in the research-engineering depart- ment of Sunkist, moved to Chino 31 years ago. As a resi- dent and property owner, she decided she should play a part in the development of the community. So when asked to sign a petition against the first master plan for the City of Chino, she stalled until she could inves- tigate the matter.

The result was support of the plan itself, but oppositon to the accompanying zoning ordinance that called for drastic changes immediately. The council rejection of the ordinance resulted in a mass resignation of the city's planning commission. The new appointments included the tall, slim woman who had served as spokeswoman for the citizens' group.

That was the beginning of the exploration into the world of politics. She has been an energetic participant ever since.

In helping form a League of Women Voters chapter for the area, Mrs. Carter admitted an ulterior motive.

"It seemed to me, as it seems to anyone who gets into local government, that people are disinterested and apathetic. This was a left- handed way of generating in- terest. I thought if we took a national organization, rather than a local protest group, with some background for making decisions, it might supply leadership to the com- munity.

"It didn't do what I thought it would, but now that it has become a larger league, it's been fairly effective in in- fluencing legislation at the county and state levels," she stated.

Mrs. Carter, a teacher for 20 years in Chino, Pomona and Riverside schools and Pepperdine University, has moved in circles that most women in small towns do not frequent. She holds the unique position now of being the on- ly woman on the City Council. She would be considered by modern standards a liberated woman, but she possesses no involvement with women's lib.

She declined membership in the statewide Organization for Elected Women because she didn't think a separate organ- ization was the answer. "The group that you represent is the council of your own city," she commented.

Although there may be some grudging admission of her qualifications, despite her sex so to speak, she foresees little problem solely on the basis of being a woman.

"I feel that if what I'm doing is right, then I can get support and do it. I'm not denying femininity or wom- anhood, but I don't feel I have to rely on it. At the same time, I don't consider it a handicap," she said.

"Perhaps it's a little easier for me because I'm not a mother. If I were I'd feel a strong responsibility toward my children. I don't mean I'd make them dependent on me, but I would be hesitant to spend so much time away from home."

Mrs Carter celebrated her 35th wedding anniversary ear- lier this month and was pleased with the years gone by and looked with optimism on the role playing of today and its compatibility with her life as a housewife.

"Ned and I respect each oth- er's individuality. In many ways our interests parallel, but not always. He doesn't mind. He's probably no more interested in my politics than I am in his ball games," she chuckled.

The gratification of serving on the council is derived from actions that actually lead so- mewhere.

"I feel that I'm literally doing something. Things end up on the streets or they don't," she concluded.

The right step

Take a step in the right di- rection for foot health. Vary heel heights often. For in- stance, women should alter- nate high platforms with low heels. Male tennis addicts should get off those rubber soles and into other shoes with more heel. Variation in heel height helps feet feel more comfortable, and gives different leg and foot muscles their fair share of exercise. The advice comes from the newly formed Sole Leather Council.

MRS. VICTOR G. TESSIER

Lamaze method taught

Preparing Expectant Par- ents, Inc., is designed to teach the Lamaze method of prepared childbirth to expec- tant parents. Class series of two month duration are at- tended during the final two months of pregancy.

PEP has 52 teachers who train between 100 and 200 stu- dents per month. Officers are Mrs. Victor G. Tessier, P.O. Box 838, Pomona, president; Mrs. John Calvin, vice presi- dent; Mrs. Zelda Albee, se- cretary; and Mrs. Art Asle- sen, treasurer.

During the past year, teach- ers have attended local, area and national workshops. Monthly films are presented free of charge to the public. Public lectures were pre- sented at local high schools and at Cal Poly and Chaffey Colleges.

Films are shown on the fourth Thursday of each month.

DR. HELEN M. WALKER

Pen Women conduct workshop

Dr. Helen M. Walker, 926 W. Harrison Ave., Claremont, is president of the Claremont Branch of the National League of American Pen Women.

Other officers of the 32- member branch are Mrs. Phi- lip White, vice president; Mrs. R. D. Wolcott, secret- ary; Mrs. Martin Cooper, treasurer; and Miss Marie Russ, publicity chairman.

The branch meets on the second Thursday of the month to conduct and promote creat- ive activities in the arts, let- ters and musical composition, bringing together for their mutual professional and fi- nancial benefit women en- gaged in the creative work of pen, pencil and brush.

Activity highlights for the year included an informal workshop in writing, a talk on the poetry of the Bible, a fo- rum on women in journalism, a forum on writing for chil- dren and a spring luncheon featuring authors Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Gordon.

Rembrandt unit fosters art interest

Founded in 1905 by the first students and faculty of the Art Department of Pomona College, the Rembrandt Club of Pomona College and Claremont now has a membership of 150.

Officers are Mrs. Richard N. Sheirich, 441 Harvard Ave., Claremont, president; Mrs. Thomas Sawyers, vice president; Mrs. Edward G. Jones, secretary; and Mrs. Alex Baker, treasurer.

Meetings are scheduled on the first Thursday afternoon in the fall, winter and spring months. The purposes are to foster the interests of the art department and to promote the study of art in all branches. Lectures this year were presented by museum curators and prominent artists.

The special event was the didication of a sculpture by Robert I. Russin in the Carolyn Bartel Lyon garden at the college. The club gave benches to the garden at the same time. A Christmas bazaar was held in December and a bus trip to the J. Paul Getty Museum was staged in January.

MRS. WARD TURNEY

Musicians assist in educating

Musicians' Club of Pomona Valley has 165 members and meets on the fourth Tuesday of each month from October through May.

Officers are Mrs. Ward M. Turney, 1430 N. Mountain Ave., Claremont, president; Mrs. Melvin Pinner, first vice president; Miss Helen Gipson, secretary; Mrs. Franklin B. Vincent, treasurer; and Mrs. Ira F. Vail, publicity chairman.

Purpose of the club is to stimulate and broaden the musical interest of its members and the community. It consists of musicians and "good listeners" interested in worthwhile musical programs.

The club aids in the musical education of youth through the John Child Walker Talent competitions where winners are offered scholarships. In the 14th annual competition at Pomona College, 65 young musicians participated for awards and trophies.

Section meetings are held at the home of members.

New varieties of tomatoes can differently

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.Y. (UPI) — New varieties of low acid tomatoes make an old canning method unsafe.

Extension specialist Audrey C. Burkart, Rutgers Cook College, advises adding vinegar to tomatoes canned by the boiling water-bath method. If you want to can them without added vinegar, use a pressure-canner to prevent spoilage.

Miss Burkart also warned against using agricultural lime in old recipes that call for slaked lime, or a limewater solution to keep acid produce firm. It's loaded with impurities, she said. Only the pure kind, labeled calcium hydroxide U.S.P., is used.

Republicans aid party

Three local Republican women's organizations are dedicated to the education of members in political, government and civic areas; to support Republican candidates through precinct and other campaign work; and to community service.

The Pomona Valley Republican Women's Club, Federated, has 200 members and meets on the second Thursday of the month.

Officers are Mrs. Marvin Grove, 1785 Yorba Drive, president; Mrs. Hollis Page, vice president; Mrs. Paul F. Weisend, recording secretary; Mrs. C. Arnold Stevenson, treasurer; and Mrs. Robert C. Gustaveson, publicity.

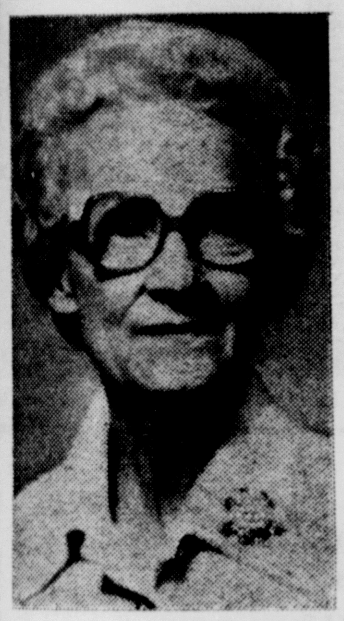

In addition to hosting speakers at its luncheons, the club members attended state, county and national conventions; assisted with hostessing at the national convention in Los Angeles; participated in a county-wide fashion show at the Century Plaza; manned a booth at the L.A. County Fair; and sponsored a benefit party at Claremont Colleges Faculty House. Members also assist with Meals on Wheels and veterans hospital programs. The club awarded a $50 scholarship in government and civics and donated three books to the Pomona Public Library.

THE CHAFFEY COMMUNITY Republican Women are headed by Mrs. Dell M. McDaniel, 551 Emerson St., Upland, as president. Other officers are Mrs. Ernest Henderson, vice president; Mrs. A. Bruce Sutton, secretary; Mrs. Steve Krynski, treasurer; and Mrs. Robert Busch, pulicity.

The club has 250 members and meets on the fouth Wednesday of the month. Events during the past season include an annual membership tea, programs by political speakers, a day at the races and a luncheon and fashion show at Casa Colina. Members also register voters and staff a year-round headquarters in Ontario.

THE CLAREMONT Republican Women's Club has 175 members and meets on the third Wednesday of the month. Officers are Mrs. Donald G. Cross, 755 Occidental Drive, Claremont, president; Mrs. Albert Moore, vice president; Mrs. James Edwards, secretary; Mrs. Dennis O'Connor, treasurer; and Mrs. William Anderson, publicity chairman.

Candidates for Congress, Secretary of State and Claremont City Council addressed the club's luncheon meetings. Other speakers includes a representative of the Fair News Committee, and Casper Weinberger, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, who addressed the Lincoln Day dinner. A membership tea and a fashion show provided social highlights for the club year.

MRS. RAY F. LOVE

Cultural interests encouraged

The Pomona Ebell Club was founded for the advancement of the philanthropic, charitable, cultural and educational interests of its 350 members and for the general advancement of the community.

Mrs. Ray F. Love, 205 E. Jefferson Ave., Pomona, is president of the club which meets on the first and third Fridays of the month for luncheon and tea programs.

Other officers are Mrs. George T. Yanok, vice president; Mrs. Ardell Holt, secretary; Mrs. Florence Tower, treasurer; and Mrs. Herman Wente, publicity chairman.

In addition to the regular program meetings, members are urged to participate in the various sections with a range of interests form bridge to travel and interior decoration. Special events inluded a Christmas Tea and Boutique, annual fun festival "Welcome Sweet Springtime," the Elegant Elephant Sale, and merit awards to Junior Ebell girls.

Bathing machines were used in the 18th and 19th centuries in England and France. The horse-drawn box on wheels was a bath-house for changing and was then driven into the water, away from the beach. Bathers stepped down or were lowered into the water. When they wished to return to the beach, they signalled with flags for the vehicle to "pick them up."

Assistance Leagues aid community needs

The Assistance Leagues of Pomona Valley and Upland are both dedicated to meeting specific needs in their communities.

The Pomona Valley League has established a new Senior Citizens Community Center this year in its League building. Open house is scheduled each Thursday morning for social activities and the creation of teaching aides for special education schools.

Officers of the Pomona Valley group are Mrs. William W. Garrison, 2578 Mountain Ave., Claremont, president; Mrs. John Pitzer, vice president; Mrs. James Kelly, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles West, treasurer; and Mrs. Richard Craviera, publicity chairman.

The 55 members meet on the first Tuesday of the month. Highlight of the season was the 39th annual garden party fashion show at Scripps College featuring international designer fashions.

MRS. MILTON BRACEY, 2345 N. Euclid Ave., Upland, is president of the Assistance League of Upland which has 50 members and meets on the second Thursday of each month.

Serving with her are Mrs. Wolfgang Koessler, vice president; Mrs. Thomas Harris, recording secretary; Mrs. Eugene De Young, treasurer; and Mrs. Philip Savage, publicity chairman.

The group supports the Cucamonga Girls Club where youngsters learn cooking, sewing and arts and crafts. The league also provides dental care for needy children and a dental health education program for all children in the West End through the San Antonio Community Hospital Dental Center. Other projects assisted are the YMCA — Cucamonga Boys' Club and a tutoring fund at Alta Loma High School.

Special events this year included the Patroness Tea in October, a day at the races in November, Mistletoe Ball in December and a fashion show luncheon in the spring.
